ONE MAN KILLED IN GREAT AUTO RACE

GREAT AUTO RACE WON BY AMERICAN.

Represented France and Used Imported Car—One Man Killed—Many Thrilling Escapes on the Road.

NEW YORK, October 8.—George Heath, an American, driving an imported car and representing the Automobile Club of France, to-day won the William K. Vanderbilt Jr. cup in the 300-mile road race held on Long Island under the auspices of the Automobile Club of America. He won by the narrow margin of one minute and twenty-eight seconds.

ONE LIFE LOST.

The contest cost one life and at least four persons were injured, none of them, however, fatally. The fatal accident occurred to the car of George Arents Jr., a wealthy New York man, and the man killed was Karl Menzel, his machinist. Arents' car was No. 5, and he was driving at a tremendous speed, when just as he approached a sharp curve on the Hempstead road, a front tire slipped and the great sixty-horse power machine went over. Both Arents and Menzel were hurled with tremendous force to the roadway. Both were picked up unconscious and hurried to a hospital, where Menzel died in a short while. Mr. Arents' injuries are said not to be of a serious character. All of those injured were connected in some way with the race, most of them being helpers.

ONLY SEVEN LEFT.

Of the eighteen starters who went across the line at 6 o'clock this morning, but seven were left when the seventh lap of the course was finished. Bursted tires, broken parts of machinery and other mechanical derangements were the causes of the most of the dropping out. Gabriel, the noted French driver, who was looked upon as a likely winner, was well in the lead in the first three laps, but he was gradually overhauled and passed and in the seventh lap, when he broke a crank shaft, he dropped out of the race.

NEAR THE FINISH.

When there were but two rounds left of the ten required to finish the ninety miles it was evident that the contest lay between Heath and Albert Clement, who also drove an imported car and represented the Automobile Club of France. Clement finished second and H. H. Lyttle, driving an American machine, was third. His car was of but twenty-four horsepower, while Heath drove a ninety horsepower car and Clement an eighty.

THE WINNER.

Heath, the winner, covered the 300 miles in five hours, twenty-six minutes, forty-five seconds; Clement, the second man, in five hours, twenty-eight minutes and thirteen seconds. Clement entered a protest against Heath being declared winner, on the ground that his time had not been taken according to the conditions which were to govern the race. After the protest had been received, the decision declaring Heath the winner was withdrawn.

THE PROTEST.

A final decision will be reached later in the day, after the protest has been formally presented to the Automobile Associaton of America at a special meeting which was called for that purpose. Heath claimed he was held up in Hempstead over a minute and a half while making repairs to his gasoline tank. This time, he claims, under the rules governing the contest, should have been deducted from his actual time. Clement also said there were several other matters which he intended to bring before the association at the meeting which has been called to receive his formal protests.

FAST TIME.

Heath wins the race and the William K. Vanderbilt Jr. cup by one minute and twenty-eight seconds, and it is believed that many records were broken. Heath covered the last and tenth round in 27 minutes and five seconds. Albert Clement was second and Lyttle third.

THOSE ENTERED.

Promptly at 6 o'clock this morning, the first car shot away from Westbury, L. I. in the 300-mile automobile race for the Vanderbilt cup. The racers are as follows:

No.	Entered by	Driver.
1	S. B. Stevens, Jr	Campbell
2	R. E. Jarrige	Gabriel
3	C. E. Durr	Tracy
4	Manufacturer	Webb
5	George Arents Jr.	Arents
6	Manufacturer	Lyttle
7	Manufacturer	Heath
8	E. R. Thomas	Hawley
9	O. G. Dinsmore	Werner
10	Alfred G. Vanderbilt	Did not start
11	W. G. Brokaw	Bernin
12	A. Clement	Clement
14	Manufacturer	Tarte
15	Manufacturer	Teste
16	Manufacturer	Schmidt
17	Frank Croker	Croker
18	I. Wormser Jr.	Wormser
19	William Wallace	Wallace

NO THIRTEEN.

It will be noted that there is no number thirteen. That number was omitted by design.

The start was made promptly at 6 o'clock.

Number 3, C. E. Durr's carriage, broke its main drive wheel passing Queens and was taken out of the race.

Numbers 5 and 19 both punctured their tires early in the race but kept on.

The course of the race is exactly 30.14 miles in length. It is an elongated triangle at the apex of which to the west is the village of Queens.

THE COURSE.

The course is to be covered three times. There are two controls on the course, one at Hicksville, .40 mile in length, and the other at Hempstead, 1.43 miles long. Every contestant must take three minutes to go through the Hicks-

WALTER MELICK DEAD.

Passed Away at An Early Hour This Morning.

LOS ANGELES, October 8.—Walter S. Melick, Secretary of the State Board of Examiners and owner and editor of the Pasadena "News," died at Pasadena this morning at 5 o'clock.

Several days ago he underwent an operation for a serious stomach trouble, and has never rallied from the shock.

He was one of the best known politicians and journalists of the state, having served several terms in the Legislature, and held various offices of trust.

Girl Finds Sack of Diamonds

Gems Are Restored to Their Rightful Owner.

SAN JOSE, October 8.—Mrs. Harry Bercovich has recovered the thousand dollars worth of diamonds that she lost a few days ago while at Alum Rock Park. Today they were returned to her by Sarah McNeil, a 14-year-old girl, who resides in San Francisco, but who is visiting her uncle, Alexander Kammerer on the Alum Rock road.

The girl picked up the bag containing the jewels from the car, where Mrs. Bercovich had dropped it, and as soon as she learned to whom the gems belonged she returned them.

Mr. Bercovich has handsomely rewarded her.

JAPANESE SCALING THE FORT AT PA-LI-CHWANG.

NAVAL FIGHT FAKE.

Russian and Jap Did Not Battle at Sea.

ST. PETERSBURG, October 8.—Replying to the statement of Count Okuma, leader of the Progressive party, that the war with Russia would be a long one, but that Japan would win in the end, the "Novoe Vremya" today declares that the idea of a possible compromise with Japan has been abandoned and that the war must be prosecuted by Russia in such a way that there can be no possibility of Japan's renewing the struggle. Europe for thirty years was under the menace of revenge for Alsace.

"If we conclude peace with Japan all our efforts in the Far East will be valueless and we shall have to spend enormous sums to keep up our armament there. The Japanese, once for all, must be driven out of the Asiatic continent."

It is now accepted here that the reported naval fight off Port Arthur was purely imaginary. The naval experts of the newspapers dwell on the difficulties which the Port Arthur squadron must experience in breaking after the disastrous sortie of August 10. The general opinion is that the squadron could not venture out unless something had happened to the Japanese warships, of which there is no knowledge here. In any case, the Russian ships could not go to the neutral port of Che Foo, but must head for Vladivostok. If the Baltic fleet was approaching, however, the whole situation would be different.

JAPAN WILL BE FOR PEACE

When the War is Over Conditions Will Be Changed.

BOSTON, October 8.—The International Peace Congress assembled today for the closing session of its annual meeting. President Paine said that representatives of all the great nations should be given an opportunity to respond and introduced Jiro Abratani of Tunto to speak for Japan.

Mr. Abratani, in the course of his remarks, said he was willing to admit that militarism was on the increase in Japan, but he declared there was good ground for expectation that when the present conditions were brought to an end, peace would be the moving spirit of the nation.

Dr. John Chirug, delegate for Russia, asked for a moment to correct a statement made yesterday by John Burrows of England, and this was granted. As Dr. Chirug passed to the platform, where Mr. Abratani was sitting, a woman delegate arose and said:

"Dr. Chirug, it would gladden my heart to see you shake hands with Mr. Abratani—Russia and Japan in friendly clasp."

"I should be most happy," the Russian answered, as he moved toward the Japanese, and warmly seized his hand, saying, "I am glad to greet a fellow man."

When Dr. Chirug had concluded his statement the committee on resolutions to the day reported resolutions in favor of an investigation into the present government of the Congo Free State.

OBJECTS TO THE NOMINEE.

Socialists Want Certain Democrats Off the Ticket.

If the plans of the Socialist party organization in California are carried out, there will be no Democratic nominees for the Assembly on the ballot at the coming election, in the Forty-seventh, Forty-ninth, Fiftieth and Fifty-first Assembly districts.

County Clerk Cook to-day received from the "State Secretary" of the Socialist organization a protest against the placing of the names of Democratic nominees for the Assembly on the ballot, in the districts referred, alleging that the law which requires that party candidates must receive 3 per cent of the vote cast at a preceding election will operate to prevent these nominees being placed on the ticket.

"Despite this protest," said the County Clerk to-day, "the Democratic nominees will go on the ticket as far as I am concerned. I do not understand that the law is intended to operate in specific instances where one or two nominees received less than 3 per cent of the votes. I understand that if the ticket itself, or what might properly be referred to as the ticket, failed to poll 3 per cent, then that party is barred from having representation on the ballot at the next election.

"In this instance there were no Democratic nominees in these districts at the last election, as the Democrats fused with the Labor party, making no nominations for the Assembly in any of the four districts. There was not only failure to poll 3 per cent, but failure to poll any votes. Under these circumstance, I shall proceed as usual, unless directed by higher powers, and the Democratic nominees will have their place on the ballot."

DELMAR BREAKS RECORD.

LEXINGTON, October 8.—Major Delmar today broke the trotting record of 2:02¾, made by Cresceus at Columbus, lowering the record half a second, making the time 2:01¾. Time by quarters: 0:29¾, 0:59½, 1:29¾, 2:01¾.

MATTHEW RANSOM PASSES AWAY

WASHINGTON, October 8.—A special to the Post from Garrysburg, N. C., says:

Matthew Ransom, formerly United States Senator from this State and once American Minister to Mexico died suddenly at his residence in Northampton county today. Today was his seventieth birthday. The cause of death was heart failure.

QUIET AT FRONT.

Much Uncertainty About Movements of Troops.

ST. PETERSBURG, October 8 (1:30 p. m.)—The meagerness of the news from the front is increasing the uncertainty regarding the developments.

There is good warrant for the belief that General Kuropatkin is strengthening his left flank to meet the Japanese turning movement, his troops occupying a triangle from Fushun to Mukden and Tie Pass.

Over 300 guns have arrived at the front and the activity of the Russian skirmishers below the Hun river creates the impression that Kuropatkin may contemplate assuming the offensive.

The War Office, however, gives no encouragement of this idea, though naturally if such a move is contemplated the War Office could not be expected to admit it.

TOKIO, October 8 (evening).—According to a private letter received from a Japanese officer now with the besieging forces before Port Arthur, the Russians are effectively using hand grenades filled with a high explosive, the execution of these grenades, when accurately thrown, is deadly, the officer says, and their use possibly accounts for the closeness of the fighting.

APPOINTED CHIEF

ST. PETERSBURG, October 8.—As predicted in these dispatches, General Ridzovsky, Under-Secretary of the Interior, has been appointed chief of the gendarmerie, which is virtually divorced from the Ministry of the Interior, although nominally under its control.

TRANSPORT SERVICE.

Officials Deny Sensational Report From San Francisco.

WASHINGTON, October 8.—Quartermaster-General Humphreys stated that no complaint has been received at the War Department of the transport service on the Pacific and that no general investigation has been ordered.

He further stated that a board of officers makes a rigid inspection of each transport as it comes into port, that an inspection also made of its personnel and that in addition it devolves upon the senior officer arriving on the transport to make a full and complete report of the vessel and the trip.

General Humphreys says that a board was appointed in San Francisco to pass upon some hay that was being delivered by a contractor and that this may have led to the report that a general investigation of the service was being made.

PRINCE BRUTAL TO HIS WIFE

ROME, October 8.—The Archduchess Stephanie (Countess Lonyay), alarmed at the news of the ill-health of her sister, the Princess Louise, has sent to Paris the Italian Deputy Bossi, one of the cleverest professors of gynecology, instructing him to examine Princess Louise thoroughly, to prescribe a cure and to make a detailed report of her condition, which may be used as evidence in the divorce proceedings against the husband of the Princess, Prince Philippe of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha. The Prince is charged with having brutally maltreated Princess Louise.

CODMAN MARRIED.

NEW YORK, October 8.—The marriage of Ogden Codman Jr. and Mrs. H. Walter Wells took place today at Scarborough.

BANK IS ROBBED.

Thieves Use Dynamite and Secure $20,000.

FOWLER, Ind., October 8.—Robbers dynamited the bank at Freeland today and it is reported they secured $20,000.

The safe was blown open and looted and the entire side of the bank building was blown out. The noise aroused the people of the town who hurriedly gathered at the wrecked building, but the robbers had fled.

SENT TO PRISON FOR LIFE.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 8.—Charles E. Padilla, a young Indian, was today sentenced to life imprisonment at Folsom for the murder of an old man named McCarty. Padilla's companion in crime, Charles Lawrence, was hanged yesterday.

ODELL TIRED OF HOLDING OFFICE

NEW YORK, October 8.—"I am tired of office holding. I do not want any more of it," said Governor Odell in this city today.

"Does this apply to the United States Senatorship?" he was asked.

"It does," replied the Governor.

A LITTLE BETTER.

WALMER CASTLE, October 8, 8:05 p. m.—Lady Curzon was slightly better this afternoon.

FRANK M. SMITH IS NOT ON THE REGISTER.

But He is Not Thereby Disqualified From Serving as a Presidential Elector.

The San Francisco Examiner prints a somewhat sensational story to the effect that the Democrats are sure of getting a Presidential Elector from California because the name of F. M. Smith does not appear on the Great Register of Alameda County.

It appears that Mr. Smith, who is a Republican nominee for Presidential Elector, has been East for some months, and therefore has had no opportunity to register. Because he is disqualified to vote at the coming election the Examiner assumed that he is disqualified as a Presidential Elector and that his disqualification will give his Electoral vote to a Democrat.

It is a very readable yarn from a Democratic standpoint, but there is nothing in it. Mr. Smith is not disqualified from serving as an Elector, and if he were the Democrats would not gain anything by it.

"All there is in the Examiner's story is that Mr. Smith will not be able to vote for himself," said George W. Reed. "The Constitution of the United States and not the Political Code of California defines the qualifications of a Presidential Elector, but Mr. Smith is qualified under the Political Code of this State. The law of this State, as well as the Federal Constitution, simply requires that an Elector should be a citizen and a resident of the State and 21 years of age. Mr. Smith is a citizen and a resident of the State. Registration does not determine residence or citizenship.

"All there is to this matter is that Mr. Smith, by reason of continued absence from the State on business, has failed to qualify himself to vote at the coming election. He has not thereby lost his residence, his citizenship, or his right to hold office. The Federal Constitution says:

"'Each State shall appoint in such manner as the Legislature thereof may direct a number of Electors equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress; but no Senator, or Representative or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States shall be appointed an Elector.'

"By implication the Twelfth Amendment requires an Elector to be a citizen and a resident of the State from which he is appointed.

"The Examiner quotes Section 58 of the California Political Code to sustain its contention as follows:

"'Every Elector is eligible to the office for which he is an Elector, except where otherwise specially provided; and no person is eligible who is not such an Elector, except when otherwise specially provided.'

"Section 841 is the one that really defines the qualification for office. It is too long to quote, but I have here a decision of the California Supreme Court, Bergevin vs. Curtz, 120 Cal., p. 86, that bears directly on the point. In this case a man elected Supervisor in Alpine county had his right to the office contested because his name was not on the Great Register. The court held that he was not disqualified, using this language.

"'In this case the appellant would have been eligible to the office of Supervisor of the district of which he was elected if his name had not been on the Great Register. He could not have voted at the election and thus would have been deprived of voting for himself, if he so desired, but having the constitutional qualifications he was eligible to the office.'

"Further on the decision says:

"'The words 'qualified Elector' are used in the sense of Elector who has the right to vote. It appears plain that the Legislature recognizes the fact that there might be Electors who were not so qualified. The County Government Act does not provide as a condition of eligible to the office of Supervisors that the candidate must have been a qualified Elector of the district, which he represents.'

"But granting for the sake of argument that Mr. Smith is disqualified, which he is not, it would be no advantage to the Democrats. In the Cronin case from Oregon, the Electoral Commission of 1876 decided that when an Elector is legally disqualified from acting, other qualified Electors from the State shall cast the vote which he should have cast. The will of the majority cannot be defeated by a technicality of this sort. In New York it is a common practice to elect men to Congress who do not reside or vote in the districts which they represent. The Democrats of the Stockton district once nominated Charles Summer, a citizen and resident of San Francisco for Congress.

"However, the whole business is a piece of campaign fooling. It is something for Democrats to talk about—that's all—but like a comic valentine, it has no serious side. F. M. Smith is all right."

An examination of the register disclosed the fact that the last time Mr. Smith registered was in 1900. Consequently he did not vote at either the last State and municipal elections.

DR. MEHRMANN LAID TO REST.

FUNERAL OF PROMINENT PHYSICIAN IS LARGELY ATTENDED.

The funeral of Dr. John D. Mehrmann, father of Dr. H. B. Mehrmann, County Coroner, who for the last thirty-five years has been prominently identified with the interests of this city and county, was held this morning from his late residence, 532 Isabella street. The services were conducted by the Rev. Carson Shaw, rector of the Church of the Advent.

Many of the intimate friends of the deceased were present to pay their last respects to the departed. Floral pieces in profusion were sent by friends and acquaintances. The floral offerings were exquisite and beautiful.

After Rev. Shaw had concluded the reading of the impressive Episcopal services, the Masonic Quartet rendered four songs of an appropriate character. Among the selections were "Rock of Ages" and "Abide With Me."

The pall bearers were chosen from the intimate friends of Coroner Mehrmann. They were: Dr. C. E. Curdts, A. P. Leach, Judge James Quinn, Judge Mortimer Smith, Dr. George Remle and Harry W. Pulcifer.

The remains were laid in the final resting place in Mountain View Cemetery.

He—I hope you do not only love me for my money. She—Only love you for it. Why, you dear old thing, I simply adore you for it.

Teacher—What is blotting paper, Tommy? Tommy—Its something you hunt about all over the place for while the ink is getting dry.

Mrs. Joy—If I do say it, my husband is worth millions of money to me. Mrs. Blunt—How lucky of you to snap him up when he was going cheap.

NORTH IS NOT CHANGED.

HE WILL BE HEAD OF CHINESE BUREAU SAME AS USUAL.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—Commissioner of Immigration Hart H. North and Charles Meehan, Chief of the Chinese Bureau emphatically deny the rumor to the effect that North has been removed from his position as head of the Chinese Bureau.

It appears that the rumor in question rose from the fact that, acting on the suggestion of Commissioner North, Commissioner General F. P. Sargent has delegated to Chief Meehan the duty of attending to some of the minor details of departmental work which was formerly under the direct supervision of North. Meehan, however, is responsible to North for the correct performance of these duties.

The chief change made by the Commissioner General consists in giving Meehan direct charge of the twenty-five or more employed to inspect Chinese immigrants.

In discussing the matter Meehan said: "The relation between Commissioner North and myself is absolutely unchanged. I am subordinated to him in everything and have precisely the same duties I have always had since I was appointed Chief of the Bureau.

"All cases are referred to Commissioner North for his approval and all my orders are subject to revision by him."

Commissioner North said today that the story of his removal was without foundation.

"I was appointed head of the Chinese Bureau in 1308 by Secretary Cortelyou," he said, "and have had no orders limiting my powers in that department."

Commissioner General Sargent said of Commissioner North:

"I have absolute confidence in North. He is in full charge of the whole bureau. The only changes that have been made are such as relieve him of the presence of endless details."

THE WORLD'S FINEST CLOCK.

The best time-keeper in the world is said to be the electric clock in the basement of the Berlin Observatory, which was installed by Prof. Foerster in 1865. It is inclosed in an air-tight glass cylinder and has frequently run for periods of two or three months with an average daily deviation of only fifteen one-thousandths of a second. Astronomers are making efforts to improve even this and to secure ideal conditions for the clock by keeping it not only in an air-tight case but in an underground vault, where neither changes of temperature nor of barometric pressure shall ever affect it.—From the Electrical World and Engineer.

PITCHER JACKSON RELEASED.

SLAB ARTIST FROM TEXAS IS NO LONGER MEMBER OF OAKLAND TEAM.

Pitcher Jackson of the Oakland baseball team has been given his release by Pete Lohman.

It is said that the Cleveland Club of the Major League has drafted Jackson for next year. As Lohman wanted the young man from Texas to work on the firing line for him next year, and, as the drafting process made this impossible, he was given his release, or the Oakland management did not believe that it could afford to keep the pitcher on the staff for the remainder of this season only.

Jackson was the new acquisition to the Oakland baseball team.

He was recently brought out here by Pete Lohman and has pitched but few games. In these performances he has shown that he is a big leaguer.

It is known that there are other changes soon to be made in the personnel of the Oakland team.

KILLS HIMSELF IN PARK.

UNKNOWN MAN SENDS BULLET CRASHING THROUGH BRAIN.

An unknown man who has the appearance of a laborer, committed suicide last night about 7:30 o'clock in the Harrison street park by placing a revolver at his right temple and sending a bullet through his brain.

He was hurried to the Receiving Hospital but expired on the operating table. Passers-by heard the shot and found the man where he fell.

The deceased was about 45 years of age, five feet eight inches tall, and reddish brown hair. He was smooth shaven.

There was nothing on his person which would lead to his identification.

He was taken to the morgue where an inquest will be held.

LOVER SENT TO PRISON.

Caught in the Kitchen and Taken For a Burglar.

Love generally laughs at bolts and bars but last night at the residence of R. H. Gray, 1427 Eighth avenue, the bolts and bars had the laugh on Thorwald Anderson, a love lorn youth. He was taken for a thief and was first thurst into a closet by the owner of the house and then hustled off to jail like any ordinary burglar.

A few days ago Mr. Gray and his wife decided to give a buxom Norwegian lass, who had just arrived in this country a trial as a domestic. Looks she had to spare, and it was agreed that if she could perform her household duties as well as she looked she would make a valuable domestic.

SERIOUS EYES.

The same serious blue eyes, pink cheeks and comely figure which won at work as well on persons and Mr. Anderson willingly became a captive to the charms of the domestic. They both agreed that it would be well to arrange their meetings clandintinely and outwit Mr. Gray and his wife. Love never liked prying eyes and in agreeing to deceive her employers the pretty young maiden only followed a custom honored by time.

MADE LOVE.

Last night it happened that Mr. Gray and his wife went to the theater. As the master of the house and his spouse went out one door, Anderson with Don Juan daring came in the other. The neat kitchen, kept cleaned and polished by the Norwegian maid was the scene of the love-making of the two sweethearts. The lights were turned low, in fact they went out, and the two young people passed the hours in ecstatic bliss. So absorbing was the nature of the communion between the two souls that they did not note the passage of time.

They were startled to hear the front door open. It was just 11:45 o'clock o'clock. With the speed of a frightened deer the comely domestic fled upstairs, leaving her bewildered lover alone in the dark kitchen. He tried to keep still but the best he could do was to fall over a chair.

MASTER RETURNS.

The next thing he knew the returning master of the house had a death grip on his throat. With great precision Mr. Gray landed a blow on the chin of the luckless lover and laid him out. Before any reviving process began Mr. Anderson was thrown unceremoniously into a closet and the door was locked.

Mr. Gray lost no time in telephoning to police headquarters that he had a burglar locked in his closet. Policemen Forgie and Walters jumped into the patrol wagon. The poor horses were galloped all the way. With scant ceremony Anderson was dragged from the closet and thurst into the patrol wagon. He had no chance to explain until he arrived at the jail.

TO JAIL.

He kept explaining until this morning when the mystery unravelled.

The young domestic confessed that she was entertaining company, cleared her lover and secured his release from jail.

She was unaware that her sweetheart had been tumbled into the closet and was too frightened last night to tell the truth.

WILL BUILD NEW CAR SHOPS.

THE UNITED RAILROADS PLAN WORKS TO COVER TEN ACRES.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 8.—Plans are being prepared by the United Railroads for repair shops that will be the largest of their kind to be found anywhere in the West. About a year ago the company purchased three blocks of land facing the company's present San Mateo carhouse. The property is bounded by Ocean avenue, San Jose avenue, Lindell avenue and Tarra street, and embraces ten acres of ground. This property has been chosen as the site for the proposed new repair shops, and according to the plans now being drawn the shops will cover the entire ten acres and be equipped not only for the repair and rebuilding of cars, but possibly for the construction of new cars. At the present time repair work is done in various car barns and under circumstances and conditions not the most advantageous and economical. The new repair shops will be equipped with the most modern facilities for repair work, and it is expected that many economies not possible under the present system, where the repair shops are scattered throughout the city, will be realized. When the new shops are completed and in operation, all of the carpenter work, painting, mechanical and electrical work will be done in the cluster of buildings fronting San Jose avenue.

Leather portieres for furnishing schemes are to be had in the shops.

Beads for the neck, in blue, amber or pink, are selling for 39 cents a string.

Buster Brown pillow tops with Buster and Lige in their pranks are in the shops.

LINDBLOM WANTS HIS PROPERTY.

MINING MILLIONAIRE ATTACKS REGULARITY OF COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Erik Lindblom, the Alaska mining millionaire, filed a petition yesterday afternoon with the County Clerk for a writ of review by the Superior Court, in proceedings taken by Dr. C. B. Schofield's assignee to recover from him $130, judgment for which sum had been awarded Dr. Schofield by Justice Quinn.

Lindblom, who was a resident of this city before he acquired millions in Alaska, now owns valuable realty in the community, and part of this realty, situated at Warring street and Dwight way in Berkeley, worth $15,000, was sold to satisfy the judgment for $130.

Attorney J. A. Taylor, for the Wellman-Robbins Mercantile Agency, to whom Dr. Schofield had assigned her judgment, had the property sold to satisfy the judgment.

Lindblom declares that no summons was served upon him in this suit and that in other respects the proceeding was not regular.

Dr. C. B. Schofield brought the suit in May to secure payment for services rendered Mrs. Lindblom while her husband was in Alaska. Justice Quinn gave Dr. Schofield judgment for the amount claimed. The assignment of the judgment to the Mercantile Agency, and the sale of the property in Berkeley followed.

Lindblom swears that he knew nothing of the suit until the property was sold.

The time for appeal had expired then, but he made a motion in Justice Quinn's court to set aside the judgment, alleging irregularity in the proceedings, which motion was denied.

COUNTERFEITING TOOLS FOUND.

Secret Service Agent Harry Moffitt last night found at No. 758 Harrison street, moulds for making counterfeit coins in the denominations of 5, 10, 25 and 50 cents. The outfit was confiscated and now both the police authorities and the Secret Service agent are looking for the owners of the implements.

Information in regard to the moulds came from Special Policeman Sprague. He formerly roomed at the house, when it was conducted as a rooming house under Mrs. George Lane. He alleges it was shown to him one day by the landlady. He made no mention of the discovery at the time, but becoming piqued at the woman he conveyed the knowledge to Private Detective A. McDiarmid, who in turn communicated the matter to Secret Service Agent Moffitt.

Chief of Police Hodgkins on learning that Sprague had kept the information to himself for several months called for the special policeman and read him the riot act.

"There are possibly no wrong motives connected with Sprague's silence," said Chief Hodgkins, "but his actions are peculiar. He says he wished to procure a reward and also that he wanted to revenge himself on the woman. If nothing further comes up I will not prefer charges. Sprague is a new man at the business."

MASSIVE STEEL BRIDGE.

Railroad Company Will Bridge Carquinez Straits.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 8.—President E. H. Harriman of the Southern Pacific Company has another enormous improvement project on foot, namely the construction of a massive steel and concrete bridge, which will span Carquinez straits, between Port Costa and Benicia, and which will supplant the existing ferry service now performed by the ferryboat Solano.

It has been learned that the engineering department of the company, under the direction of Chief Engineer William Hood, has been engaged for several days past in driving piles at various points in the straits with a view to determining advantageous sites for the foundations that are to support the massive structure. Permission for the driving of these piles, which might be considered an obstruction to navigation, has been secured from Secretary Taft of the War Department at Washington, who has granted it under certain restrictions, one of which is that the piles so driven must either be removed or else cut off even with the bed of the straits, so as not to offer any danger to navigation. In accordance with this permission the company has been engaged in driving piles for several days past. It will be some months, however, before actual construction work on the bridge is undertaken. It is estimated that the structure will cost $3,000,000.

FINNELLS WIN LAND CASE.

NAPA, October 8.—Judge Gesford handed down a decision here yesterday afternoon in the case of Simpson Finnell vs. James H. Goodman Bank. He finds that the equities of the case are with the plaintiff and awards him 2717 shares of Finnell Land Company stock, valued at about $276,000.

On or about October 27, 1900, John Finnell was indebted to George E. Goodman and to the defendant bank. He settled the indebtedness of $426,265 with the bank by giving it 1500 shares of Finnell Land Company stock. Later the bank demanded $276,000 of Goodman for money he loaned as president of the bank. This Goodman paid, claiming a proportionate share of the 4500 shares of stock.

The decision of Judge Gesford awards to Simpson Finnell, Goodman's assignee, 2822 shares of the stock.

GREAT AUTO RACE WON BY AMERICAN.

ville control and six minutes to go through the Hempstead control.

As Wallace's car, No. 19, rounded the turn at Jericho, on the first lap of the race, it was seen to be in trouble. It stopped about 150 yards beyond the turn and it was then learned that the machine had been fed too much oil and the engine had become clogged. Driver Wallace got out to remedy the trouble and there was a delay of two minutes and twenty seconds.

NARROW ESCAPE.

E. R. Thomas' car, driven by Hawley, had a narrow escape from disaster while making a quick turn on the Rock Hill road, at Queens, on the first lap. It swerved off the roadway, ran up on the grassy plot along the road and missed crashing into a big tree less than a foot. Hawley quickly guided the machine back into the road and it sped away on its journey.

No. 4 blew out a fuse while passing Queens. Driver Webb stopped and put in a new fuse and started off again after a delay of about two minutes.

Car No. 18 burst a tire while rounding the turn at Jericho, but after a delay of about thirty seconds it went on with a flat tire.

A few minutes later Frank Croker's car met with a similar accident at the same place. Croker fitted a new tire, and this, together with some slight trouble with his engine, cost him fifteen minutes.

IN FRONT OF TRAIN.

At Mineola Gabriel's car passed across the Long Island railroad track almost directly in front of a moving train, missing the pilot of the engine by less than thirty feet. Gabriel, who led at the end of the first lap, maintained his advantage in the second, covering the course the second time at an average speed of sixty-two miles an hour. The end of the third lap also saw the French driver leading the procession, but in the next round Heath's car, No. 7, shot to the front, leading Gabriel by a little more than four minutes.

Although many miles behind some of the cars, the real leader in the race up to the end of the third lap was the imported car, No. 15, driven by Teste. Starting twenty-six minutes after the first car got away, the machine circled the course at remarkable speed. The first three laps, 30.92, were covered in seventy-six minutes twenty-nine seconds. The second lap was covered in 25.48.

VANDERBILT'S CAR.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt's car Number 10, which was unable to start with the others, because of a slight accident, was repaired and sent away more than two hours late. The Vanderbilt car was started with no hope that it would be a real factor in the race, but to go after a speed record for the course. The first round was completed in 26 minutes flat.

The first serious accident of the race occurred on the stretch between the turn at Queens and Westbury, when the tires slipped from Arents' machine and he and his chauffeur, Carl Menzel, were thrown violently to the ground. Arents was not seriously injured, but the chauffeur was badly hurt. Both were taken to a hospital. Menzel died later.

TAKES THE LEAD.

Heath took the lead from Gabriel early in the race and maintained it steadily, having a good lead over all the competitors up to the finish of the sixth round. Up to that time Gabriel had held second position, but an accident put him temporarily out of the race and Clement, driving his own machine took the position next behind the leader. Clement made the sixth round in 31 minutes. In the circuit of the course Heath experienced considerable hard luck, taking 48.11 to cover the course. Technically this meant a loss of seventeen points to the leader and left Clement lacking only ten points of the leading position.

At that point Heath and Clement were well in the lead and both were pushing their cars to the utmost.

THRILLING ESCAPE.

Gabriel had a second thrilling escape from a collision with a train. This time it was at Queens. A passenger train had stopped at the station and unloaded its passengers and had received the signal to go ahead. The station is only about 100 feet from the roadway. On receiving the signal that the track was clear, the engineer started up and the locomotive had reached the middle of the race course when Gabriel's car rushed down the road. A shout went up from the crowd gathered at the crossing and the signal was waved frantically to the engineer to back the train. The lever was promptly reversed and as the locomotive slowly backed off the course the machine flashed by, missing the cowcatcher by less than two feet.

HAD BAD LUCK.

Heath's bad luck pursued him. In the seventh round his tire was punctured at Queens almost at the spot where Gabriel got in trouble a few minutes before.

NAILS ON ROAD.

An explanation of the many mishaps on the Jericho turnpike came to light when Wally Owens, a chauffeur, found a large quantity of nails scattered along the course, a short distance below the grand stand. Many pieces of broken glass also were found on the road at this point.

Heath suffered a long delay as a result of his accident on the seventh round and before his broken tire had been replaced, Clement had taken the lead. The eighth round was covered by Clement in 33:05 and he flashed past the grand stand with a clear advantage of fourteen minutes over Heath, his nearest competitor. At that time Gabriel's machine was reported still in trouble, and it was thought he was hopelessly out of the race.

GREAT SPEED.

Up to that point the leader had maintained an average speed of about sixty miles an hour, when the areas of control are deducted. This speed had been maintained, including curves and other dangerous places, where it was necessary to reduce speed to a minimum. Figuring these deductions, the leader has at times made ninety miles an hour on the level and straight stretches and some experts say that he has passed the grand stand at Westbury at the phenomenal speed of 100 miles an hour.

MAKES PROTEST.

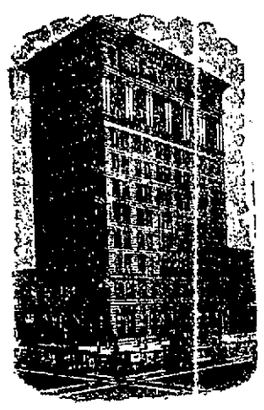

NEW YORK, October 8.—Clement protested the decision of the judges calling Heath the winner of the race. The decision was withdrawn and the protest will be heard and the winner declared at a meeting of the Automobile Association later in the day.

FAIRBANKS AT WORK

Opens Campaign in Wyoming Early in Morning.

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., October 8.—The sun had scarcely begun to peep over the rugged hills when Senator Fairbanks began his day's work in Wyoming with a speech at this place.

He was greeted by the playing of a brass band and a splendidly large crowd surrounded the speaker's stand, which had been erected near the railroad station. His remarks were directed almost entirely to the working class, this being an important coal mining center.

He presented the advantages of a protective tariff and cited the conditions of 1893 and subsequent years to show that under Democratic administration the people had not the assurance of work that they have under Republican rule.

Brief speeches were also made by Senator Fulton and Mr. Smith.

TRIED TO MURDER HIS WIFE.

HOLLISTER, October 8.—Manuel Micholl tried to murder his family with a razor today and then attempted suicide by turning the weapon on himself.

Several months ago Mrs. Micholl left her husband. Micholl visited her yesterday and said that she and the children would not live long. Early this morning he entered her home through a window and attempted to cut her throat. She grabbed the razor he held and a struggle ensued in which she was badly injured. He then rushed out of the house and cut his own throat. He was arrested and has admitted his guilt. Both husband and wife may recover.

BARD IN SAN FRANCISCO.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 8.—United States Senator Thomas R. Bard is in the city and he is here on business.

The hermit of Hueneme has come out of his hiding and his friends say that he proposes to stay in the limelight until after he is defeated for re-election.

He has come here to try and wield the whip over the Federal Brigade.

How far the latter will respond to the crack of the whip remains to be seen.

STRAIGHT JACKET HEARING.

Prison Board is Investigating Warden Tompkins.

Special to THE TRIBUNE.

SAN QUENTIN, October 8.—The State Board of Prison Directors met to day, all the members being present, for the purpose of inquiring into the alleged improper use of the strait-jacket in punishing convicts.

Before taking up the case Walter O'Hara recently convicted of perjury in Oakland in falsely swearing as to the age of a minor whom he had married, admitted he had broken his parole, having formerly been an inmate of the prison.

He admitted also he had not told his wife that he was a paroled prisoner.

All his credits were forfeited.

Thomas McGuire convicted of robbery in Alameda county said that he had been punished in the straight-jacket because he was sick and couldn't work. He subsequently admitted that he had used foul language to the officers after the prison physician had declared he was not sick.

All credits secured and possible were forfeited.

The primary object of the meeting was to take up the alleged cruelties practiced in the straight-jacketing of Adam Stroh several weeks ago. The board postponed the matter until after the transaction of routine business.

All credits were taken from J. W. Holmes, who broke his parole and was re-captured at the bedside of his dying mother in Missouri.

Peter Yannes, under a life sentence for murder committed in Los Angeles was paroled.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton of Los Angeles were present and took Yannes home.

The board will not go into executive session and all its investigations will be open to the public.

It is expected that the board will investigate the case of Jack Chretein, the convict who is said to have committed forgery several months ago.

RESIGN FROM CLUB

Prominent Scientists Obey Law of Their Church.

BERKELEY, October 8.—The Town and Gown Club, the most exclusive woman's organization in town, has been affected by the command of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy that all members of the Christian Science Church must leave clubs which exclude either sex.

The sensational news has just leaked out that Mrs. Rufus P. Jennings, wife of the executive officer of the California Promotion Committee, and Mrs. A. J. Ralston, wife of the mining magnate, have tendered their resignations on account of the fact that they are devout members of the Christian Science Church.

"Yes, it is true that Mrs. Ralston and I have resigned on account of the fact that we are members of the Christian Science Church," admitted Mrs. Jennings this afternoon.

Mrs. James Erwin is also contemplating sending in her resignation.

"I have tendered my resignation," said Mrs. Ralston, "for reasons which I gave to the club at the time. I do not see why the public is concerned whether I belong to the Christian Science Church or not."

Mrs. Mauvais and Mrs. Frank Watson, prominent Christian Scientists have resigned from the Ebell Club.

WILLIAMS LOST

California Man Was Second in the Contest.

MORRIS PARK RACETRACK, October 8.—The match race here today between Sydney Paget and President Thomas H. Williams of the New California Jockey Club resulted in a victory for Mr. Paget, who rode his 2-year-old, Ralbert. Mr. Williams was on Frank L. Perley, a 4-year-old that had never started.

A poor start marred the race, as Frank L. Perley bolted, losing over six lengths. Ralbert was off flying, and, owing to the advantage gained early, won easily.

The match was for $2000 a side, the winner to take the horse of the loser, in addition, and much interest was taken in the match and a large amount of money changed hands, Mr. Paget being favorite at 4 to 5. Although the race was run early, many spectators were on hand.

The match was an outcome of an after-dinner discussion in which Mr. Williams advocated the idea of reserving a horse for his 2 or 4-year-old form before racing him. He owns Frank L. Perley, the horse being trained by H. M. Mason.

THE PATIENT BRAIN.

The brain is one of the most patient and industrious organs of the body. It can be induced, by good treatment, to perform prodigies of labor. Few realize its capabilities and endurance. But it is sensitive. It will not long brook abuse. It briskly responds to the whip at first, but if the lash is laid on too hard and often it balks. It insists upon having plenty of good, red blood when it works hard, and good, red blood is made from wheat and roast beef, not from pie a la mode, lobster salad and cocaine or whiskey. The most essential thing for the man who works with his brain is plenty of sleep. Only in sleep does the brain find the rest and refreshments that are necessary to maintain its vigor and integrity.—Chicago Tribune.

TRAINING SHIP INTREPID IS LAUNCHED.

Senator Perkins Makes an Interesting Address—Scene at the Navy Yard.

VALLEJO, October 8.—The new training ship Intrepid was successfully launched today at the Mare Island Navy Yard, in the presence of a large crowd, which despite a heavy rain, came from San Francisco and other places to witness the ceremony.

On the stand provided for the launching party were Miss Helen De Young, daughter of M. H. De Young, proprietor of the San Francisco "Chronicle" who had been chosen by Secretary of the Navy Morton as sponsor to the vessel; United States Senator Perkins, the Mayors of San Francisco, Oakland and Vallejo, Rear-Admiral McCalla, commandant and the heads of various departments of the navy yard. The gunboat Annapolis was provided for other invited guests.

SENATOR PERKINS.

After a prayer by Chaplain McAllister, Read-Admiral McCalla introduced Senator Perkins, who made a brief address. He congratulated the naval officials on the launching of the first ship completely constructed in the United States navy yard. He spoke of the splendid equipment of Mare Island for the building of vessels and referred to the importance of favorable legislation.

The launching then proceeded, without a hitch, under the supervision of Naval Constructor Zahn. As Miss De Young broke a bottle of champagne across the vessel's bows she exclaimed: "I christen thee Intrepid."

When the vessel touched the water, guns boomed, whistles tooted, bells rang and the band played "The Star Spangled Banner." After the launching, the distinguished visitors were the guests of Rear-Admiral McCalla at luncheon.

SENATOR'S SPEECH.

Senator Perkins spoke as follows:

"The launching of a newly built ship from the stocks into the water is always an event fraught with much interest to those who have planned and constructed the vessel. But the present occasion is one of more than ordinary importance, for the reason that our government has constructed in this, one of her navy yards, a good ship for the purpose of training her officers and men that they may better man our ships of war and defend the honor of our country. It seems to me a wise policy that this ship and others should be built in the navy yards.

"The location for the navy yard at Mare Island was selected in 1852 by a board of naval officers of which Commodore Sloat (who first raised our flag, July 7, 1846 at Monterey) was the chairman, and it was recommended by them, and approved by the Secretary of the Navy, as the best site for a navy yard in California.

MONEY EXPENDED.

"Since that time our Government has expended for buildings, docks, shops, machinery, and other improvements, over six millions of dollars, and now owns the best ship-building plant on the Pacific Coast. The work done in this yard during the past years compares favorably in quality and cost with that of any ship-building establishment in the country.

"Among the new vessels built in this yard since I have had the honor of being one of your representatives in Congress, I call to mind the 'Mohican,' the 'Unadilla,' the 'Nantucket,' the 'Leslie,' the 'Sotoyomo,' the double turretted monitor 'Monadnock;' the rebuilding of the historic Hartford,' Farragut's Flag Ship at Mobile, and a large number of barges and launches costing in the aggregate several millions of dollars, for which the Government has received full value, as every dollar was paid out for labor and material. All repair work upon the ships of the Navy, and United States Transports, should be done in the Navy Yards, which should be fully equipped with all modern appliances.

"The Navy is very dear to the American heart. Its mention alone brings a thrill of patriotic pleasure. It has contributed some of the most brilliant pages in our history. Its officers and men are represented by citizens from every State and territory in the Union, as every one of the three hundred and eighty-six Congressional Districts has a cadet at the Naval Academy, while the President appoints twenty additional cadets from the sons of naval officers.

AMERICAN NAVY.

"The past half century has witnessed a revolution in all things connected with the Navy. The wooden walls have been replaced by walls of chilled steel. The swelling sails have given way to the propelling power of steam, and 'the man behind the gun' has become master of the situation.

"While we do not number as many ships as some of the other nations of the world, yet for its size, our Navy is the equal of any—and ship to ship manned by American officers and crew it will never strike its colors!

"The evolution of the American Navy excites the admiration of the world. its exploits during the recent Spanish War has given it a stronger and broader hold than ever before. The United States has become a world power for good, and our Navy is a bond for peace, as well as an arm of protection to our people in foreign lands, and our commerce on the seas.

"When, in May 1900, during the Boxer War, an appeal came for help from the legations at Peking, China, our fleet of war vessels on the Asiatic station made up a detachment of marines and sailors under command of Captain B. H. McCalla, now Admiral and Commandant of this Navy Yard, and joined the relief column with Admiral Seymour. You all remember how well they did their work and saved the foreign legations from annihilation. Our naval officers and men won the highest praise from all, and the British Admiral said of them, 'Their post was usually in the advance guard, where their zeal was praised by all.' Again last November the prompt action of the captain of the U. S. S. 'Nashville,' in landing his troops at Colon, on the isthmus of Panama, saved the lives of many American citizens and prevented the destruction of the city.

"It is in my opinion, the duty of our Government, in the interests of peace and good order, to maintain a strong navy, and man it with American citizens. It seems therefore eminently proper that we should assemble for the purpose of congratulating the commandant of this navy yard, the naval architect, naval constructor, and officers that have directed the work, and the mechanics that have fashioned and builded this excellent vessel.

THE NAME.

"The name selected by the Navy Department—the 'Intrepid,'—is the third of the name in the navy to fly the Stars and Stripes. The first named was formerly a Tripolitan ketch called the 'Mastico,' that had been captured in 1803 by Lieutenant Stephen Decatur, afterwards Commodore Decatur, while in command of the schooner 'Enterprise,' during the war that the United States waged against a set of pirates who infested the Mediterranean Sea, and were making raids upon American commerce. The United States frigate, Philadelphia,' while in hot pursuit of a vessel that was running the blockade ran upon a reef near the harbor at Tripoli. The tide was falling and all efforts to get her off failed. A few days later a strong wind raised the waters, and the Tripolitans pulled the frigate off and towed her to anchorage under the guns of the fort. The work of destroying the 'Philadelphia,' that she might not become a part of the Tripolitan fleet was intrusted to Lieutenant Decatur, who, in command of the 'Mastico,' with a picked volunteer crew, entered the harbor and successfully carried out the plan and escaped without the loss of a man. This achievement was pronounced by Lord Nelson to be 'the most bold and daring act of the age.' The name of the 'Mastico' was changed to the 'Intrepid.'

"The next of the name was built during the seventies and was a steam, armored ram, but did not win distinction.

"The third is the splendid vessel before you, now awaiting the command to glide into the waters of the bay, and to be christened by Miss De Young, one of the fairest daughters of the Golden State. The 'Intrepid,' bold, fearless and undaunted, may she long sail the seas, as one of the school-houses of the American navy!"

WILL NOT BE NEUTRAL.

NATIONAL COMMITTEE WILL TAKE HAND IN WISCONSIN POLITICS.

CHICAGO, October 8.—"The National Committee has not said that it would remain neutral and has given out no interviews on that subject," declared National Committeeman New today, referring to public reports that neither side in the Wisconson controversy would be officially recognized.

"Last night this committee telegraphed Conner, chairman of the La Follette committee at Milwaukee, that Senator Fairbanks would be available for a speech at Milwaukee October 1 and asked if they would make arrangements for a meeting on that date. The action of the committee speaks for itself."

This is said to be the first instance the National Committee has communicated directly with either committee in Wisconsin arranging for National speakers in this campaign.

Memories.

First, dear, I loved you like the dawn,
A cool new love, discreet and pale,
A love that trembled like a fawn,
Full oft shy fear lest love should fail.

Then came the noon-love; like a flower
That glows in the embracing air
It flung its beauty to the hour
And passing, left a fragrance there.

And now 'tis sunset, and the mere
Is all abloom like blossoming trees.
And now my evening love is here,
Half sleeping with old memories.

WISCONSIN IS LOSER.

CAMP RANDALL, Madison, Wis., October 8.—With four regulars out of the game, Wisconsin was defeated 33 to 0, by Marquette College of Milwaukee.

It Seems a Pity.

I.

It's such a very little while
That any stays
It seems a pity not to smile
Through all the days.

II.

At best our joys are all so brief
It seems too bad
That any one will borrow grief
Who might be glad.

III.

So many with small aid, O friend,
Might rise and stand,
It seems a pity not to lend
A helping hand.
—S. E. Kiser in Chicago Record-Herald.

MONEY IS LOST

Investors Are Trying to Locate Milton Snyder.

Another local get-rich-quick scheme has disappeared into the black whirlpool of illegitimate financial ventures. The Pacific Funding & Security Company, until recently having offices in the Abrahamson Building, is no more, and Milt. M. Snyder, erstwhile promoter of the company, cannot be found by those holding contracts with the concern.

With the disappearance of the local company the fact is brought to light that a number of prominent and shrewd business men of Oakland hold contracts that, apparently, are worthless. It is said by those familiar with the affairs of the company that thousands of dollars have been taken out of the pockets of many of the city's most well-known citizens, while the laboring man and the widow have contributed their mite.

J. S. Myers, Albert Brown and others put money into the concern.

DESERTED ON HER WEDDING DAY.

The story of a bride deserted on her wedding day is told in the divorce complaint of Mary Ingalls, filed today in her suit against Walter C. Ingalls. She was a West Oakland girl, 17 years old, at the time of the marriage on June 13. Ingalls left the city after the ceremony. He was a railroad man, 34 years old. Before the wedding the parents of Mary O'Donnell made a serious charge against him, and to escape prosecution the marriage took place.

She is now residing at 811 Wood street with her mother.

ST. LOUIS, October 8.—The business of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, who have been holding a National convention here during the week, was concluded at today's final session. This convention was the largest ever held by the society, 600 delegates from all sections of the South and many from the North being present.

THE LIFE OF A BOOK.

Interviewed by the Book Monthly, Mr. A. M. S. Methuen admits that "an enormous amount of rubbish is published," but he holds that because it has no likelihood of living it does little harm. There are few people, he tells us, who realize how short the life of an average book is and how far shorter it is getting. "Fifteen years ago you could count on its existence for two or three years. Now three books out of four are almost dead as mutton in three months. You may sell a few copies afterward, but the sale that remunerates the author and publisher is over before you know where you are." Taken altogether, Mr. Methuen considers publishing "the most difficult business in the world," adding that "with competition it is getting more difficult." The publisher need not look for wealth; but among his compensations is the interest of his calling—"the literary interest, which is grateful and agreeable under all circumstances."—From the London Outlook.

TONG WAR ENDED

Chinese Have Ended Their Battle Across the Bay.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 8.—Posters were liberally spread over the dead walls of Chinatown last night giving notice that hostilities between the Chew Yee and Si On Sier tongs had ceased. This is greatly to the relief of the police, who had feared that murders would be committed because the hatchetmen had started out early Thursday morning in a manner meaning business. At 1:30 o'clock in the morning ten shots were fired by members of the Chew Yee tong to notify the other faction that they were ready to begin.

And the wide meadow seems

The Row in Wisconsin.

The decision of the Supreme Court in favor of the La Follette faction has not, as was hoped, quieted the Republican row in Wisconsin. Although the Stalwart candidate for Governor withdrew from the ticket when the court's decision was announced, his place has been filled and it is given out that the fight will be waged to a finish. At the outset Governor La Follette defiantly stated his intention to remain in the field whether the court decided against him or not. He would make no concession nor would he submit to the arbitrament of the courts. Moreover, the adherents of his faction are openly siding with the Democratic candidates in three Congressional districts. It is perfectly natural under the circumstances that the Stalwarts should refuse to surrender unconditionally to the La Follette machine. At the same time the decision has improved La Follette's chances of re-election, and removed all doubt of the Republican Electoral ticket carrying the State. While the Democrats have a fair prospect of electing their State ticket they have absolutely no chance of carrying the State for Parker. So far as the local contest is concerned, the situation in Wisconsin is analogous to the situation in California in 1875, when William Irwin was elected Governor. He had two Republican candidates against him that fought each other much harder than they did the Democrats. That is what the Republican factions are doing in Wisconsin to-day, and it threatens to bring disaster on the party. The President has wisely decided to keep his hands off and let the factions fight it out, trusting to time and sober judgment to heal the breach.

The qualified support the Hearst papers are giving Judge Parker is aptly illustrated by the editorial page of the Examiner. In one column is a stirring appeal to Democrats to get together and elect their ticket, and in the next is a cartoon showing the Democratic donkey kicking the plain people sky high. Oh, yes, this is a great harmony campaign.

The Democratic papers are calling Senator Fairbanks a human icicle. Well, it must be confessed that he does send cold shivers down the backs of the Democrats.

Parker and the Manufacturers.

Judge Parker says the home market is congested because the domestic manufacturers have increased their production beyond the consumption power of the country. How does this record of imports last year comport with the Democratic candidate's idea of a congested home market?

Imports of certain manufacturers to the United States in 1903:

Cotton goods	$52,000,000
Iron and steel fabrics	55,000,000
Leather and manufactures	16,000,000
Fabrics of jute, hemp and flax	39,000,000
Paper and manufactures	5,000,000
Silk manufactures	36,000,000
Woolen manufactures	20,000,000
Total	$223,000,000

These are all manufactured goods, not raw materials. Judge Parker apparently thinks they ought to come in duty free. With them would come in a great deal more to the detriment of American manufacturers and American workingmen.

"Senator Perkins is the big toad in the puddle when Fairbanks comes to California. Where is that astute and influential statesman, Bard?"

This is from the Fresno Democrat, which evidently misses some one from the band wagon. Suppose the President of the United States were to assume that it is wicked, undignified and indecorous to do politics in his own or his party's behalf, what does any one think the result would be? But then the President has not reached the extraordinary state of political beatitude that Senator Bard has attained.

Judge Parker will not take the stump during the campaign, but he will want to take to the woods after it is over

---

Judging from the plaintive appeals the Democratic National Committee is making for contributions, the trusts do not believe there is any use trying to elect Judge Parker after getting him nominated. They don't want to put their money on a dead horse.

Free Trade Heresy in New England.

The Republicans of Massachusetts appear to be getting innoculated with the free trade virus. In their State platform they incorporated a strong reciprocity plank, going contrary to the advice of Senator Lodge. Another symptom is the renomination of Eugene Foss for a seat in Congress on a low tariff platform. Foss was nominated after a hard fight two years ago, but was defeated at the polls, although his district is normally Republican. Many Republicans refused to vote for him because of his anti-protection views. The same fate is likely to befall him this year. The shift of New England sentiment toward free trade is due to the industrial changes of recent years, the transferrence of cotton manufacturing to the South, shoe manufacturing to the West and leather, glass and machinery manufacturing to other parts of the country. New England wants to get coal, iron and timber from Canada free of duty and a free market for her goods in the Dominion. New England is handicapped by lack of raw material. She must get her cotton, wool, leather, iron and coal from abroad. Her forests are practically exhausted and the limit of development of her water power has been reached. This condition has produced a school of economists who want the tariff revised for the sole benefit of New England. The proposition is inadmissible from more than one point of view, nevertheless it has become quite an issue in New England. Mr. Foss represents the idea of a tariff for New England while Senator Lodge takes the National view of the protective policy. One can readily see that the former can only be a disturbing element in the Republican party.

Grover Cleveland has positively declined to make any campaign speeches for Parker. Mr. Cleveland never was a rainbow chaser.

Alameda County ought to give Roosevelt a majority of 10,000 at the coming election. The total vote will hardly be less than 26,000, and the Democratic poll will not be above six or seven thousand. Allowing 3000 votes to be distributed among the Populists, Socialists and Prohibitionists Roosevelt's plurality would exceed 10,000. This year the Republicans of Alameda County ought to make a record for themselves. They will if they will only organize, work and be sure to vote.

THE PRIZE-WINNING PICTURE.—"Will you smile?" asked the photographer.

"Certainly, certainly; I don't care if I do?" replied Old Soak

It was thus that the photographer got the picture which took the prize at the last exhibition as the most speaking likeness.—Fort Worth Record.

The Agricultural College.

The action of the State Grange in adopting resolutions calling on the Legislature to appropriate money for the construction of suitable buildings for the Agricultural College at the State University was both wise and timely. It is high time the Agricultural College were properly housed and equipped for the important function it should serve in our educational system. The College has lost by degrees many of the characteristics of a school and has taken on more the features of a department of research and experimentation.

The study of soils, agricultural botany and entomology by the faculty with a view to informing the farmers of the State as to the best methods of cultivation and the more effective way of preventing the ravages of insects and plant diseases has been fruitful of beneficial results to the husbandry of California, and therefore should not be suspended, but this study is not the chief function of the College, which should be first of all a school for giving young men and women training in scientific agriculture and the principles of domestic economy as applied to the farm. Such training dignifies farming and lifts it to its proper place among the pursuits of civilized man. When it is clearly understood that farming is a business and a science as well as a vocation much of the distaste that now attaches to it will pass away.

Not so long ago it was thought any sort of an ignoramus could farm; "book farmers" were laughed at, and the application of scientific methods to tillage was derided. The prejudice—and ignorance—that all this exemplified is passing away, but much of it still remains. Nevertheless, the value of scientific training in agriculture is beginning to be understood and appreciated. The practical farmer nowadays should have a working knowledge of chemistry, botany and entomology. He should be well acquainted with the habits and characteristics of birds and animals. He should be trained in business methods and have a knowledge of bookkeeping. He should also have a stock of general information—in short, be an educated, thinking man, thoroughly versed in the science and economics of his own business.

The Agricultural College was designed to afford the facilities for an education of this character. It was to be a technical training school for one of the great industries of the State—the greatest in fact. It has been permitted to degenerate from a department of instruction to a department of investigation and experimentation. Its funds have been diverted to other uses. It has been made to take a subordinate position and has been put under ban by the so-called learned professions. Yet the University has never had a more valuable man on its staff than Professor Hilgard, and science has never had a more ardent worshipper nor produced a more useful servitor of mankind than Luther Burbank. Farming should be a learned profession. Its highest and noblest forms—the forms which insure the largest returns and the broadest national prosperity—call for practical knowledge in several branches of learning.

But the Agricultural College will never be popular or respected till those who have it under their control give it dignity and earnestly strive to have it fulfill the mission its founders had in view. It should not be thrust into the background or given humble quarters in sheds and outhouses. To do so places the stamp of inferiority and the brand of contempt on the school. Such treatment of the branch of the State University that is typical of agriculture and representative of educated husbandry calls for rebuke and resentment on the part of farmers. It is an insult to them as a class and an injustice to them as citizens and taxpayers. The State Grange has done well to take the matter up. An imperative mandate should be given to both the Legislature and the University authorities with respect to the Agricultural College. A fine building and a dairy school are the immediate needs.

SOME PASSING JESTS

FOUND WANTING.—"I must confess," said Maud, "that I am disappointed in Harold. He isn't a bit original or quick at repartee."

"How do you know?" asked Mamie.

"I said I couldn't express my feelings, and he didn't tell me to send them by freight."—Washington Star.

HISTORICAL.—Little Red Riding Hood has just met the wolf.

"Let's go and get a soda," said the wolf.

And, having thus tempted her beyond all resisting, the wolf—but the story is an old one.—Cleveland Leader.

ROYAL WIT.—Woolsey was saying: "Farewell a long farewell to all my greatness."

"I hope it's not a Patti farewell," added Henry VIII, with coarse humor.—Houston Chronicle.

A CASE IN POINT.—"You say he has a visionary and impractical nature?"

"Yes," answered the girl who is employed in the postoffice. "He is one of those people who write 'Rush' on an envelope instead of putting on a special delivery statmp." —Washington Star.

"ADOO, PAREE."—Mrs. Wiggs—Mrs. Newriel is always talking about her trip abroad, but I don't see that it improved her any.

Mrs. Biggs—She thinks it did. She learned today to say Paree for Paris, and adoo for good-by.

ULTRA-FASHIONABLE.—"And are they really so rich?"

"Well, they can afford the three C's."

"What three C's?"

"Chauffeur, connoisseur and chef."—Minneapolis Times.

WORSE THAN NOTHING.—Mifkins—What do you think of that young man who is calling on your daughter?

Bifkins—Oh, he's the limit. He reminds me of a cipher with the rim off.—Chicago News.

FALSE FARE.—The conductor had just taken in a lead nickel.
"Thou art fare, but false," he said, for he was fond of romance.
Then he knocked it down.

MY CASTLE.

I own a castle, stately, tall,
Where silken tapestries are hung
Within an echo-haunted hall,
By gentle breezes idly swung.
In marble niches statues gleam,
With dim, dray portraits set between:
And through the windows sunbeams stream,
To bathe them in their mystic sheen.
But, oh, in Spain's this castle fair,
And I have never journeyed there.

High reach the towers, and thence is seen
The fabled land of tale and song.
Where fairies sport upon the green
And nightly revels linger long.
Through all the halls dim shadows glide,
Of courtly lords and dames befrilled,
Who at a stranger's footsteps hide
Until the echoes all are stilled.
And through those halls I'd gladly stray,
But Spain is far, so far away.

The ghostly shadows beckon me;
They whisper: "Come, for we are thine;
All blessing here is "waiting thee";
And well I know that all is mine.
It all is mine; for me it waits—
White statues, portraits, tapestry—
All, all within the castle gates,
It all is mine; it waits for me.
But, oh, I seek, and seek in vain—
I know not where is far-off Spain.
—Alfred J. Waterhouse in Sunset Magazine.

A SERENADE IN AUTUMN.

Low drops the rose, the fading rose,
That bloomed upon her casement there;
Soft steals the night, the brooding night,
And folds its shadows o'er my fair.

To her the breeze, the Autumn breeze,
Brings farewell perfumes from the vale;
Whilst in the trees, the changing trees,
Sorrows the mateless nightingale.

Bear her, oh wind, that chilled the vale,
The message of the dying flowers:
That love is all the summer gives
And swift as flame are summer hours.

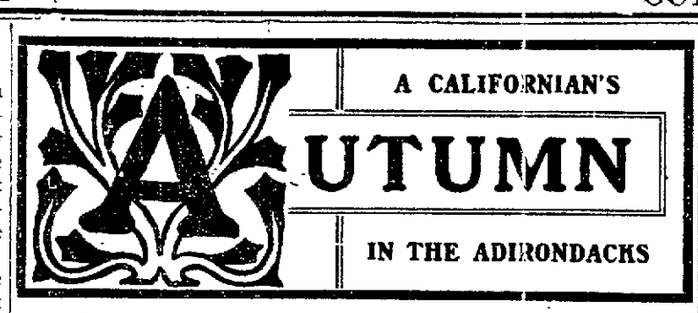

Tell her, oh rose, when soft lay pressed
Against her heart thy vine upon,
That winter weaves but myrtle wreaths
And summer dies when love is done.

Tell her, oh night, how time and chance
Urge fast apace the priceless days;
How sorrow waits on joy delayed
And love which loiters, love betrays.
—Herminie Templeton in October McClure's.

CUPID'S GARDEN.

I built me a summer palace,
In a bower by the sea;
And I called it Cupid's garden—
For that it was to me
Yes, I called it Cupid's garden,
For that it was to me.

Now I loathe that summer palace,
In the bower by the sea;
For she who was its beauty
Has torn her heart from me.
And I call it Sorrow's garden,
For that it is to me.
—Jack Lowell in Boston Ideas.

A Californian who has never been out of his own country cannot imagine the autumn glory of the Eastern States. He has nothing to suggest the gorgeous reds and yellows that creep into the leaves with the dying summer. In all his earth from San Diego to Del Norte there is no such change in nature. The leaves upon his manzanita and his madrone keep their shinging green; his willow and his laurel stay long and cool; his oak stands in the valley and his redwood upon the hill, and seasons come and seasons die and it is all much the living, never changing same. The poplar and the maple and their cousins from afar attempt the traditions of their ancestors, but the aiming dies in its yellow beginning. In California, autumn is scarcely more than a fancy; in the East it is a reality, a princess in a golden robe with red leaves in her arms and red leaves in her yellow hair. Her principality is nowhere so wonderful as in the Adirondacks. The country itself is unique in its own beauty—a wilderness of trees and water. The mountains are uniformly low and rolling. To a Californian they would seem little more than foot hills. There is little color in the earth, none of the purple of the Sierra Nevada, and none of the California color in the sky.

But there is little fairness in a comparison. The Adirondack country is alone in its own beauty. It is a vast park of simple, charming loveliness. It has its own individuality and leaves its own impression. It is all things to many men, to the hunter, the angler and the boatman, to the star gazer and the lover of trees and the growing things of earth. It is a place of rest and relief, a solitude of silence.

But the great charm of the country is in its lakes and ponds. They are everywhere, scattered about among the hills like mirrors set in a carpet of rolling green. In the morning there is an elusive light upon these lakes, a dream-like mist of trees and water, hills and sky. When it is gone and the sun is high another light comes on. The lake is like glass, no move nor stir. The trees troop down to the edge and reflect themselves in the water. The sky is scarcely blue and the lake itself is colorless, but the peace and the beauty, the joy and the stillness are nowhere else in all the land from the west to the east, from the gulf to the great lakes and the sea beyond. And when the night comes on another world comes with it. The moon may not be there, but the stars look down and the water sleeps, and the trees stand still upon the hillside. There is no sound of night bird nor of night wind. There is nothing but the shaking stars, the black earth and the silent water.

The Long Lake country is typical of the Adirondacks. The lake is long and narrow, in unusual complement to its name. Upon either side the mountains run rising and falling and covered with trees. In each end of the lake are tiny islands wrapped in pine trees. The village of Long Lake begins at the water's edge and then straggles off into the hills. Some of the houses are old and quaint, others new and uninteresting. The population is made up almost entirely of the real Yankee, a type that seldom lasts long in California. Then there are French Canadians and descendants of the original tribes of Indians. These people are quite superior to the California aborigines. He is of finer physique. But this is not saying much, remembering what Humboldt said of the Western native.

All about the lake are little coves and bays, little inlets, and promontories. One of these tiny bays is filled with lily pads. A meadow runs down to the water's edge with a stream winding in the grass. Upon the rising ground are apple trees and the scattered houses of the village. High on a hill is a white steepled church, bringing to mind the line of Goldsmith. Beyond are the mountains, and then the gray white sky. On one side of the lake is an abandoned farm house standing in a clearing. The house is large and old fashioned. A porch runs along the side. Upon the windows are faded green shutters. There is an empty barn, and an empty farm yard, with nothing in it but grass and wild sunflowers.

The summer thing to do in the Adirondacks is to make a tour of the lakes. It is a delightful excursion and the most satisfactory way of seeing the country. The Adirondack guide is generally a character, a type that may not be seen beyond the Adirondack lines. Like all mountaineers he is a son of the soil, but his contact with people of the outside world has made him unique. He is at his best when loquacious. An assurance of self, an idea of personal importance goes with this gift of talk, and a rustic gallantry, that is generally accompanied with an unconscious condescension.

But the trip is glorious, through lake after lake, through rivers and ponds and over strips of "carry," in quiet water, and under cool green trees, in sight of far-off mountains, in touch of lily pads, of water grasses and water lilies, of hanging branches and banks of fern. The country is different everywhere, and yet the same. The note of quiet peace and quiet beauty sounds through it all.

The Adirondack summer is greener than the California season. The frequent showers keep the grass alive in the open country. The fields are full of daisies, yellow buttercups and clover blossoms. The woods are fragrant with balsam. Lilies of the valley are in the soft earth, and a tiny red and a tiny blue flower unknown in California. But an Adirondack summer isn't all smiles and sunlight. A storm is liable to blow up at any time and when it does it is for the timid to tremble. A half darkness comes over the sky, the rain beats down in torrents and floods, the wind blows, the lightning blazes and the thunder bangs and booms until it would seem the elements were all at war. It is most spectacular, but would terrify the average Californian out of his senses. An Easterner would say something about earthquakes, but the damage done by the tempest is absolutely nothing compared with that of the lightning. But the storm goes away and the sun comes out again, the beaten grass looks up at the lilies of the valley. The earth smiles at the sky and the lake is one long bit of glass.

Before the summer is ended the first signs of the autumn creep into the leaves. At first a leaf turns yellow, then red. Then another leaf turns yellow and red like the other, and soon the tree takes on its autumn color. Sometimes there is but one leaf that has turned, and it is a brilliant crimson. When the summer is really dead by the calendar and autumn has come into her own, the woods have all well hurried into the season's covering. There are patches of yellow and brown in the hills. The atmosphere has changed. It is cooler in the mornings and evenings. In the fields the daisies are giving way to a pretty blue flower. In the woods the lovely golden rod takes the place of the lily of the valley. The few butterflies are gone and there are fewer bird notes.

Then the glory of the time rushes on. Each day the autumn dye is deeper. The hills are covered with a gorgeous carpet, red and blue, green and purple, brown and yellow. In the midst of all this gayety the lake is still serene. The lily pads lie motionless. The stream winds like a line of silver through the grass in the meadow. A tree upon the edge of the lake holds a blazing branch out over the water. The reflection blazes back. Further along is a purple branch, then a brilliant yellow. In the woods the leaves fall upon the ground covering the roadway. The sun shines through the trees and the falling leaves turn them into gold. There is a mild warmth in the air. A chipmunk scampers up a tree and jumps among the branches. A tiny wind blows among the leaves in the road. It is Midasland, fairyland, all things are real, all things are true. It is autumn in the Adirondacks, the reign of the princess of the golden robe with the red leaves in her arms and the red leaves in her yellow hair.

It is a world of wonder that is nowhere else in all the land from one sea to another, and all the king's horses and all the king's people might labor and struggle till pens were horses and horses were pens, and all the king's writers might struggle, too, for a thousand years and a thousand days, but no one could tell of the joy of these woods in the autumn time. Only the leaves themselves can tell, only the tiny wind, the lilies and the lily pads. The lakes alone may show the crimson branches hanging over them. Only the hills may flaunt their colored carpet, only the meadow stream may tell of the mountain top from whence it came, and only the trees there may tell of the wonder in the earth beneath, the lakes and the rivers like silver in the sun. And only an Adirondack night may tell of an Adirondack moon and Adirondack stars. It is all the fullness of earth, a day of glory and of gold. It is the last gleam of Nature's candle before it goes out in the winter wind.

A Californian will love his own land no less for having been in such a world as this. No leaf of red nor leaf of gold may cover in his heart his own blue skies, no gorgeous hill may hide his purple mountains. No misty lights on morning lakes nor lights of noon may blind him to his own dear earth. But rather will he think of one more world that walks in beauty with his own. He'll dream another dream of lilies and of lily pads, of long white water and of long fair hills, of misty mornings and of drowsy noons, of daisy fields and lily lanes, of golden rod and clover. He has seen dyes that Tyre never made, a painted floor that Persia never dreamed of. He has been in the valley of delight and has tasted of its fountain, and to the end of his thought he will think with joy of the reign land of the princess of the golden gown with the red leaves in her arms and the red leaves in her yellow hair.

HENRY S. KIRK.

New York, September 25.

Hints for the Ladies.

Halloween favors are beginning to appear.

New raincoats shown are almost invisible check.

Changeable silks are much in evidence in the season's showings.

The new evening coats are voluminous affairs of velvet and lace and silk.

New punch bowls come in low oval shape and are better liked than the plain round-shaped ones.

Black hats are shown either trimmed with bright green toque plumes or with vivid orange ones.

School bags come in tan, sheepskin and black leather and range in price from 55 cents to $1.25 each.

Delightful little bronze busts are selling for $1 each, while most desirable ones in white marble are marked down to $5.00.

Rose bowls, nasturtium dishes and golden red pitchers are among the dainty pieces in the Japanese departments.

Tall hot water pots, with spout and handle in urn shape, are among the attractive pieces in the gayly decorated Wemyss ware.

Vests of white cloth or kid, elaborately embroidered in silk or in beads—black and gold—are shown in the trimming departments.

Tiny hand mirrors, some three inches long, with French plate and engraved sterling silver backs, are intended to be carried in the new handbag.

Small ash receivers of metal on which stands a lone mule, beneath which are the words "From Missouri," are souvenirs of the St. Louis Fair that appear in the shops for 50 cents each.

Nothing in the shops exceeds the beauty of a set of dinnerware in gold and white. A plain gold band circles the plates, cups, saucers and various other pieces and in the center is the monogram of the owner.

It's hardly worth the time or the strain in the eyes to embroider chevrons, shields or small anchors in the little folks' sailor suits when they can be bought in the shops all embroidered ready to sew on for the sum of 10 cents each.

To remove tea stains from a white dress try gin. Place the stained part in a saucer with enough gin to cover it, rub with a piece of the same material. When the stain has disappeared press the material on the wrong side with a moderately hot iron.

A bit of glove powder costs but a trifle and by its constant use the life of gloves will be greatly prolonged. The powder helps the glove to slip easily and prevents dragging or pulling of the leather, besides keeping the hands cool and dry in hot weather.

Soft-wood floors are now stained a rich dark blue, green or brown, as a background for rugs, especially where there are very few rugs, so the attention will be distracted from the scarcity of rugs, besides, the warmth of color tone help to furnish wonderfully.

To prevent little lumps of ice from forming in a sherbet while it is being frozen open the can two or three times during the process and scrape the sherbet from the sides with a sharp knife, mixing it with the rest. Serve ices as soon as they are taken from the freezer.

A furred iron or copper kettle is easily cleaned. Place it, empty, over a clear fire for a short time. This will loosen the chalky deposit, which can then be removed. To prevent the kettle from furring again keep a large marble in it or an oyster shell will answer the same purpose.

To prevent lamp chimneys from cracking wrap each chimney loosely but entirely in a cloth; place them together in a kettle and cover with cold water. Bring the water to boil; continue the heat ten or fifteen minutes and then cool off. By this tempering they are toughened against all ordinary lamp heat.

Fruit or vinegar stains on knives are easily removed by rubbing the blades after they have been washed with a freshly cut raw potato, then dry and polish in the usual way. Always clean knives as soon as possible after they have been used, for the longer they are left the longer they will take to polish.

VALUE OF APPLES.

Apples are now regarded as a most wonderful fruit. In a noted sanitarium, says a popular paper, where nervous diseases are treated, placards are hung on the walls bearing the legend—"Eat Apples." The patients are ordered to pare them when they eat them raw.

In this sanitarium persons who cannot eat "greenings" are advised to eat the less acid "belleflowers" and "russets." Baking is said to be the better way of cooking apples, for it preserves the fruit juices inside the skin. Eat Apples!

TALKED IN FAVOR OF A NEW CHARTER.

Petition Will Be Prepared ane Sent to the Alameda Trustees Calling For An Election.

ALAMEDA, October 8.—At the last meeting of the West End Improvement Association, the proposed completion of the Bay Farm Island road was taken up and discussed at length.

Fritz Boehmer and Judge R. B. Tappan, who have resurrected the proposition, were present at the meeting and expressed their views. The consensus of opinion was to the effect that the new road would greatly benefit the city by affording another outlet to traffic.

Mr. Boehmer exhibited a map showing the details of the proposition and advanced as an argument in favor of the road the belief that if it were opened most of the farmers from San Leandro and vicinity would make Alameda their first stopping place before going through to Oakland.

Judge Tappan said that the first thing to be done would be to find out what the road would cost and who would pay for it.

CONCERNING NEW CHARTER.

The question of a new charter was considered and several prominent men, among whom were Chas. Neal, Colonel Bullock and Judge Tappan, expressed their opinions, all conceding that the need of a charter was evident and favoring the move in the direction of securing it.

In speakng on the subject, Judge Tappan said:

"Oakland is eager to take us up and we surely do not wish to lose our identity. By means of a freeholders' charter annexation can be prevented."

Mr. Neal was thoroughly in favor of a new charter and said he believed that the majority of the voters were of a similar opinion at this time.

Colonel Bullock thought it was about time the city had a new charter and was personally in favor of it.

It was finally resolved that the association favored the new charter proposition and endorsed it. A petition will be prepared and sent to the Trustees. A committee consisting of Messrs. Green, Hawks and Owens was appointed to attend to the matter.

WHIST TOURNAMENT.

ALAMEDA, October 8.—Despite the inclemency of the weather the whist tournament given for charity last night at the City Hall, by the German Ladies' Relief Society was well attended. Twenty-eight handsome prizes were awarded the fortunate players.

Among the patronesses were. Mesdames Mayrisch, Helmken, Clawiter, Schroeder, Spreckels, Wilhelmi, Kahler, Schoneau, Hecker and Lutgen.

The scorers were Miss Caroline Linderman, Miss Maud Biemer, Miss Mundwyler, Miss Harms, Miss Frances Reinecker, Miss Gertrude Renner Miss Benson, Miss Dora Cranz, Miss Gertrude Bruns, Miss Schwartz, Miss Wichman and Mrs. Kaehler.

FIREMEN WILL ELECT OFFICERS.

ALAMEDA, October 8.—For the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year, the Board of Foremen and Engineers of the Fire Department will meet next Thursday.

The following are to be elected: Chairman of the Board, at present filled by Chief Engineer Fred K. Krauth, Jr; first and second engineers, now filled by F. K. Willington and W. J. Steinmetz; secretary of the department, Percy R. Fox, present incumbent and treasurer, now filled by George J. Morris.

The present incumbents are all candidates for re-election and there is only one office for which there seems to be opposition the position of first assistant chief engineer.

Thomas R. Hansen is making an active campaign for the office and has secured the instructions of the Thompson Hose Company of which he is a member, for the position.

The Whidden Hose Company has instructed for F. K. Willington, present incumbent, who is accorded the praise of the heads of the department as being thoroughly efficient and conscientious in the performance of his duties.

Although the other hose companies have thus far made no recommendations, there is a likelihood that they may do so.

CORONER WILL INVESTIGATE.

ALAMEDA, October 8.—The case of Raymond Freese, the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Freese of 1523 Fountain street at the East End, who died on Tuesday as the result of eating the phosphorous from a bunch of matches and whose funeral took place on Wednesday without the formality of an inquest, is to be made the subject of an official investigation on the part of Coroner Henry B. Mehrmann. The Coroner asserts that a burial permit should not have been issued by L. W. Stidham, M. D., Alameda's Health Officer, without the death from poisoning being first made the subject of judicial inquiry.

"The case is one on which an inquest should have been held, and I shall institute a thorough investigation. It appears to be an instance where the Health Officer was at fault," said Coroner Mehrmann.

"Health Officer Stidham declares he was entirely justified under the circumstances in signing the burial permit.

"When a reputable physician signs a death certificate," said Dr. Stidham, "I have no recourse but to issue a burial permit. I am not an agent of the Coroner's office. It is simply mulcting the taxpayers to have inquests held in these minor cases. There have been a number of similar cases of deaths here, where accidental poisoning was a contributing cause, and in which no inquest was held. About all the Coroner's office is good for most of the time, is to draw down fees."

IDENTIFY BODY.

ALAMEDA, October 8.—The body found on the bay shore near the borax works Thursday afternoon, where it had drifted in with the tide, was identified yesterday afternoon as that of Albert Harris of San Francisco. Deceased was a laborer, aged 35 years, and roomed at 414 Jackson street. The body was identified by Joseph A. Chabot, a lodger in the same house, who stated that deceased was last seen at his room on October 1 when he wore a heavy mustache. The remains of deceased show that he was clean shaven when he was drowned. Chabot believes that he committed suicide. Harris had no relatives in this country.

WEDS NEWARK MERCHANT.

ALAMEDA, October 8.—Miss Anna Helmstein, of this city and Fred A. Moses of Newark, Alameda county, were united in marriage Thursday evening at the First Presbyterian Church, the Rev F. S. Brush performing the ceremony. The wedding was a simple one but a few friends of the contracting parties being present. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Minnie Helmstein, and Frank Dusterberry acted as the groom's attendant. After the wedding a supper was served at a restaurant in San Francisco. The newly wedded couple will make their home in Newark where the groom is a prominent merchant.

GRACE IN NEW ROLE.

She is Made Co-Respondent in a Divorce Suit.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 8.—Grace McNaughton, who was recently tried for theft in Oakland, is named as co-respondent in a divorce suit commenced yesterday by Mrs. Elsie M. Cleary against Detective George M. Cleary. Mrs. Cleary charged her husband with cruelty as well as infidelity and asks that she be allowed to resume her maiden name, Saylor.

In her complaint Mrs. Cleary alleges that in last November she traced her husband to a lodging-house at 271 Fourth street, in this city, where he was living with the McNaughton girl.

She states that he locked the woman with him in a closet as she entered the room and then summoned the porter to throw his wife downstairs.

Mrs. Cleary further alleges that in last July, when she questioned her husband about a diamond ring he was wearing, which she claims was given to him by Grace McNaughton, he grasped her by the neck and almost strangled her.

TO BUILD ELECTRIC ROAD.

H. E. Huntington is Back of the New Company.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 8.—The information was given out yesterday by certain persons closely identified with the Huntington electric railway interest that H. E. Huntington is back of the Oakland and Marysville Railroad. It is further stated that in this enterprise Huntington contemplates the building, operation and equipment of an electric road that will be in a position to compete for a large share of the freight and passenger traffic between Marysville, Sacramento, Oakland and intermediate points.

Preliminary steps for the organization of this corporation were taken during the months of August and September, when several of Huntington's engineers and legal retainers met at the St. Francis Hotel in this city. At one of these meetings five of Huntington's associates from Los Angelese were present. They were A. C. Balch, A. H. Koebig, William G. Kerckhoff, Judge James A. Gibson and H. W. O'Melveny. While Engineer Balch was devoting his time to engineering matters connected with the proposed new line through the Sacramento valley, Attorneys Gibson and O'Melveny are said to have been busy with legal matters, one of which was the arrangement whereby the Mercantile Trust Company of this city has brought the new company into existence.

Huntington's 300 miles of electric lines in Southern California demonstrate the fact that it is practicable to operate the lines of a steam road with an electric line and operate the same with profit.

This new Oakland and Marysville Railway which Huntington is promoting will closely follow the power lines of the Bay Counties Power Company and its allied corporations. On this account a rumor was afloat yesterday that these companies were interested in the new railway enterprise. This however is emphatically denied by E. J. de Sabla, Jr., one of the officials of the company who states that his company is not interested in the proposed Oakland and Marysville Railway, but that it would be pleased with the gentlemen building the line should they want power.

STANDARD BRIQUETTE FACTORY WILL SOON BE READY TO START.

The retail coal dealers of Alameda county have incorporated and will establish the Standard Briquette Factory at foot of Webster street on part of the property lately purchased by C. H. Holbrook Jr., Esq. from whom they have acquired a five years lease. This will be adjoining the Oregon Improvement Company's wharf, with whom they have arrangements for a full supply of coal, thus being able to save on transportation of raw materia. After thorough examination of different processes they have acquired the Crawford Patent Machinery and Process having satisfied themselves that by them they can give to the people of Oakland and vicinity a fuel of home manufacture that is very much superior to any other manufactured fuel on the market today. As nearly all the retail coal dealers of Alameda county are stockholders in this enterprise, it will not only give it great stability, but consumers will be able to order from their own dealer, the factory not doing any retail business whatever.

The officers and directors of the company are E. C. Robinson, President, E. F. Hughes, Vice-President J. J. Crawford, Secretary, Geo. A. Cockerton Treasurer and H. A. Johnston, General Manager.

Mr. J. D. Crawford, inventor of the process, will have charge of the Factory and E. J. Graham, late manager for Tesla Coal Company will act as General Sales Agent and Representative.

The machinery is almost completed and there is no doubt this company will be able to place their product on the market before the end of this month when no doubt the Oakland people will show their patriotism for a large demand for this excellent fuel which is made in their midst. The success of the enterprise is assured. In securing the services of Mr. E. J. Graham as outside representative, no better selection could have been made. Mr. Graham has for many years been in this line of business and is widely and favorably known in this section, and will certainly prove a valuable person to this company. His long service with the Tesla Company places him in a position fully familiar with the responsible duties which are assigned to him.

ZINKAND IS TO TEST OAKLAND.

Manager Ferdinand Zinkand of the Cafe Zinkand, San Francisco, is to have a twin of "the Zinkand" in Oakland. His father, Charles A. Zinkand, founder of that noted restaurant of the metropolis, is disposed to co-operate with him in the new enterprise.

Ferdinand Zinkand is a son-in-law of Fred Becker, the Oakland meat merchant. Mr. Zinkand may decide to acquire the Maple Hall property northeast corner of Webster and Fourteenth streets and convert that attractive two-story structure into a big cafe and banquet house.

Maple Hall is situated on land occupying 103x160 feet. It is in the business district, near Broadway and close to various club houses and the fashionable Lake Merritt residence district. The entire property is owned by W. W. Chapman and it has a market value, banking experts estimate, of between $40,000 and $46,000. F. R. Potter, founder of the Union League Club of Alameda county, has a four months' bond on it and Mr. Zinkand now has the option of purchase through Mr. Potter.

The projected Oakland Cafe Zinkand is a fixed determination of Mr. Zinkand and it is likely to be open for patronage at an early date.

TELEPHONE THIEF IS ARRAIGNED.

Charles Knudson, known as the "Telephone Thief," was arraigned before Police Judge Samuels this morning on a charge of defrauding the W. P. Fuller Company out of $80 worth of material. Knudson is alleged to have telephoned for that amount of paints to be delivered at a certain address. A boy received for them. Later on Knudson took the things away in a wagon and sold them to W. H. Hatfield. His preliminary examination was set for October 10.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

Under and by virtue of an execution issued out of the Superior Court of the City and County of San Francisco, State of California, and to me directed and delivered upon a judgment rendered in said Court, on the 30th day of September, A. D. 1904, in favor of John Ferem and against John Pedersen for the sum of $1000 90, together with costs of suit and interest, I have levied on all the right, title, claim and interest of said defendant of, in and to the following described property, to-wit:

An undivided one-sixteenth (1-16) interest, owned by defendant John Pedersen, and standing in the name of Amie Pedersen, of, in and to the American bark "Yosemite," together with her tackle, apparel and furniture. Said bark being of 1153 gross, and 1040 net tonnage; length, 183 feet; beam, 37 feet 2 inches; depth of hold, 24 feet 5 inches, and was built in 1868 at Portsmouth, N. H.

Notice is hereby given that on

at 11 o'clock A. M. of said day, I will sell all the right, title and interest of said John Pedersen in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy plaintiff's claim, besides all costs, interest and accruing costs.

This sale will take place on board of said bark "Yosemite," lying nearly opposite Hay and Wright shipyard, on Alameda Point, Alameda Co., at public auction, for cash in hand, to highest and best bidder.

Dated, Oakland, this 8th day of October, A. D. 1904.

BOARD OF WORKS MEETS.

The Board of Police and Fire Commissioners yesterday afternoon retired Jos. Drew, a policeman on half pay. Drew has been incapacitated for several months.

The Board of Works did not award the contract for repairing the three fire engines of the department, but decided to have Fire Chief Ball prepare specifications on which all competitors can bid. There is $6500 to be expended in the repair of the engines. The American Fire Engine Company, the Oakland Iron Works and the Union Machine Works are all active competitors.

The Board also directed that the secretary advertise for bids for dredging the city wharves at the foot of Webster and Franklin streets. The sum of $5000 has been appropriated for the work. George Bayliss was granted permission to move a house from West street, between Thirty-sixth and Thirty-seventh, to Peralta street, between Thirty fourth and Thirty-fifth streets.

George Babcock was granted permission to cut down trees at Twenty-first avenue and Twenty-ninth street.

RUSKIN CLUB GIVES DINNER

The Ruskin Club gave a dinner at the Piedmont Clubhouse yesterday, at which covers were laid for twenty-five. A profusion of red and pink rose were used in decorating the tables. F. J. Bamford led the "round table" talk. After the coffee had been cleared away, some interesting stories were told and a paper on "The Class Struggle" read by Jack London.

Mr. London treated the subject from a Socialist standpoint, stating that notwithstanding the denials of the press, pulpit and professor, there was a class struggle already going on in this country and that the question was how best to overcome it in the interest of the laboring class.

The members of the club and the guests who were present were: C. Thaler, F. J. Bamford, H. Hauck, J. J. Rose Jr., B. Silverstein, F. W. Reyland, D. L. Lyon, F. P. D. Gray, A. P. Stiefvater, Dr. W. H. LABOR UNION NEWS.

MATERIAL TEAMSTERS' UNION WILL NOT WITHDRAW FROM COUNCIL.

The Material Teamsters' Union has decided to ignore the order of the Building Trades' Council to withdraw from the Central Labor Council, and for the present the union will remain affiliated with both councils.

A meeting was held Thursday night to consider the matter and this was the result of the conference.

B. P. Pegman, C. Nash and Wm. Greer were elected delegates to the Building Trades' Council.

PROVISION TRADES' COUNCIL.

The Provision Trades' Council met last night and transacted much business of importance. Reports from affiliated unions were received and all were of a progressive character.

WOMAN WHO IS ALWAYS LATE.

One might write a volume on "The Woman Who is Always Late." You wonder that her family has a nerve left in the world, or that her husband ever has any "peace of mind." Of course you cannot have a household along normal lines, if things are always late, and if the mother of the household has not learned the lesson of promptness.

But when she is late at home, it affects only her own family, but unfortunately the habit of being late extends to other things. She is selfish enough to make her whole world stand still in the day's occupation, and wait for her ladyship to arrive on the scene. And in this day of rush and bustle, where we make every minute count, she is a sore trial to her friends.

IF IT IS A CLUB MEETING.

If it happens to be a club meeting,—she is late of course, and the committee possesses its soul in patience, till she comes bustling in. It seems to be nothing to her that a luncheon is simply ruined because it has been kept waiting a half hour, or that her hostess tries to smile and look pleasant, as the minutes slip by, and she is the dinner guest to arrive late. She comes in smiling, and making profuse apologies, and she doesn't seem to understand that all the other women are just saying under their breath "How mean of her!"

BUT IF IT IS A CARD PARTY,

But it is at a card party that she shines in all her glory. She is always late. She keeps everyone waiting. The tables are ready, the other guests have arrived, but the hostess must wait for her ladyship. You wonder if she really does it on purpose,—if she wants special attention called to her gown, as she comes "swishing" down the stairs.

Or you wonder if she wants you specially to notice her new hat. You do notice it, you wish something would happen to it,—that it might get sat on, or she might drop a match on it. You wonder if no one has ever told her how very selfish and inconsiderate she is,—and how mistaken she is, if she thinks the world is sitting back, ready to admire her. No one ever admires a thoroughly selfish woman, and you must reckon in that class, the woman who is always late.

AND THERE ARE A GOOD MANY LATE.

And there are a good many of them. Not a single card game ever begins in the schedule time. The hostess says two o'clock, but many times it is near three before the game really begins. And that makes every thing late at the other end of the afternoon, and the guests have a hard time reaching home before the dinner hour.

I suppose one cannot relieve the situation—the woman who is always late is a perfect nuisance,—but we all seem afraid of offending her, and I suppose we'll go on inviting her, and making ourselves miserable on account of it, to the end of time.

FRENCH PEOPLE'S OLD MOTTO.

The French people have a fine old motto which reads, "Noblesse Oblige,"—it is the motto on many a crest among the old French families. It means, of course, "nobleness obliges you"—because you have a high standard in things moral and ethical, you must live up to it.

And in nothing is it more evident, than in the forms of good breeding. "Nobleness" obliges you to do a great many things you don't want to do. It makes you keep your temper in the house of a friend, under the most trying circumstances. If a hostess has been good enough to include one in her hospitable invitations she is entitled to the most careful consideration. And that does not mean fighting out old scores over a card table, and making all peace-loving individuals simply miserable.

"Scrapping" is the undignified name for many such a performance, and well bred people ought not to countenance it. No hostess wants to feel that a guest in her home has had her feelings hurt, and a hostess has a right to expect special consideration from her guests. There have been social events lately where the true little inscription, "Noblesse Oblige," might have been displayed, with good results, in capital letters.

ONE HEARS OF DEBUTANTES.

One is hearing a good deal lately about the "debutantes" of the coming season, but in reality there are not many girls who are distinctly debutantes. Social customs are changing a great deal in regard to young girls, and the whole subject of their coming out has many phases.

In the first place the girl who graduates from the High School at eighteen, and takes a four years' university course is twenty-two, before she sees much of the social world—excepting of course, the informal college affairs, and they are not to be reckoned as part of conventional Vanity Fair.

Many mothers have grown to intensely dislike the words, "coming-out." One of the best known women of the smart set over here said last season, "I want my daughter to know my friends, but she will not have 'a coming out.' Our daughter is not on the market, and we hope to keep her at home with us for a long time to come."

That is very much the feeling that many mothers have in regard to their young daughters.

It is rather difficult to know what to do with them, just after school days are over, and when they do not care to go to the university.

For a great many families do not endorse the co-educational system of the State University.

A large coming-out party with a round of social events following it, is rather apt to spoil a young girl. She is petted and made much of,—and it really takes a level head to stand it all. Perhaps it doesn't matter so very much, for the debutante will learn her life's lessons, as well as other people later.

But one notices the changing of social standards in the introduction of young girls.

The younger girls have dancing clubs for themselves, such as "The Maple Club,"—they give their own dainty luncheons,—their own little teas for their friends,—on an amateur scale of course.

There is even the dinner and dinner dance,—and if they are fortunate enough to have thoughtful relatives, there are many theater parties during the winter. For the young girl of nineteen simply adores the drama, and if it makes her weep at intervals, she has had a very good time.

And perhaps there is a large tea given by intimate friends of the family, and the young girl is invited to assist in the dining room, and so she has a glimpse of some social customs of the grown-up world.

Perhaps that is the better way,—to let the young girl learn her social lessons slowly and one at a time.

But most mothers are right—they like to keep their daughters young as long as they can. For youth with its splendid enthusiasm, its wistful, happy, glad outlook on life—passes away all too soon, never to return.

MANY GETTING AUTO HABIT.

The number of automobiles in town is steadily increasing, and each new enthusiast goes around like a missionary, seeking whom he may convert to the automobile habit.

Of course, he never tells you of the times the tire blows up, and he comes home on the nearest street car. Nor of the times when something happens, nobody knows what, and it is next day before the machinist from across the bay arrives to find out what is the matter. These are all automobile secrets, not to be disclosed to a listening world!

At the theater the other night, a merry crowd of automobilists were trying to induce a friend, one of our bright society women, to buy an automobile. Glowing tales they told her of flying along the road, annihilating space and time. But she knew the road as well as they, and the picture of the disabled automobile was fresh in her mind.

"Oh, yes," she said, 'I will have an automobile built to order,—and it will have a great big platform built on the back, so that we can bring the horses along. They can tow us back!"

And the shout of laughter that greeted her little speech made the audience wish it knew the joke.

KNOWS JUST WHERE TO PLACE HER.

On the street car the other day there were two beautifuly gowned women, who had been making calls.

"How did you like her?" asked one of them.

"Well, I know just where to place her socially, when she said 'dinner party,'" answered her friend.

You felt rather sorry for the poor little woman whose social status was settled that way, and after all, there are a good many little hostesses in our own city, who say 'dinner party"—when they mean simply "dinner."

They give a "dinner," not a "dinner party,"—and after all a hostess who takes pride in being well-bred, will be exceedingly careful of her English.

MISS MACDONALD GOES EAST.

Miss Bernice Macdonald has gone East, and will visit some of the larger Eastern cities. Early in the year she is going abroad, to be away some months.

MISS MOLLER IS VERY POPULAR.

Very few girls have received so much attention as Miss Lillie Moller, one of the most popular brides-elect of the year.

Mrs. Hugh McCall Webster entertained for Miss Moller at cards on Thursday afternoon, and the guests spent some enjoyable hours. The Websters are spending the winter with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rued, and the card party was given at the Rued home on Eighth street. The drawing room was a most artistic study in pink carnations, and the dining room also carried out the pretty color scheme of pink.

Five hundred was the game for the afternoon, and the guests could be pardoned for trying to win the beautiful prizes. The latter were handkerchiefs made in Germany, by relatives of the hostess, and they showed the most exquisite handiwork, the rare work dear to the feminine heart.

The gowns worn by many of the guests were handsome and artistic.

Mrs. J. C. Rued assisted her daughter in entertaining her guests, and she looked exceedingly well, in a becoming gown in soft tones of gray.

Mrs. Webster wore a gown in white effects, the corsage trimmed with a beautiful bertha of duchess lace.

Mrs. Willard Williamson wore a very pretty gown of white chiffon, the gown lighted with touches of yellow.

Miss Marietta Havens was also in white chiffon, the gown showing the daintiest little roses in pink applique.

Mrs. Thomas Coghill also wore a gown of white, the pretty gown set off with a hat showing a gorgeous arrangement of violets.

Miss Anita Oliver's gown was of white chiffon, and Miss Ada Kenna's gown of white showed dainty marguerites, appliqued in yellow.

Miss Lillie Moller's gown was a dainty creation in white effects, and she looked very pretty indeed, wearing dainty sprays of maiden hair in her corsage and in her hair.

Miss Gertrude Moller looked very pretty and sweet in a gown of blue.

Mrs. Felton Taylor was in gray—her gown daintily appliqued in lace. Among the guests of the afternoon were:

Mrs. William Williamson, Miss Lillie Moller, Mrs. T. B. Coghill, Mrs. Allender, Mrs. Felton Taylor, Mrs. Montel Taylor, Mrs. Maxwell Taft, Mrs. Henry Rosenfeld, Mrs. George Hammer, Mrs. Irving Burrell, Mrs. Everett Ames, Mrs. Frederick B. Dillam, Mrs. David Brown, and the Misses Gertrude Moller, Helen Powell, Alice Conklin, Carolyn Williamson, Carolyn and Anita Oliver, Marietta Havens, Isabelle Kendall, May Coogan, Noelle De Golia, Anita Thomson, Helen Garthwaite, Miss Clarissa Eby, Miss Gertrude Gould.

MISS DORNIN ENTERTAINS.

Miss Helen Dornin has been entertaining very informally this week, her guests being entirely girls of the younger set. Miss Dornin entertained at an interesting "shower" for Miss Mabel Cooley, whose engagement was recently announced, and very pretty gifts were prepared for the guest of honor.

Miss Helen Dornin was also the hostess on Friday at a very informal tea in honor of Miss Rogers, who has been visiting in Oakland, and who leaves in the near future for her home in Salt Lake.

Among the young friends who were entertained very informally by Miss Dornin were:

The Misses Marguerite Butters, Katherine Brown, Ruth Houghton, Sevilla Hayden, Katherine Kutz, Gertrude Russell, Louise Hall, Anna Franck, Margaret Franck, Lucy Fennessey, Bertha Bernard, Cornelia Stratton, Rose Kales, Lillie Reed, Charlotte Morrison, Else Schilling, Margery Coogan, Hazel Holt, Hazel Knowles, Lucille Shoecraft, Edna Orr, Rachel Newsom, Vera and Hazel Cope, the Misses Moller, Elsie Campbell.

MRS. SCHILLING'S LARGE AFFAIR.

One of the largest social events of the month is set for next Thursday, when Mrs. August Schilling will entertain her friends at her beautiful home at the foot of Jackson street.

It is not the coming out of Miss Elsa Schilling, the charming young daughter of the household, and it is really very annoying that it should be so reported.

Miss Schilling's name was not upon her mother's card, so one wonders how the wrong impression could have gone abroad.

Miss Elsa Schilling is a very young girl, and there is plenty of time for her to go on with her studies before the regular society duties are to be taken up. Miss Schilling has been abroad, and she is a graduate of Miss Head's School, but she is studying languages just the same, as are many of her young girl friends.

With a few young girl friends she will assist her mother, staying in the dining room and helping to serve the guests.

The Schilling home is admirably adapted for entertaining and the guests will enjoy not only the lovely home, but also the fascinating grounds that are among the most picturesque in the city.

In Mrs. Schilling's receiving party will be Mrs. Ehrenberg, Mrs. R. G. Brown, Mrs. George Greenwood, Mrs. M. W. Kales, Mrs. Thomas Crellin, Mrs. Arthur Crellin, Mrs. Edwin Goodall, Mrs. Minor Goodall, Mrs. Wheaton, Mrs. George S. Wheaton, Mrs. J. A. Folger, Mrs. Edson Adams, Mrs. Fred Magee, Mrs. E. B. Beck, Mrs. T. B. Coghill, Mrs. J. R. Burnham, Mrs. Edgar Bishop, Mrs. Egbert Stone, Mrs. Harry East Miller, Mrs. C. O. G. Miller, Mrs. Charles Minor Cooper, Mrs. C. Schilling and the Misses Kales, Miss Cordie Bishop, Miss Coogan, Miss Jackson, the Misses Knowles, Miss Burnham, Miss Hayden, Miss Marguerite Butters, Miss Alice Andrews, Miss Vera Havemeyer, Miss Jessie Craig, Miss Agnes Ehrenberg.

In a social way the reception will be one of the most important of the season.

NEW DANCING CLASS.

A new dancing class is arousing the attention of many mothers, for it is just what some of the young people are needing in a social way.

Some of them are too young to be included in the Maple Club list, and too old to care for the average dancing class in the afternoons.

So this dancing club has been established, and in due course of time its members will be candidates for admission to the Maple Club. The new club will meet twice a month, on Saturday evenings at Reed Hall.

Dancing will begin at 8 o'clock, and continue till half after 10. Among the patronesses are Mrs. Frank B. Ogden, Mrs. M. W. Kales, Mrs. James Harrold and Mrs. Ehrenberg.

The patronesses hope to keep this new dancing club along simple lines, especially as far as dress is concerned. And they are quite right, for dress has come to be a subject dreaded in many a household, and we cannot help feeling sometimes that the High School girls are hopelessly overdressed. But I suppose it is a matter that rests with the mothers, and each mother seems to want her little ewe lamb to make the best showing possible. However, the patronesses of this new club have extremely sensible ideas, and they are firm enough to carry them out, so we may expect a dancing club definitely worth while.

MANY LINGER ABROAD.

Many well known people from this coast still linger abroad.

Mrs. Hearst has been traveling all summer, and has spent some most delightful weeks in the Swiss Mountains. After the close of the London season, she went to Switzerland, and has made an extended trip, visiting many places of interest. Mrs. Hearst is now in Paris, and has not yet planned to return to the United States.

BELDENS HAVE GONE EAST.

Mrs. Belden and Miss Nadine Belden left for the East and Europe on Monday. They expect to be away from California for some years. They are going first to Dresden, where Miss Belden will study French and German and music and they will then travel extensively on the continent.

MOORES AT HOTEL CECIL.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Moore Jr., are at the Hotel Cecil in London. They are seeing picturesque Europe in quite the best way. A few years ago, they went abroad, taking with them Miss Jacqueline Moore. Doctor J. P. Dunn was also of the party. They visited the leading continental cities, following out the usual itinerary for tourists.

This time they have visited many of the out-of-the-way places of Europe, and it is here that one obtains the most fascinating pictures. Here you meet the peasants, in peasants' dress, and learn many of the quaint and picturesque customs of foreign lands.

MISS CHARLOTTE TOWLE, WHO IS AT HER HOME ON MYRTLE STREET AFTER SEVERAL MONTHS TRAVEL AND STUDY IN THE EAST.

So many English and American tourists are now in the large continental cities, that they lose more or less, the quaint traditions, that used to be characteristic of them.

The A. A. Moores have been automobiling through Europe, and they have done Northern Europe very thoroughly, having made a most interesting expedition to the "Land of the Midnight Sun."

REDINGTONS IN SWITZERLAND.

Doctor Vida Redington and Miss Lena Redington are also in Switzerland, where they are astonishing strangers with their intrepid mountain climbing. They have both belonged for many seasons to the famous "Sierra Club," and have made records in climbing the Sierras about Yosemite, and the Kern River district. Doctor Redington writes, "California is better than Switzerland," and she is a good judge of mountain scenery.

HENSHAWS IN PARIS.

The Henshaws and Miss Alice Grimes still linger abroad. They have been gone so long now, that it will be hard to turn away from all the picturesque cities abroad, and just settle quietly on this coast. Mr. Henshaw would like to bring the family home by way of the Orient, and that will probably be the plan adopted, for the children will then have been around the world.

Miss Alla Henshaw will be quite a young lady when she returns. It is probable that the Henshaws will live in San Francisco on their return to this coast.

Mrs. E. T. Henshaw went abroad some time ago. She is comfortably established in Germany where she expects to remain some months.

MISS PALMANTEER ON WAY HOME.

Miss Carolyn Palmanteer sailed early in October for the United States. She spent several weeks in Paris, and she devoted much of her time in the study of French. After landing in New York, Miss Palmanteer is coming directly home.

TOWERS ARE NOT COMING HERE.

Mrs. Charlemagne Tower, formerly Nellie Smith of this city, is not coming back to Oakland after all, this year. Mr. Charlemagne Tower has been one of our most successful ambassadors abroad, and is now a great favorite in royal circles in Germany. Mrs. Tower upholds in fine style, the dignity of the American woman abroad. She used to be a very unassuming little Oakland girl, very simply gowned. Now, she is one of the best gowned women in all Europe, and her jewels are simply magnificent.

The Towers have five little sons, whom they wish to be brought up with American standards and ideas.

The boys are in school in the East and Mrs. Tower came across this summer to visit them.

One could write a very interesting chapter entitled "The Evolution of an Oakland Girl," with Mrs. Tower for the heroine.

MR. AND MRS. Q. A. CHASE ARE HOME.

Mr. and Mrs. Q. A. Chase arrived from the East this week, having spent the entire summer on the Atlantic coast. Mr. Chase always spends some weeks each year at the old family home in Freeport, Maine.

Miss Helen Chase has been keeping house for her brother, during the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Q. A. Chase.

The latter have returned to attend the wedding of their son, Mr. George Chase and Miss Mabel Donaldson of San Francisco. The wedding will take place at the bride's home across the bay and will be attended by relatives and most intimate friends.

Mrs. Eckart, a sister of the bride will be matron of honor, and Miss Helen Chase will be maid of honor.

Miss Donaldson is one of the very popular girls of the Kappa Kappa Gamma Fraternity of Berkeley,—it is the star fraternity there, and as one member said, "It broke the record in brides last year."

George Chase has just built and equipped a very pretty home at Piedmont, in which the young people will begin housekeeping on their return from their wedding trip.

IT IS THE DAY OF ATHLETICS.

It is the day of athletics, and Oakland is following the athletic lead of other cities in good earnest. Automobiling is now a favorite amusement in many families, and a run down to San Jose and home again, is a favorite trip for many.

Among the most careful and most skillful automobilists is Miss Charlotte Elsey, who manages the big touring car in fine style.

Every day sees her out with a party of friends, and a little run down to Haywards is only an episode.

Miss Elsey makes a very pretty study in her big automobile, for she looks specially well in the new automobile coat, and the dainty green automobile veil.

The Schillings always have the big automobile packed full of guests, so do the Egbert Stones.

The Wickham Havens are always going off on long trips,—to San Jose, to Byron Springs, and sometimes to Monterey.

The Brighams have a new automobile—so have the Dimonds of Fruitvale.

Mrs. Robert Knight is becoming very expert in managing the new Rambler, which Mr. Knight recently purchased. And Mr. J. R. Burnham manages to make splendid time in his automobiles. At the late automobile meeting in Monterey he was among those who made the best time in covering the distance between Oakland and Monterey.

Mrs. John Valentine spends many an hour in the new touring car, and she is able to give her friends many hours of pleasure.

FEW WHO STILL PREFER HORSES.

There are those among us who still prefer horses to the best automobile that ever "choo-chooed" its rapid course down the highway.

Mrs. Oscar Luning is always seen driving, and each afternoon, her perfectly appointed carriage rolls along its way, and Mrs. Luning is usually accompanied by one of her friends.

Mr. Luning always drives superb horses, and he is to be met any pleasant afternoon driving far out on the country roads.

And, of course, in speaking of horses, one could never leave out the Alta Vista stables, the most perfectly appointed stables in the whole county.

A coaching trip is the favorite amusement of Mr. Henry Butters, and he is never so happy as when the big coach is tooling along the highway. They drive very well in England, but even there, Mr. Butters was known as an expert whip. The coach is typically English, having been brought here from London, and the horses have carried off all sorts of medals and "blue ribbons."

Mr. Charles Butters is also bringing to "Roselawn," his new Claremont home, some thoroughbreds from England. He intends to establish elaborate stables at "Roselawn."

RIDERS IN THE SMART SET.

Oakland can also boast among the smart set a number of fearless riders, who enjoy nothing so much as a cross country ride through the hills. Among the most graceful riders are Mrs. R. Augustus Bray, Mrs. Edward Brayton, Mrs. Oscar Long, Miss Gertrude Allen, Miss Grace and Miss Laura Sanborn, Miss Sevilla Hayden, Miss Rose Kales, Miss Claire Chabot, Miss Helen Dornin, Miss Marion Smith.

Willard and Aldrich Barton, Fred Dieckmann, Charles D. Bates Jr., Vail Bakewell, John and Will Sanborn.

Among the most enthusiastic golfers are George De Golia, George Greenwood, George Wheaton, Robert Fitzgerald, Captain Edwin Goodall, Captain Minor Goodall. Mr. M. W. Kales likes nothing better than an animated expedition over the golf course, with his friend, Mr. Harries of San Francisco.

There are also the people who love to walk, and a long trip in the hills makes an ideal Sunday outing. And among them you are sure to find Mr. T. C. Coogan, and Doctor Hayward Thomas. Mr. Brace Hayden and Mr. Max Taft walked eighty miles this summer, just by way of a little expedition along country roads.

THE LORNE CLUB.

The Lorne Club, one of the new dancing clubs of this winter, will hold its opening cotillon on next Monday evening, October 10, at Maple Hall.

The series will consist of five meetings, one each month, the final being a Valentine party on Feb. 13th.

The patronesses are Mrs. T. P. Hogan, Mrs. J. J. Feneran, Mrs. Pasqual Kisich, Mrs. G. D. Hallahan, and Mrs. J. McClenegan.

FASHIONABLE AUDIENCE AT GREEK THEATRE.

One of the most fashionable audiences of the year crowded the Greek Theatre for the unique performance of Hamlet, given by the Ben Greet company. It was something immensely original, reminding you of what you had read of Oberammergau and other miracle plays abroad.

There was the long session, when the first two scenes of Hamlet were given, and then the great audience just streamed over the hill sides, and there were wonderfully picturesque groups everywhere, as the people just frankly forgot the fortunes of the melancholy Dane, and tranquilly ate their luncheons under the trees.

Then they came back, and prepared to go on with the story. And it was immensely surprising to note the number of people who were following the text, some because they were not very familiar with the lines, and others because they wanted to see wherein later editions differed from the earlier work.

But they missed a good deal of the play on the stage, for it was immensely strong, and you saw how little it depended on the ordinary stage setting. There was no need of intermissions between scenes or acts, the play went straight on to the end, till the guns of Fortinbras announced the end.

And by that time the shadows had fallen all over the big amphitheater—the wind began to sigh in the high eucalyptus branches, and the loneliness of the hills crept into the atmosphere.

One was glad to turn one's back on all the dark tragedy—to leave it out there on the hill slopes, and to turn to the lighter shades of the commonplace, every-day world.

But Ben Greet was great as Hamlet, all the same, and gave us a Hamlet that we couldn't forget if we would. Neither will one soon forget Constance Crawley, who was Everyman in the miracle play. In the most weird way she was Ophelia, and the mad scene, in which poor Ophelia sings, was one of the really great features of the play.

Mrs. Mills is making great preparations for Saturday, when the Ben Greet company is to play in the beautiful grounds surrounding Mills College.

Many parties are being made up for "As You Like It," which will be presented in the afternoon, and what an ideal environment it will have, in those picturesque grounds.

Dinner will be served at the Seminary for those who wish to remain for the evening performance, as the Ben Greet company will give "The Merchant of Venice." Constance Crawley will play the parts of Rosalind and Portia, and the affair is being extensively talked about this week.

CLUB DATES FOR OCTOBER.

Among the club dates for October are some interesting events.

Mrs. T. C. Coogan will be the hostess of the day at the Ebell luncheon next Tuesday, and many distinguished guests are expected to be present.

It is planned to make Tuesday, October 25th "a musical and dramatic afternoon," and Miss Pearl King is to be chairman of the day.

Miss King can do a great many things very well, indeed. She is a fine Shakespearian scholar, and took a whole course in dramatic training—a course which has made her among the most interesting elocutionists on the coast.

Before Miss Pearl King went out to Arizona a year ago she started a studio in San Francisco in which, with some friends, she bade fair to make a great success. She had to spend a year in Arizona, and now that she has come home to stay, she will take up her work again. She received a great deal of her music training in New York, at Miss Ely's school, and Mrs. King took her daughters for a long trip abroad. Miss King announces a song by Mr. Harry Wood Brown, a reading by Miss Allene Barthmess and a reading by herself.

OAKLAND SOCIETY IN QUANDARY.

Oakland society is in a quandary. Some traveler from Europe or the more conventional cities of the Atlantic cities, has informed our exclusive dames and maids that it is not "good form" to permit a young lady's first name to appear in print. That is, of course, unless one happens to be a younger sister. As every one, or almost everyone, knows, the papers consider "Miss Jones" no name at all. They insist that Miss "Ethyl," or some equally sonorous Christian prefix shall be used in conjunction with the proud title borne by the head of the family. So much has been said pro and con that it has been deemed worthy of discussion in family circles, says the Wasp. Reporters may struggle vainly with Miss Jones, Miss Henderson, Miss Ainsworth, etc., and as a last resort seek information from the directory, but not an inch will the ladies of high degree budge. It is not considered good form by the Newport Four Hundred to give one's first name, and that settles it.

In European countries the eldest daughter of the house is Miss Smith, and the others are called respectively by their Christian names, the second daughter becoming Miss Smith when the older one marries or dies. It seems rather unfortunate that the ways of polite society, as known to English and European alike, should be discussed in such a manner as to make America—and more particularly is this true of the great, broad West—the butt of carping foreigners. Just as long as our customs are regulated anew by every half-informed tourist, just so long will we be the objects of ridicule to people who are not, it seems, too well-bred to cavil at the manners and customs of those whose salt they eat. Why in the name of common sense are we of the greatest and most progressive country on earth not strong enough to set our own pace and to keep it despite the interference of any one?

MRS. FRANK BUCKINGHAM.

A quiet wedding took place recently when Miss Winifred Mulvey became the bride of Frank Buckingham. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. F. X. Morrison in the parlor of the priest's house. The bride was attended by Miss Fanny Poulter and the best man was Lester Hamling.

The bride wore a pretty gown of gray silk with hat to match, and the bridesmaid wore a gown of champagne silk. Mr. and Mrs. Buckingham have returned from a honeymoon spent in the South.

GOOD STORY ON A CAPITALIST.

A good story is told of the attempt of an Oakland capitalist to buy from the authorities at the St. Louis fair bric-a-brac for his palatial home in Oakland. In vain the men in charge of the costly exhibits explained that the bits of porcelain belonged to the collection of Marie Antoinette, says the Wasp.

"I'll pay her any price she asks," protested the man from California, willing to cheat poor dead Marie Antoinette out of her choice little collection, if it could be added to the great drawing-rooms of the home in Claremont.

"It belongs to the French collection," begged the gentlemen from Paris.

"Then I'll buy it from them; I must have that vase; it matches the wall of the drawing-room at Roselawn."

The result of the conference is not yet made public, but it is said by those familiar with the authorities of the French capital that they will not part with the least trifle that ever belonged to the hapless queen.

SHE MADE A LUCKY SHOT.

Mrs. Charles Sanford of Oakland is still enjoying the exhilaration of a lucky shot she made this last summer in Shasta. The Sanfords have a comfortable hunting lodge up there—not a cabin or a shanty—but it is a good ten miles distant from the little general store that does proud duty as a post office. The shooting box is just far enough away to be within easy reach of both civilization and the great variety of game that lives in that section, says Town Talk. Along with Mrs. Sanford were her husband and brother (both bent on bagging big game and satisfactory strings of trout), a young woman friend and a maid. One evening the men went to the general store for provisions and the mail, and were late in getting back to the shooting box. A deer had been shot the day before and its carcass was hanging in an outhouse. This deer was the cause of what followed. The ladies, after barring the windows and doors, retired to rest in perfect tranquility. Two hours later they were awakened by a strange and ominous sound. They felt sure that only enraged lions could give voice to such threatening growls. Peering from the windows into the darkness the timid women could detect gaunt, shadowy forms slinking about the little clearing, howling now and then and gradually drawing closer to the outhouse where the venison was hanging. Mrs. Sanford, like the others, was badly frightened, but her husband had taught her how to handle a gun and that knowledge braced her natural grit. She took down a Winchester from the wall, carefully opened a window, shoved out the muzzle and then, while the other women clung desperately to her in order to help her as much as possible, she threw back her head, closed both her eyes tight and fired a half dozen balls hap-hazard into the surrounding scenery. At every shot all three women screamed and a chorus of yelps and howls answered them from the outside. The women then slammed down the window, barred it, and held each other tightly till the men arrived an hour later. Then they all arrived an hour later. Then they all went out with lanterns to investigate and discovered two dead coyotes; one one with a bullet through its head, the other with a hole through its back. Mrs. Sanford has had the skins dressed and as she killed them "all by herself" she is far prouder of them than of the mountain lion pelts captured by her husband and lying on the same floor.

WANT TO GO TO TEXAS.

Before her marriage, Mrs. William Richardson, of Oakland, was so slender and delicate that her elder sister, Mrs. George Gross, and her father, S. T. Gage, were worried to death at the thought of her going to Texas. They believed that the life would be too rough and hard for one who had been cradled in luxury, says Town Talk. But the bride had her way and went with her newly wedded husband to his home. Now Mrs. Richardson is up visiting her people, and she is the picture of superb health. She lays the improvement to the outdoor exercise she has enjoyed since her marriage. And now the attenuated beauties of Oakland are begging Mrs. Richardson to invite them to visit her in Texas.

WEDDED IN HONOLULU.

All the way from Honolulu comes the news of the romantic wedding of Miss Edna Scoby of Oakland, who went to the Islands as a teacher, and Charles Gerald Backus, a newspaper man of Honolulu. The bride's mother, Mrs. E. M. Scoby, still lives in Oakland. The grounds of the Podmore residence, where the wedding took place, overlook the sea, says Town Talk. Roses and strings of maile were enwreathed about the trees and a procession of singing girls led the wedding party through the winding paths before the ceremony. A stringed orchestra, hidden under a flowering tree, played during the entire evening. In place of the usual salutation, the air resounded with shouted alohas, but the time-honored rice was as hard and as plentiful in Honolulu as it would have been in Oakland.

WOMEN RESIGN FROM CLUBS.

The Ebell is greatly exercised over the resignation of many of its Christian Science members. It seems Mrs. Eddy decided that the spirituality of the church could not be upheld if the members were given over to club life. Those who already belonged to clubs were not asked to withdraw unless they so chose, but the church preferred that no new applications should be made.

Many, however, have been so carried away in their religious enthusiasm, that they are willing to renounce even the simplest pleasures.

I have in mind the beautiful daughter of a musical family who worshipped Ebell, adored card clubs, and was a sure winner of first prizes, whose conviction (and one cannot help but admire her courage) caused her to send in one of the first resignations. Think of it! She had climbed slowly but steadily, and had almost reached the top.

LECTURES WILL BE WELL ATTENDED.

Mr. Longfield's lectures at the Home Club bid fair to be well attended, for anything connected with Russia is simply of absorbing interest just now. Mr. Longfield is a well known savant, and he has travelled far and wide, all over Russia, having had an entree in the country accorded to but few travellers. And he simply knows Russia from beginning to end. It is very generous of the Home Club to share so much with the outside public. They shared the beautiful evening with Schumann-Heink, whom many people could not have heard but for the Home Club.

It is the same way with the Longfield lectures. The public will be allowed to attend at a nominal rate, and the club will make up the deficit.

"The Home Club" sounds very like a fairy tale, only it is a fairy tale turned to a reality, for the beautiful club house, on Grecian lines, is on the hillside, like the Acropolis of old, for everybody to see.

It is perfectly equipped, with famous pictures, and dishes to serve a thousand people at once. And now it can bring distinguished people here at intervals during the winter, and what the club itself cannot make up, will be advanced by one of the patronesses.

Well, it is a fine thing not to have to count your pennies—whether it is a matter of an individual or a club. And where is there another woman's club that has a beautiful club house free from debt, and a financial backing solid enough to make the club try experiments worth while. Miss Ethel Moore, the president of the club, and the board of directors, are formulating plans for the winter's work, and the Home Club is sure to be heard from in unique and original ways this year.

COUNTRY CLUB MEETS.

The Country Club met at the home of Miss Eleanor Whipple on Tuesday October 4th, with a fair number of members in attendance.

The business part of the meeting being finished, Mrs. Thane took charge of the program. The three celebrated historians, McCauley, Gibbon, and Carlyle were discussed at length by Mrs Donovan, Mrs. Babb, and Miss Eleanor Whipple. Mrs. Thane read notes on the lesser historians of the early Nineteenth Century. Mrs. Chandler furnished the music for the afternoon and rendered two vocal solos. The next meeting of the Country Club will be held at the home of Mrs. J. A. Bunting the first Tuesday in November.

PRETTY WEDDING AT BLETHEN HOME.

A pretty home wedding was that of Florence Esther Blethen and Stanley James Bell on Thursday evening September 29th.

Rev. Brown of the First Congregational Church officiated.

The house was handsomely decorated, the parlors in amarylis and smilax, and the dining room in Virginia Creeper and roses.

The bride's gown was very pretty. It was of white organdie and valenciennes lace made 1830 style, so well suited to her slender grace.

She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and wore a wreath of the same fragile flowers in her hair.

The groom occupies a prominent position with Varney & Green in San Francisco. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bell of this city.

Miss Blethen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Osborne Blethen and grand-daughter of William F. Curtis, long a resident of Oakland, and of the late Captain James H. Blethen of San Francisco.

The young lady's gracious manners and charming individuality have won for her many friends who will be interested in this happy event.

She is at home Thursdays to receive her friends at her artistic home, 458 Alcatraz avenue.

NEXT WEEK FULL OF DATES.

And so next week is very full of dates. On Tuesday, there is the large Ebell luncheon, on Wednesday, a few teas, and card games; on Thursday, Mrs. Schilling's large "at home," and a busy week will come to a close Saturday, in the interesting Hooper-Creed wedding, to which many Oakland people have been invited. Already there are many dates for the late October days, and everything gives promise of quite the gayest social season we have had in many years.

THE MEDDLER.

MISS DORNIN'S RECEPTION.

Miss Helen Dornin entertained a large number of her young friends at her home on Prospect street yesterday afternoon, in honor of Miss Mina Rogers of Salt Lake City. The pretty home was decorated with autumn flowers and greens.

Miss Dornin was assisted in welcoming her guests by Miss Louise Hall, Miss Katherine Kutz, Miss Sevilla Hayden, Miss Gertrude Russell and Miss Mabel Cooley.

The guests included Miss Natalie Fore, Miss Ora Lucas, Miss Pansy Perkins, Miss Marrion Morrow, Miss Verena Morrow, Miss Bertha Frank, Miss Ann Frank, Miss Cornelia Stratton, Miss Ruth Houghton, Miss Lucy Fennessey, Miss Katherine Brown, Miss Lillian Reed, Miss Marion Walsh, Miss Charlotte Morrison, Miss Rose Kales, Miss Else Schilling, Miss Marjorie Coogan, Miss Hazel Hart, Miss Ethel Plummer, Miss Florence Plummer, Miss Hazel Knowles, Miss Georgie Wheeler, Miss Marguerite Shocroft, Miss Lucile Shocroft, Miss Anita Thompson, Miss Anna Woodbridge, Miss Edna Orr, Miss Rachel Newsome, Miss Hazel Cope, Miss Vera Cope, Miss Eleanor Moller, Miss Ernestine Moller, Miss Gertrude Moller, Miss Elsie Campbell, Miss Josephine Moller, Miss Bernard Frank, Miss Margaret Frank.

ST. PAUL'S INDOOR FETE.

Several hundred people are in attendance at the indoor fete which is being given at the Ebell Club rooms this afternoon for the benefit of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. An enjoyable program is one of the features of the affair, those contributing being Miss Winifred June Morgan, Miss Emmabelle Zucker, Lowell Redfield, Mrs. J. Maxwell Taft and Ernest McClandish.

Booths of all kinds are among the attractions of the fortune teller who causes her patrons much serious speculation.

The fancy work booth is being presided over by Miss Florinne Brown, with Miss Ruth Kales, Miss Rose Kales, Miss Bessie Coghill, Miss Oliver, Miss Anita Oliver, Mrs. A. S. Moseley and Miss Elsa Schilling as assistants.

Mrs. Harrison Clay is dispensing delicious homemade candies. She is assisted by Miss Evelyn Hussey, Miss Nellie Chabot, Miss Letitia Barry, Miss Alice and Miss Ruth Knowles, Miss May Coogan, Miss Bessie Palmer, Miss Jessie Fox, Miss Edna Orr, Miss Edna Prather, Mrs. George H. Wheaton, Mrs. Thomas Prather, Mrs. Edson Adams, Miss Virginia Harmon, Miss Isabelle Kendall, Miss Marie and Miss Marguerite Butters, Mrs. Sam Prather, Miss Seymour, Miss Stewart and Miss Parkinson

Mrs. J. M. Halstead, in charge of the flower booth, is being assisted by Miss Farnham, Miss White, Miss Robbins and Miss Southerland. A mysterious grab bag is presided over by Mrs. W. G Manuel, the Misses McElrath, Miss Hazel Palmantier, Miss Evelyn Adams, Miss Jennings, Miss Noble and the Misses Brigham.

The handkerchief booth with its exquisite array of hand-made articles is in charge of Miss Mona Crellin, who is assisted by Miss Ethel Crellin, Miss Emma Mahony, Miss Gertrude Allen, Miss Jean Clift, Miss Ritchie and Miss Andergaw.

Iced lemonade is being served by Mrs James Watson McClure and her assistants, Miss Anne McElrath, Miss Irene Bangs, Miss Noelle De Golia, Miss Burnham, Miss Jane Barry, Miss Ruth Houghton, Miss Alma Brown, Miss Ada Brown, Miss Viva Nicholson, Miss Elsie Marwedel, and Mrs. George Borneman.

The gatekeepers are Mrs. Robert M. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Arthur Harris, Mrs. Frederick Allardt, Miss Jane Crellin and Miss Lottie Allardt.

Mrs. Arthur Crellin and Mrs. Nicholas A. Archer assisted by Mrs. M. Barhour, Mrs. Charles Walkley, Miss Hudson, Mrs. Egbert Stone, Mrs. F. M. Hathaway, Miss Bessie Fillmore and Miss Edith Beck are serving tea.

Another delightful feature of the afternoon's pleasures, is the vaudeville performance in which Mrs. Newton Koser, Miss Katehrine Kutz, Miss Sevilla Hayden, Miss Woodbury, and a burnt cork artist are among the participants.

A Parisian novelty, which is another of the affair's most attractive features, has been loaned by Mrs. E. A. Mackie, and in the care of Miss Lillian Isaacs, Miss May Hall and Miss English.

The apron booth is presided over by Miss Bishop, who is assited by Miss Ruth Farley, Miss Ivan Parker, Miss Agnes Piper, Miss Jane Connor, Miss Johan Yancy, Miss Ruth Mayon, Miss Mayon, Miss Morgan, Miss Bahr, Miss Sherlock and Miss Cochran.

HOUSE WARMING.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Hughes were tendered a delightful surprise Thursday evening at their new home on Orange street. The evening was planned by Miss Lucia Oliver and was thoroughly enjoyable.

The guests included Mrs. Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bilger, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Ayres, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Platt, Mr. and Mrs. Will McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Woolner, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Ellis, Miss Schelley, Miss Edna Tretheway, Miss Kennedy, Miss Morse, Miss Ruth Morse, Miss Marion Miller, Miss Emily Thompson, H. P. Dalton, Dr. Frank Jackson, George Featherston, Seth Talcott and Ed Smith.

BROADWAY AT THIRTEENTH

A WEDDING.

The marriage of Miss Jeannette Dozier and J. Charles Harris will take place Saturday, October 15. The wedding will be a quiet affair and the guest list includes relatives and near friends. They will make their home in San Francisco.

WHEELOCK CLUB.

Mrs Remi Chabot will be hostess Friday afternoon at the first meeting for the year of the Wheelock Whist Club. This club is one of the oldest and most exclusive of the winter clubs.

The membership includes Mrs. Andrew Kline, Mrs Samuel Hubbard, Mrs. E. A. Heron, Mrs. W. H. Chickering, Mrs. Prentiss Selby, Mrs. George Cope, Miss G. Hayward Thomas, Mrs John Yule, Mrs. Remi Chabot, Mrs Gordon Stolp, Mrs. E. J Barrett, Mrs. Lowndes Scott, Mrs. E. B Beck, Mrs. Kate Buckley, Mrs. Paul Lohse and Mrs. Frank I. Kendall.

LARGE CLASS RECEPTION.

The Freshmen co-eds gave an elaborate reception last evening to the men of the class of 1908. Harmon Gymnasium was the scene of the affair and the interior had been decorated with blue and gold hunting. Potted plants were used in the effective decorations and the reception proved to be one of the most sucessful college events of the year.

Miss Frederica Judy, the vice-president of the class, had charge of the entertainment, and Andrew Horner acted as floor manager.

A number of faculty members were in attendance and the following faculty women were at the patronesses:

Mrs. Benjamin Ide Wheeler, Mrs. Frank Soule, Mrs. George C. Edwards, Mrs. Walter Magee, Mrs. W. Scott Thomas, Mrs. George Noyes and Mrs. Clifton Price.

The credit for the success of the affair was due to the efforts of the following committees:

Arrangements—Margaret Neall, chairman; Carrie Parsons, Dorothea Van Orden, Margaret Daniels and Lucy Burgess

Finance—Myrtle Arnick, chairman, Daisy Hill, Grace Thomas, Eva Smith, Grace Bransford and Katherine Douglas.

Decorations—Frederica Judy, chauman; Edith Ostrander, Juanita David, Katie Healey, Rebecca Thompson, Alice Voice, Edith Beard, Emily Ambrose, Elsie Cole, Irene Gaines and Ethel Sturgess.

Many handsome and valuable prizes are to be given away, and the affair promises to be a success. The tickets, which are selling for fifty cents, are going rapidly, and the hall will be crowded.

BELL THEATRE.

Crowded houses greeted a high-class vaudeville bill all this week at the Bell Theatre. Mlle. Van Dyck, former prima donna of the Bostonian Opera Company is filling a week's engagement and is in splendid voice. Her singing of "The Story the Violets Tell" was grand and received tremendous applause.

The Shetlands, clever song and dance artists do a merited turn and pleased the audience.

Carter and Mendel are just as entertaining as they were last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Chick are also clever artists. Their sketch is clean and very entertaining.

The pictures this week are all new and are very interesting The flying flames are without doubt the greatest triple bar act before the public.

Mr. Pringle in pictured melodies pleased all.

Next week's bill will be a great one and will include performers of prominence including the well known Budd Bros., the greatest comedy team in vaudeville.

WORSE EVERY YEAR

Plenty of Oakland Readers Have the Same Experience.

Don't neglect an aching back. It will get worse every year. Backache is really kidney ache. To cure the back you must cure the kidneys. If you don't other kidney ills follow—Urinary trouble, diabetes, Bright's disease. An Oakland citizen tells you how—the cure is easy.

D. D. Davis, salesman in dress-goods department of Salinger's department store, residence No. 1364 Broadway, Alameda, says: "If pain across the back which clung to me persistently for at least twelve months is any indication of kidney complaint then I had it Some three years ago just such an attack occurred and knowing what I suffered, when I noticed in an Oakland paper that Doan's Kidney Pills were for the kidneys and the kidneys alone, I went to a drug store for a box and tried it. If the results obtained from the treatment had not been effective I never would have gone out of my way to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to personal friends. I know of more than one who has used Doan's Kidney Pills and who are just as emphatic in their endorsements as I."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

SUPERIOR JUDGES.

Superior Judges and the methods by which they are elected is discussed in this week's issue of the San Francisco News Letter.

The system of grafting pupils by the school teachers is disclosed to the public in a well-written editorial.

The Town Crier's whip is making a few near-do-wells look to avenues of escape, while the Looker-On has something to say about Professor Wheeler and his advice to co-eds.

What it costs to dress our society belles will interest husbands and fathers as well as the gentler sex.

Politics and politicians are the foreign situation are written by experts in those lines, while a short story and a well-written verse with photographic illustrations insures the value of the News Letter.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters. To my great joy the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents. Guaranteed at Osgood Bros. drug stores, Seventh and Broadway and Twelfth and Washington.

REPUBLICAN RALLY AT SAN LEANDRO.

Stirring Speeches Made By Jos. R. Knowland, M. C. Chapman, George W. Reed John G. Mattos and E. K. Strowbridge.

It rained in San Leandro last night and it rained hard; but the storm had no effect upon the Republicans of the town. The members of the party of progress there, turned out under dripping umbrellas, heavy overcoats and mackintoshes and filled the U. P. E. C. Hall to repletion. No better evidence could have been desired of the firm hold which fealty to the Republican party and devotion to President Roosevelt has upon the people of the pretty little interior town.

YOUTH AND LADIES.

Among the auditors were a number of women, old and young, as also a number of young men who, next month will for the first time, cast their vote for the President of the United States. The enthusiasm which these young people displayed guarantees that those votes will be cast for the Republican candidates. The applause which came from all parts of the hall when the speakers made telling points showed also that, on election day, San Leandro will do its best to give the Republican nominees the greatest majority which has ever been given to any nominees of the party in that section of the country.

Speeches were made by E. K. Strowbridge, John G. Mattos, Senator Knowland, M. C. Chapman and George W. Reed.

The meeting was called to order by J. N. Frank who was received with cheers.

VICE-PRESIDENTS.

The following acted as vice-presidents: L. P. Rinderspacher, L. J. Martin, C. H. Hall, J. A. Cunha, George Smith, T. P. Cary, O. J. Lynch, Dr. M. J. Garcia, Judge J. Black, A. Rogers, J. W. Bulen, J. F. Hopper, C. L. Best, L. J. Toffelmier, Col. T. S. Hastings, Dr. C. H. Miller, A. S. Vager, B. D. Gray, George Downie, M. Geisenhofer, A. Lucio.

WANT ROOSEVELT.

J. N. Frank in his introductory spoke about the thoroughness of the feeling in favor of the Republican nominees for President and Vice-President. "Many reasons," he said, "may be assigned for this. It is because the American people are thoroughly satisfied with the present conduct of the government of the country. They are satisfied with the administration and the country's property. Laboring men, agriculturists, business men are willing and ready to leave well enough alone, and continue the administration under the nominees of the Republican party.

"One reason for this is that our opponents have not given us a challenge issue. To have an argument, you must have challenge questions. The questions so far propounded have given no opportunity to Republican speakers, except to review the great achievements of the Republican party.

WANT LARGE MAJORITY.

"While fully assured of success at the next election, it behooves all of us to try and not only work for the election of Roosevelt but also to snow the largest majority which the Republican party ever gained. We should not only elect all the members on the Legislative and Congressional ticket but we should roll up the largest majority possible for these splendid standard-bearers, Roosevelt and Fairbanks." (Cheers.)

E. K. STROWBRIDGE.

The next speaker was E. K. Strowbridge, who is a candidate for the Legislature in the Forty-sixth Assembly District. He was received with cheers.

"I am surprised," he said, "to be the first to be called upon to address this meeting. I thought there were to be some spell-binders to whom we could listen with interest.

"I am a candidate for the Assembly of the Republican party. I believe the principles of the Republican party are right and, if elected, I will perform the duties of my office to the best of my ability and to the satisfaction of the people whom I represent. I ask you for your support in the coming campaign." (Cheers.)

JOHN J. MATTOS.

Representative J. J. Mattos, who is a candidate for the Senate in the Thirteenth Senatorial District came forward and was received with cheers.

"For the third time," said the speaker, "I appear before you seeking official position at your hands. Two times I have been elected to the Assembly from this district. The Thirteenth Senatorial District in which I am running for a little higher position covers exactly the same ground.

"In the two terms I have served in the Legislature, so far as it was possible to be done I have done my duty to the best of my ability and with conscientious scruples. The manner in which I did my duty is told in the record. Every vote which I cast was for good and clean government. I hope you will give me as good a vote as you gave me before. That vote made me happy and I hope that you will make me feel just as happy again in the next election." (Cheers.)

FOR CONGRESS.

Senator J. R. Knowland, candidate for Congress was greeted in a most hearty manner and spoke as follows:

"Fellow Republicans: I feel, in appearing before an audience in the town of San Leandro, after having been campaigning for a week throughout the Third Congressional District, that I am among friends. I feel almost as much at home in San Leandro as I do in the city of Alameda.

"Some years ago, in the town of San Leandro, I first appeared as a candidate for a public office. I believe it was in the hall further down the street, known as St. Joseph's. I was first nominated for the lower house of the Legislature.

"I little thought, at that time, that inside of six years, I would be addressing an audience in this same place as your candidate of the Republican party for the higher house of Congress. (Cheers.)

FINE MEETINGS.

"The meetings which have been held so far in this district, which I have attended have been full of enthusiasm and I am beginning to wonder if there are any Democrats left in the Third

HON. M. C. CHAPMAN.

Congressional District at all. (Applause.)

NOT FOR PRESIDENT.

"It reminds me of a little episode in the City of Alameda three years ago in one of the public schools in one of the primary classes. The teacher asked the students, 'How many of you would like to be President of the United States?' Every boy raised his little hand except one. The teacher said, 'Don't you want to be President?' The little one said, 'Yes, mam.' 'Then why didn't you raise your hand?' The little fellow said, 'Please, mam, I am a Democrat.' (Laughter.)

METCALF STANDARD.

"It was four years ago, I believe, that I had the honor of addressing an audience in this hall with Hon. Victor H. Metcalf (applause). Let me say, in this connection, that no one in the Third Congressional District realizes more fully than I do the high standard which he has established in the Third Congressional District. I believe that there is not a person in this hall who does not honor and respect Hon. Victor H. Metcalf. I realize that, in attempting to fill the vacancy left by my illustrious predecessor, if I am fortunate enough to be elected, I have no small task before me. But, I assure the people of this district that if you choose me as your representative I can simply do as I have endeavored to do in my past public career, to the best of my ability. That is all any candidate can promise to do." (Applause.)

"Four years ago, when Congressman Metcalf addressed an audience in this hall it was in the McKinley campaign.

SAN LEANDRO REPUBLICANS.

"Those of us who have been acquainted with politics in San Leandro know that, a few years ago, this was a Democratic town. But, within the last few elections, there has been a gradual change, until, to-day, San Leandro ranks among one of the strong Republican towns of this county. I believe that this is due largely to the active energetic Republicans, such as my good friend, Col. Hastings, who sits before me, who have labored night and day for the good of the party. (Applause.)

"I believe that that flag pole which holds such a prominent position in your little square is the result of the vote which William McKinley received in this town.

When Hon. Victor H. Metcalf addressed an audience in this very hall certain promises were recalled which the Republican party had made to the voters of this nation.

M'KINLEY LEADERSHIP.

"There is no voter in this hall, to-night, who can deny that the Republican party under the leadership of William McKinley and his illustrious successor, Theodore Roosevelt, has fulfilled every pledge and made good any promise by the Republican party at that time. (Applause.)

"When the beloved McKinley fell by the bullet of an assassin, there was another man to take the place, who, when he assumed the duties of that high office, pledged himself before the Almighty God to follow out the policy of McKinley. That promise has been fulfilled.

DAVID HILL.

"We are told by our opponents, who seem to be at a loss for an issue in this campaign that one of the principal issues in the campaign is the unsafeness of the standard-bearer of this party. We are told by David Hill that President Roosevelt is an unsafe man for the chief executive. But let him devote some little time to looking over the records of some of the Democrats like David Hill himself.

"Let me say to you that President Roosevelt is the kind of an unsafe man that we want. I believe that if President Roosevelt is elected, the affairs of this nation will certainly be safe in such hands as his.

"If there should be in this audience a single voter who has not yet made up his mind upon the great issues of the campaign, I would suggest that he place side by side the letter of acceptance of President Roosevelt and a similar document by Judge Alton B. Parker. Let him look at both documents carefully and believe that there will be no doubt in his mind as to which man he should vote for.

ROOSEVELT'S LETTER.

"Never has there been issued in the history of this country, a letter of acceptance which dwelt with the issues of the campaign as clearly as does the letter of President Roosevelt. If there is any one in this audience who has not that document, he should secure a copy and peruse it carefully, and if you have your mind already made up, if you are already determined to vote the Republican ticket, believe it will inspire you to go and secure friends for the Republican candidates. I believe that history will decide that the letter of acceptance of President Roosevelt, recently issued is one of the greatest political documents which any Presidential candidate has ever written.

PROMISES FULFILLED.

"There is not a promise of the Republican party which has not been fulfilled. All promises which President Roosevelt made when he assumed the duties laid down by his illustrious predecessor. One of his best acts was to carry through the cherished policy of William McKinley to secure for the island of Cuba a stable government. The prosperity of Cuba was made possible by the making of the treaty of reciprocity.

THE CANAL.

"One of the great planks in the platform of the Democratic party in 1900 was the question of constructing an Isthmian Canal. The Democratic platform of 1904 makes no mention of that subject, for through the work of President Roosevelt, we are assured of a Panama Canal to be built protected and utilized by the United States. We will remember the promises carried out by the Republican party. Our Democratic friends would seem to desire us to forget the past while they make promises for the future. You have in this town a manufacturing plant. If one man had been at the head of its affairs and had served it faithfully, while another, who had filled the same position, had brought it to the verge of ruin, would not the company employ the first man to manage it?

EFFECT OF DEMOCRATIC RULE.

Not so very long ago, this country was nearly bankrupt. If there are any workingmen in this audience, they must recall the enforced idleness of men. They will recall the industrial armies who tramped across the continent. In the administration of the Republican party, the country has enjoyed prosperity which has not been enjoyed within the memory of man. This, to my mind, is the paramount issue in this campaign. The Republican party has made good its every promise. Under its administration, we have enjoyed unparalleled prosperity. The Republican party does not change its issue with every campaign. The Democratic idea seems to be to frame a platform which will serve as a vote-getter. They will declare certain principles in one campaign, and in the next will present principles of the very opposite character. The Republican party, however, strictly adheres to its party principles. If you are satisfied with the administration of the Republican party, are satisfied that the standard-bearer, Theodore Roosevelt, is honest, and that the other candidates are the best men in the community, let us roll up in Alameda county, and in San Leandro in particular, an unprecedented vote for President Roosevelt.

"Although there are other speakers to follow, I do not want to sit down until I have a word for my colleague John Mattos. I have had the honor during two legislative sessions to serve with Mr. Mattos. Let me say of him, there was no man in either house who was more conscientious in the discharge of his duties, no man more zealous in watching out for the interests of this district, and there is no man who is more deserving of the support of the people of this district. Mr. Mattos may not have always have stood in but you have always found him to stand up. (Applause.)

"I believe that the people of this district appreciate the efforts of this man, and that you will elect him to the position of State Senator. If elected, you will find in him, the best representative ever selected from this district.

ELECT UNITED STATES SENATOR.

"Let us remember that this year we have a United States Senator to elect, and that, in voting for the nominees for the Assembly, you are really voting upon a national issue. The term of Hon. Thomas R. Bard expires in January of this year. We are to elect a successor, and we are confident the successor will be a Republican. In order to do so, you must elect a majority of Republican Assemblymen.

"You have in Mr. Strowbridge, a candidate for Assemblyman from this district.

"While he has never yet filled a political office, from all you know of him, he is a man who will properly care for the interests of his constituents.

As Republicans hope you will cast your votes, not only for Mr. Strowbridge, but for every Republican candidate." (Applause.)

M. C. CHAPMAN.

Ex-Mayor Chapman of Oakland was given a rousing welcome and said in part:

"Fellow Republicans—My friend, Mr. Strowbridge has announced to you that all the spell-binders were in the further corner. I looked around to see them, and I found George Reed, Roosevelt and Fairbanks. (Laughter).

"As I don't know much about politics, I don't know a great deal about the issues of this campaign, that is, all of them. I know some of them, and I think I understand them pretty thoroughly. For the life of me, I cannot understand why any man in 1904 can be a Democrat. (Applause.)

THE TARIFF

"Let us get a little sense into our heads. There is the tariff question, which is now a leading subject, and which is as old as the government. We had a tariff schedule in 1818. We have had a world of literature upon the subject. Some of us have made a study of the question, and know little more now than when we began. One thing we do know, however. We have had in this country five periods of tariff-for-revenue-only. That is the Democratic doctrine. We have had six periods of protection in this country, and every one of them were periods of prosperity. We are enjoying the sixth period now.

THOUSANDS IDLE.

"Grover Cleveland was President of the United States from 1893 to 1897. The Democratic party had full control in this government in its executive and legislative affairs. When Grover Cleveland went into office he inherited from the Republican party a period of great prosperity, almost equal to that of the present time. When he went out of office, there were thousand of men out of employment. The Democratic party was responsible for bringing that about unintentionally of course.

EXPORTATIONS DIMINISHED.

"In Cleveland's administration, year by year, our expottations were steadily diminished and our importations were steadily increased.

"Tariff-for-revenue-only wrought great injuries on this country, making it impossible for thousands of men to earn their daily bread with which to feed their wives and children.

BRYAN'S JUDGMENT.

"At the time that McKinley was a candidate for President, four years ago, there was a particular young man from Nebraska, a young man of patriotism and of ability, but who was endowed with very bad judgment.

"He predicted that if McKinley was elected to the President's office, the country would come to ruin. He thought that there was not enough money in the country, and he would have the people adopt the ratio of 16 to 1. He said that gold would go up.

"I paid some attention to his predictions. There was something about the man, something about his eloquence which aroused my admiration. I didn't vote for him however. (Laughter.)

"The past four years of prosperity have proved the absurdity of his ideas.

"At the last Democratic convention, the Democrats did not know which side of the currency question they were on until they received the telegram from Judge Parker.

INDUSTRIAL ARMY.

"Do you want to go back to the soup-house administration. Parker's principles are just the same as Cleveland's. Do you want to see the Industrial Army marching through your streets as they did in the proletariat days of the French revolution? As free American citizens, you have the right to cast your ballot as you please, but I want to make a little more money.

INTERNATIONAL COMMERCE.

"During the past four years, the United States has taken a front rank in the nations of the world. Her international commerce alone equals that of all the other nations. Her exportations exceed that of five of the greatest nations in the world. There has never been such progress in the history of mankind in the way of material developments.

LOCAL AS WELL AS NATIONAL.

"You can not uphold an administration of that kind unless you uphold the ticket locally as well as nationally. It is not enough to say that the candidate for the lower house of the Legislature of this State does not vote upon any of these questions. As has been said by Mr. Knowland, the vote of Mr. Mattos and Mr. Strowbridge is needed that a United States Senator, who is a Republican, may be elected to uphold the great principles of the Republican party.

"I have nothing to say against the Democratic candidate from this district. I have known him for twenty years and he is an intelligent and upright man. I have known him longer than I have known Mr. Knowland but I am for the man who will work for the prosperity of the country rather than for the man who will drag it down. (Applause.)

LESSER CANDIDATES.

"I am for the lesser candidates because they will do all in their power to uphold the great policies of the party. Don't you think you can do something for them? This meeting is held for the purpose of stimulating enthusiasm. If all you Republicans would say: 'I am going to do something for the candidates, and thus help the country,' you could work wonders.

"We don't beg for votes but we wish that every one would take a fair view of the situation and there is no doubt that they will all vote for the Republican candidates.

"I am for the Republican party, soul, body and breeches, and I believe that all who have the interest of the country at heart will vote for that great party which has made this country the most prosperous of any of the nations." (Applause.)

GEORGE W. REED.

Attorney George W. Reed was warmly greeted and among other things said:

"Fellow Republicans, ladies, boys and girls—It is a good many years since I appeared upon a platform as a political speaker. The last time I appeared before a San Leandro audience I was running for office. I was up here trying to get votes. It was a Democratic town in those days. Since that time, it has been enlightened, and now the majority of the voters cast their ballots for the Republican ticket. (Applause.)

"The large number of old Democrats in this audience shows that the people are beginning to think right. It was necessary to bring somebody along to fill up. I have come to do so. I do not mean that I am going to fill up at the bar. (Laughter.) I am now getting too old for that.

"My head is beginning to turn gray, and the young fellows are taking the lead. It is the right thing for them to do. I hope that when election time comes, with one accord, you will cast your ballots for the 'kids' who have spoken to you tonight. The speakers are all very modest so I will have to say something about them."

Mr. Reed then warmly recommended Messrs. Strowbridge and Mattos, aspirants for the Assembly and Senate respectively.

SENATOR KNOWLAND.

He then advised Senator Knowland for Congress in the Third District and said:

"I hope there will not be one Democratic vote for Mr. McPike, who is running against Mr. Knowland. I do not say this personally against Mr. McPike because he is a pleasant gentleman. But the position of Congressman is too important and should not be overlooked.

FORTUNATE IN THIRD.

"We have been very fortunate in the Congressmen of the Third District and we are going to be fortunate in the next House of Representatives, when Congressman Knowland gets there and I am now going to call him 'Congressman,' because I know he is going to be elected. Mr. Knowland is a young man from Alameda and the people there have honored him by sending him twice to the Assembly and again to the State Senate. His record is before the people of the county for six years. You have had a chance to find out what kind of a man he is in six years. He has fulfilled every promise he has made to the people of the county and has voted right on every question. Like the Republican party, his record is a good and honest one and we're going to promote him to a higher sphere of usefulness in Congress (cheers) where we are going to send him for 20 years, or as long as he wants to go there. (Cheers.)

CONSTANT SERVICE.

"The only way to be powerful in Washington is to keep sending the same Congressmen there term after term. Look at Tom Reed. Why the people of his district kept sending him to Congress as long as he wanted to go, and see what power he was able to exercise. We had Victor H. Metcalf there and, you recollect that he received an appointment as a member of the President's Cabinet. We must send Mr. Knowland now and keep him in Congress and you will see that he will become powerful and influential at Washington. (Cheers.)

SENATOR PERKINS.

"Look at Senator Perkins. He has been in Congress a long time, and, as Senator Fairbanks said, in the great meeting in San Francisco last Saturday night, there is hardly a man in the Senate who has more influence and power than Senator Perkins. (Applause) When the election day comes, see that the Democrats don't get a vote in the district if that is possible. Mr. McPike is a nice man but we don't want him in Congress.

THE THIRD'S RECORD.

"I am proud of the Third Congressional District. Did you ever stop to think that the first man from the coast to be given exalted position in the Cabinet by the President, came from the Old Third Congressional District? That was Congressman McKenna. He has since been promoted and sits on the Supreme Bench of the United States, the greatest court on earth—and he came from the Old Third.

METCALF'S PREFERMENT.

The next to be taken to a Cabinet position from the coast was Victor H. Metcalf. (Cheers.) He is also from the Third District. (Cheers.)

"I am proud, I say, that Mr. Knowland is going to represent the Third District. We do not want a Democrat to represent us. The people and the district are contented and prosperous and we want to keep them so the rest of our lives. (Cheers.)

REPUBLICAN ENTHUSIASM.

"At the National Republican convention, Chairman Cannon said after Elihu Root had spoken, that he feared he might make a good speech. For the purpose of destroying that impression, he wanted to declare, he said, that he endorsed every word that Mr. Root had said. (Laughter.)

"I want to say right here that I endorse every word that Mr. Chapman has said, and especially what he said about Democrats. (Laughter.)

"I had the distinguished honor of representing the Republicans of the Third District in the last national Republican convention as I had also in Philadelphia four years before. Democrats have said that there was no enthusiasm in the convention of a few months ago. I want to tell you that that is not so. (Applause.) I was there. I saw it and know what took place.

ROOSEVELT ENTHUSIASM.

"When the name of Roosevelt was proposed, I never saw such a scene in my life. The whole audience, numbering 10,000, rose in mass, and cheered at the top of their voices. They waved flags. Delegates stood on chairs. The California delegation paraded around the hall with its fine banner. I never saw such enthusiasm in my life. (Applause.) When therefore, Democrats tell you that there was no enthusiasm in the Republican Convention, I tell you it is not true. (Cheers.)

CANNON'S GAVEL.

Old Joe Cannon tried to preserve order. He had a big gavel and after the convention had shouted for half an hour, he concluded that it was time to get order so that something else might be done, and he pounded and pounded with that gavel and finally sat down exhausted. He couldn't have quieted them with a sledge-hammer for a gavel. 'Look at me,' he said, 'I feel like a piledriver using this gavel to try to get order.' They stayed with Roosevelt then and they are going to stay with him again at the polls. We want to keep in the procession in California. We want to keep in the procession in the Third District and the Senate and Legislature and that is what we want to do.

CALIFORNIA'S MAJORITY.

"I predict that California will give Roosevelt from 50,000 to 60,000 majority. The people are satisfied with him. We don't want to change. We don't want to change when everybody is prosperous. When manufactories are in full blast you don't want to change them. (Cheers.)

HANNA'S ADVICE.

"In the last speech of Senator Hanna, he compared the condition of the country under Democratic and Republican rule and said: 'Look at one and then at the other,' and he finally wound up by advising everybody to 'stand pat.'

STAND PAT.

"If you have a good poker hand, (laughter) a good wife, a good farm, you want to 'stand pat.' (Applause.) That's good advice. You ought to 'stand pat' for the principles of the Republican party.

"The Democrats don't know where they are. They don't know what they want. That's why we nominated Roosevelt, a man close to the people. That's what we did and we are going to stand by. (Applause.) The Democrats don't know where they are nor what they want. I'd rather be a 'stand-pat-ter' than a 'don't-know-where-you-are-at-ter' (Great Laughter.)

PLATFORMS ALIKE.

"One by one, the roses fall. We have been beating the issues into them until it has come to this point that there is little difference in their platform. I don't care if that is so and if the Democrats have changed their issues. We don't want them in office.

CAMPAIGN ISSUES.

"There are only two issues in the campaign. One is the record of the Republican party and the other is the record of the Democratic party and the only think for the voter to do is to compare the records of the two parties. If you take and compare them you can't vote anything but the Republican ticket. (Cheers.)

"The Republicans stand on their record. They don't ask to have the mantle of charity thrown over their actions. The Democratic party has asked to have the mantle of charity thrown over their slavery record and a number of other questions.

WHAT REPUBLICANS STAND FOR.

"The Republican party stands for the union of the whole county. The Republican party abolished slavery. It has built up an army and a fine navy to protect us at home and to give us prestige abroad. It is building up a navy which will be equal to any navy on earth. We don't lower our flag to any nation on earth and then we have got the guns behind it.

WASTING MONEY.

"The Democrats say we are wasting money in our army and our warships. We are doing that because it has been demonstrated to be the proper thing. Nobody knows this better than the Democrats. We're going right along and we're going to have an army and navy to be proud of and the administration is going to give them to us.

QUESTION OF SAFETY.

"The Democrats say that 'Roosevelt is unsafe,' but they don't say why. I will tell you why. I'll tell you what he is. He is an unsafe man to the Democrats. (Applause.) They don't like him because they know the people are going to stand by him and defeat Judge Parker.

"Parker is on the wrong track, he is on the wrong side and we don't want him as President of the United States.

SIDETRACKED.

"Soon after his nomination, the railroad company, whose line passes his home at Esopus built a side track there and he has been sidetracked ever since, and he'll be there when Roosevelt rushes by in his train for Washington after election. (Applause.)

"Parker is the man who is unsafe. Roosevelt is the safe man. He has done everything he said he would and he's the man we're going to elect.

"Do you know that the Democratic party did not want the isthmian canal built, that great work which means so much for the progress of this country, making it the greatest country on earth and a majority of them in both houses voted against it. Think of a majority of Democrats in the House and Senate voting against a project like that.

WILL BUILD CANAL.

"The Republican party, headed by Roosevelt is now going to put theory into practice. It is going to build that canal. It is now under construction. That's the way with the Republican party. When it states it will do a thing, it does it. The canal will be built. The flag of the country will wave over it and it will be protected by the guns of the Oregon, the Ohio and the Connecticut.

ROOSEVELT'S VALOR.

"I don't see why the Democratic party has any right to say that Roosevelt is unsafe. While Judge Parker was sitting in his office at home, Roosevelt put on his uniform, went to the war, and, at San Juan Hill, with young men around him, he bared his breast to the bullets of the enemy and achieved imperishable glory. (Cheers.)

SILENT ABOUT JACKSON.

"That's the kind of a man we want. Do you know that we never had but one man like him in the Presidency before. That was Andrew Jackson. He was a Democrat, but you don't hear them talk any more about Andrew Jackson.

"I hope this meeting will do some good for the Republican party and the candidates on all the tickets and when the votes are counted that they will show one of the largest votes ever cast in San Leandro." (Cheers.)

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions or other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

THE POSSIBILITIES AND USES OF CARD PLAYING

Betty Martin Writes on This Question and Tells of a Flat Dweller's Economy of Space.

As a means of saving grace on occasions playing cards have more latent possibilities for good than the uninitiated care to acknowledge.

The dinky bits of pasteboard are endowed with God sent qualities to overburdened hostesses who find the social swim full of treacherous undercurrents. If everyone were bright or brainy or a good listener or a good talker it might be different but it is a mournful of people that there always apt to be at least one stupid bore ready to pour coldwater down the backs of the others.

If these social incompetents are set to work at cards the trouble of looking after them vanishes. It takes considerable time to discover the best of people and life is too short to bother any way. So though many good folk contrive to preach against the so-called evils of card-playing, cards will continue in vogue for as many moons as bores are allowed the freedom of existence.

✠ ✠ ✠

Playing cards have uses other than mere entertainment. According to a New York paper a Mrs Amelia Aikland was the stake last week for which a game of pinochle was played.

The blooming Mrs Aikland is a three times widow with limitless capacity to charm even though she turns the scales at two hundred and fifty pounds. Her kindly heart was evidenced by her unwillingness to choose between the two latest aspirants for her hand and the complacency with which she accepted for better or worse the winner.

✠ ✠ ✠

Forty-niners in one of the foothill Sierra counties, tell an interesting story of a lady who for years has been a leader in Oakland society. They repeat with great gusto how this lady promised her hand to the one of two men who would win a foot-race from a big barred gate to her father's barn door about a hundred yards distant. And these same greybeards delight to tell also how the lady jilted the winner and gave herself to the wealthy man whose name she now bears.

Forty-niners are all very well in their way but they have a most unfortunately retentive habit of memory. I dare say the lady herself has long since forgotten the footrace episode.

This little tale really has no bearing whatever on cards but the train of thought led up to it naturally.

✠ ✠ ✠

Judging by the signs card games will be more popular than ever this season as means of social entertainment with five hundred well in the lead as favorite. The majority of young folk vote whist too slow and gladly relegate it to their elders while they themselves indulge in lighter games which permit of conversation.

One matron who makes a specialty of card parties and whose dining room is not very large evolved an original way of serving refreshments and one which saves her a world of trouble.

She had a carpenter make her as many round pine tops as she had tables. These tops in size were counterparts of the card tables and fitted over them exactly. While madam is playing in common with her guests the maid is in the kitchen not exactly eating bread and honey but transforming the pine tops into things of beauty.

First they are covered with dainty luncheon cloths then set forth with all sorts of dainty confection. When the game closes the wise matron has no care on her mind for in response to her silver bell the maid appears top in hand and deposits it on the table of the players in the far corner, and so in turn until all are supplied. The idea is a clever one and apt to have many imitators particularly since it has become so fashionable to live in flats where space is below par.

✠ ✠ ✠

The Ebell Choral section opened last Monday with thirty-one members present and six more on the list who were unavoidably absent. This section is undoubtedly one of the most popular in the club. Mrs M E Jordan is curator and Robert Lloyd of San Francisco musical director. Under his efficient leadership this section did excellent studies last year and it is the intention to continue both the tone work and four part songs. There are some excellent voices in the choral and plenty of material for high class results.

By the way Mr Lloyd is immensely popular over here particularly since assuming musical charge at Dr Baker's church where recitals are to be given once a month. There is to be one tomorrow evening when a quartette from San Francisco will prove an added attraction.

It was altogether too bad that Mrs Shafter Howard should have been obliged on account of the weather to change her contemplated outdoor fete into an inside affair. Everybody was disappointed though it does little good to cry over spilt milk and it is to be hoped that the financial returns will more than compensate for all the vexation and trouble.

✠ ✠ ✠

The Reverend George W Browback pastor of Pilgrim Congregational Church of Reading Pa. is a most popular clergyman, particularly with the ladies.

However there's nothing very strange about that for ministers as a rule receive an amount of adulation that would turn the head of any man less inclined to contemplation of all things Godly.

Mr Browback though a minister is a practical man. When he wanted a wife he advertised for one and inside of a week had received two thousand applicants for the job. Out of this number he selected the one who caught his fancy and as the story goes married her and lived happily ever after.

Recently this reverend gentleman preached a sermon entitled How to Free a Wife. This little talk was evolved after a visit to the Desertion Court and to put it mildly a corker. He is evidently not in favor of the man made laws of divorce but most earnest in expressing disapproval of those men who shirk natural responsibilities. He describes many kinds of married sinners and one variety according to the Reverend has a yawning hell waiting to receive its constituents.

This variety is implied rather than otherwise and the priestly insinuations lead one to believe that its members consist of married men with a weakness for poaching on other married men's preserves. The parson's indignation is praiseworthy but if his premises are correct the hot house will be most plentifully populated and there'll be an appalling scarcity of the male element among players of the golden harp.

CONFERENCE OVER BAND.

STEPS TO RESTORE THE OLD MUSICAL ORGANIZATION FIFTH INFANTRY.

Major McBain formerly leader of the old Fifth Regiment Band of this city went to San Francisco today to have a conference with Colonel John Hayes of the Fifth and Captain Margot adjutant of the same organization with reference to the conditions under which the band in question shall again become the musical organization of that command.

The regimental band for a couple of years past has been located in San Rafael but in August last when the command was ordered into camp at Atascadero a dispute took place between Colonel Hayes his adjutant and the leader of the band in San Rafael which resulted in the refusal of the last mentioned to accompany the regiment to camp. This caused a great deal of disadvantage to the regiment more especially because several of the other militia regiments had full musical organizations with them.

Colonel Hayes declared as a consequence that he would have no more to do with the San Rafael musicians and would try to secure the services of the old Fifth Regiment Band of this city.

There are twenty old band men here who are willing to again join the command if satisfactory arrangements can be made for them so to do. They will await the result of today's conference with some interest.

LITERARY EVENING IS HELD

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY MONTHLY MEETING DEVOTED TO VACCINATION THEME.

St Andrew's Society held its monthly literary evening at its rooms in the Blake Block Thursday evening. There was a good attendance of members and guests. An interesting program had been prepared by the literary committee. President George Steele Lackie acted as toastmaster and in his usual happy way introduced the numbers. It is the boast of the sons of Scotland that wherever their lot may be cast away from the home land they are loyal to the country of their adoption so Mr Lackie proposed as the first toast The President of the United States followed by The King. One verse of America and one verse of God Save the King were sung after the toast.

The first solo of the evening was rendered by Robert Howden who sang My Heart's Warm to the Tartan. He was heartily applauded.

Past President Hugh Hamilton responded to the toast Absent Friends referring to members of the society who are absent from home. Alex C Ballingall sang The Maids of Argyle receiving applause.

The theme of discussion for the evening was Vaccination led by Dr A S Kelly who gave the history of smallpox plague as is known and the origin and history of vaccination from the time of Jenner to the present showing how the lymph now is prepared. The paper was interesting and instructive. George St John Bremner a member of St Andrew's Society of San Francisco favored the company with an original song and for an encore sang one he composed by Linsch dedicated to the St Andrew's societies of Oakland and San Francisco. R C Rollo sang two songs.

Colonel A K Crawford physician of the Oakland St Andrew's Society gave an interesting talk on the subject of Dr Kelly's paper quoting statistics and giving facts in support of the value of inoculation with vaccine as a preventive of variola or smallpox. Alex W Anderson was called upon and sang a comical selection.

Charles Kidd past president responded to Our Ain Kes and during his remarks took occasion to speak of the negative side of the question holding that even if the inoculation with the vaccine or kine pox had been instrumental as claimed in stopping the ravages of smallpox in the past it was unnecessary to do so at the present time owing to improved sanitation etc.

Dr J A Williams a guest of the evening was invited to speak and concurred with Dr Kelly as to the historical facts. He also gave personal experiences as to the harmlessness of vaccination when proper care and attention was given. Drs Crawford and Williams sang [illegible].

D M Henderson was called upon by President Lackie for remarks and proved to be a strong anti-vaccinationist. He told of the trouble he had some years ago to get his children into the schools of Alameda on account of the compulsory vaccination ordinance. He had previously had three of them vaccinated and each one had sore arms for months. He finally procured physicians certificates from San Francisco and his children were admitted on these certificates though they had never been vaccinated.

Dr L M Paterson made a clear and strong address in support of the inoculation by lymph of vaccinia as a preventive of smallpox. He spoke of Jenner's discovery that vaccinia in the cow was the same as variola in the human family and that those who had suffered from kine pox were immune when exposed to smallpox. After making the discovery Jenner waited for sixteen years before he secured a case of kine pox to prove his theory but when at last he got the case he demonstrated it by inoculating the recovered patient from kine pox with the virus from smallpox and found the patient immune. From this time 1754 vaccination was practiced out for a quarter of a century or more it was voluntary but it reduced the death rate from smallpox from 3,000 in the 1,000,000 to 400 and during certain periods under compulsory vaccination the reduction increased until now it is less than ten in 1,000,000. He cited the result in Sweden and Norway where the death rate has gone down under compulsory vaccination from 3,000 and more in the 1,000,000 to 25 in the 1,000,000. He spoke of the discomfort in times past from sore arms but said with proper lymph and care after the operation there was no reason for discomfort. The soreness he said was from secondary causes occasioned by allowing bacteria to get into the wound. His remarks were scholarly and convincing.

James Hutchison past president proposed a vote of thanks to Dr Kelly for his excellent paper and in doing so heartily endorsed his views as to the value of vaccination giving an incident in his own city in Scotland occurring while he was a boy when an epidemic of smallpox broke out closing the factories and causing the death of hundreds but by vaccination the epidemic was stopped and the thousands of operatives who had been rendered unemployed were all at their work again in less than three months.

It was near midnight when Auld Lang Syne was sung and the company parted.

Those present were George S Lackie president Dr A S Kelly A Alexander R C Rollo Alex W Anderson Mr Thomson Hugh Forgie H M Cameron William Fyfe P MacDougall Major John B Jeffrey John Forgie James A Thomson Dr A K Crawford Charles Kidd James Hutchison Dr T A Williams James Low James Moir George St John Bremner Alex C Ballingall William Stuart John C Velten secretary J A Colquhoun W T Arnot Robert Dalzie D M Henderson Robert Howden Dr L M Paterson Professor James Pollitt. The usual refreshments at these gatherings were served during the evening.

A USE FOR AN OLD CARPET

Gretchen rarely asks paper lining under her new carpets she utilizes the old carpet for that purpose. It is carefully taken up and spread upon the grass plot in the yard and here scrubbed with a long handled scrubber. After each thorough scouring a pailful of water is poured over it and the scrubbing only stopped when the water runs off clear and clean. The carpet is then hung up in the strong sunlight for two or three days until thoroughly dry and when laid—I am dry and sweet—under the new one makes a softer and more useful carpet lining than any paper would.

THE WORST TRUST OF THEM ALL.

There is one trust that generally escapes execration at the hand of the press and it deserves the closest consideration of any. It is the remorseless drug trust which has advanced the price of drugs so shamelessly that some of what are called fancy drugs have ceased to be prescribed at all. For instance pilocarpine is twenty five cents a grain. A prescription might easily call for 310 grains or $1.25.50 each prescription. Hyoscyamine costs about forty cents a grain. No practioner can dare to prescribe such drugs except in the most cases and in minute quantities. There are one or two drugs which are used principally in the preparation of special proprietary medicines and when this is the case the drug trust raises their prices so as to either take all the profit or compel the abandonment of the business. For instance THE INDIA DRUG CURE of 201 Turk street San Francisco makes a proprietary medicine for the cure of morphine cocaine opium and all the other drug habits and are compelled to use a very costly drug which the drug trust has advanced to about $80.00 dollars per pound. It is absolutely indispensable and is used in large quantities. It could be made for about $10.00 and cost the trust $80.00 now. Upon whom does the burden of this trust fall? Chiefly on the class who can least afford it—the people already impoverished by the terrible results of drug addiction. Numbers have not been able to pay the past prices and some of them have resorted to the cheap fake cures which are simply the accustomed dope disguised in another form. For the present THE INDIA DRUG CURE intends to give the patients the benefit of the old stock they have on hand but inevitably as soon as that is gone and they have to buy new stock the price of the CURE will advance to double the old figures which means that it will be beyond the reach of thousands whose only hope it is.

The writer has known a farmer to save up for two years to take the CURE. How hopeless such a case would be with the new prices. It might be possible to cure a drug addict without the costliest of the drugs now used but the risk would be great and the suffering simply awful and they will not stand the least suffering distress or even inconvenience. Certainly THE INDIA DRUG CURE does cure the worst cases of morphine and other drug addiction without pain suffering and distress or even detention from usual business pursuits and has cured thousands in this city and this coast but it will go against the grain to see poor devils give up in despair just because the rapacious beasts who constitute the drug trust want to add a few hundreds or thousands to their profits. And O the biting bitterness of being helpless against such vampires!

J. S. EMERY'S BIRTHDAY IN BIG FERRIS WHEEL

There is one thing which I forgot to tell you yesterday in my talk regarding California and Californians at the St Louis Fair said Commissioner Wilbur Walker and that was about a visit to the fair of Mr and Mrs J S Emery of this city. Mr Emery was on the grounds on the eighty fourth anniversary of his birthday and the fact became known to Custodian Pearce of the Alameda county exhibit. The custodian learned that Mr Emery took quite a fancy to riding in the big Ferris wheel and as a consequence had one of its compartments which was occupied by Mr and Mrs Emery beautifully decorated. In the Ferris wheel in St Louis the passenger is permitted to remain on the contrivance for more than one round a privilege of which Mr and Mrs Emery availed themselves with a great deal of satisfaction.

Albatross in light shades of tan blue pink and green is selling for 25 cents a yard.

Invisible hooks and eyes are seen on some of the newest belts instead of a buckle.

OPPOSE FEMALES IN ALLEGORY.

CHRISTIAN CHINESE OPPOSED TO UNDRAPED FIGURES ON PAPER MONEY.

"I wish you would give me another bill instead of this one. The United States ought to be ashamed to put out such money."

These words were spoken by a little short man Chinese from his visage to queue, dress everything.

They were addressed to a cashier in a local bank and caused that prosaic and practical man of affairs to inquire what the matter was with the bill.

By way of reply the Chinese pointed to several semi nude female figures which appeared upon the piece of paper money.

The cashier saw in the figures a vignette of the figure of Liberty semi nude as to nether extremities another female figure with classic bust development unobscured by drapery and still another form of a finely molded female with a trumpet like that of the angels of the apocalypse proclaiming liberty to all the peoples of the world.

"Well" inquired the cashier "why won't this bill do?"

"I think Uncle Sam ought to be ashamed to print such pictures" said the Chinese. "I want to send his money to a lady."

The cashier was thoughtful for a moment restored the greenback to a heap on the back counter and gave the Chinese another bill which was less allegorical in so far at least as a display of female charms was concerned.

"Who was the cashier and who the Chinese?" asked one of the club men who was interested in the tale. "It's the first case in my experience that a Chink could not appreciate nature unadorned. I have never heard even a minister of the gospel refuse to receive his salary or contributions in such medium of exchange."

"It makes no difference who the cashier was" said the humorist "but the gentleman who wanted more clothes on the legal tender women was Gee Gam Chinese interpreter in the Police Court and an ordained minister in the Congregational church."

BABY SWALLOWS A LOT OF GLASS

The two year old babe of Mr and Mrs Frank Barbagelata of 817 Castro street who chewed up a seven-inch glass tube containing candy Thursday is alive and well and the attending physician Dr J L Mayo thinks there will be no serious results.

The baby was given the tube of candy by his four-year old brother Russell, and instantly began chewing it up. The mother who did not at first notice what the baby had heard the crunching of glass and made an examination of the child's mouth. Frightened and half-distracted she sent a messenger for a physician who did what he could for the baby. Nothing serious has thus far come from the incident and the child is apparently as cheerful as ever. It is not known from whom the candy was purchased.

SANTA FE LIMITED DAILY.

Schedule Change Which Will Increase Rail Service in Oakland.

The present train service to and from the Santa Fe depot in this city is to be increased by the arrival in and departure from Oakland of a daily train to and from Chicago.

This train is known as the limited. It has been running into this city for some months past but came and departed only twice each week namely on Monday and Thursday.

Under the new schedule which is now being prepared and which will soon go into effect this city will enjoy the accommodation of seven instead of two trains [illegible] each week.

SWITZERLAND THEATRE DESTROYED BY FIRE

NEW YORK October 8.—Fire has destroyed the theater at Basle says a Herald dispatch from Geneva. It was the finest [illegible] in Switzerland but only four [illegible]. There was no loss [illegible] fortunately the fire occurred at [illegible] in the morning.

Modeled on the Neues Theater in Vienna it seated 1100 persons [illegible] the latest fireproof appliances and possessed exits everywhere.

After the performance Thursday night [illegible] was left [illegible] supposed safety the iron curtain being low[illegible] in the Iroquois theater at Chicago [illegible] the stage and within a short time the safety [illegible] the stalls and [illegible] roof falling in within half an hour.

Two firemen were injured seriously and were carried to the hospital. The walls of the theater were very thick otherwise [illegible] would have been much more serious.

The theater was insured for $150,000. [illegible] the scenery and wardrobes of the artists were not insured. A valuable library [illegible] costumes was destroyed.

The cause of the fire was a short circuit in an electric wire.

How Miss Alice Hager Fibbed in a Holy Cause.

The KNAVE

Democrats Are all Mixed and the Party is Going to Pieces.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 8.—The politicians are now trying to make estimates on the number of votes Eugene V. Debs, Socialist, will receive in California. The Socialist meetings on the streets are largely attended. Then there is the higher cult of Socialism, of which Jack London is a sort of priest and apostle. But in all this there is nothing new.

What has stirred the politicians is the reception to Debs himself. He had a meeting at Woodward's Pavilion. It was not advertised or heralded. There seemed to be no special effort to get out a crowd. But Woodward's was packed. The galleries even had "standing room only." It has been estimated that 6000 people were there.

Now contrast this with last week's opening of the campaign by the Democrats. The Examiner had done its best to whip out a crowd to hear Senator Frank G. Newlands of Nevada. The State Central Committee had done what little it could to the same end. A tremendous list of vice-presidents had been prepared. Yet at that meeting there were only 580 people and of the vice-presidents just 29 showed in the hall. So the politicians have about concluded that Debs is going to cut very badly into the Democratic vote.

* * *

By the way, I saw our old friend Ex-Senator Harry V. Morehouse addressing a Socialist meeting on Grant avenue the other night and he was speaking with much of his old-time vigor. But a street meeting seems the only place he can get a hearing now.

When Morehouse first attracted attention in California politics, he was a Democrat. Then he shifted to Republicanism and seemed to be a fixture in the State Senate, representing Santa Clara County. He had a good turn o' th' tongue, and was known as an industrious programmer.

Then the great Burns deadlock worked his undoing. Morehouse and General John H. Dickinson, who represented Marin and Contra Costa, were counted on as votes that Burns had up his sleeve. They voted for General Barnes, but each had a retainer from the Southern Pacific, and so the machine leaders figured that when the psychological moment arrived the two old programmers would swing to Burns and start the stampede. But the session passed away and the psychological moment did not arrive.

Then came the extra session, when Burns surely was to be nominated. Again Morehouse and Dickinson were counted on to bell wether the stampede. The time came, but they did not change their votes as expected. Burns was beaten. All sorts of charges were made that Sam Leake had bought Morehouse and Dickinson away from the railroad.

Then the wrath of the company descended upon the two. They have been out of politics ever since. They were at once removed from the railroad payroll. Morehouse came to San Francisco, but he did not seem to get along. Last year he was heard of in an abortive movement to beat the machine in one of the districts, and now he has come down to addressing the tag-rag meetings of Grant avenue. The revenge of the railroad seems complete.

* * *

Apropos of the way some of the Southern California Democrats are grooming Mayor Snyder of Los Angeles for the Democratic nomination for Governor two years from now, I heard a good story the other day illustrating the pink-whiskered mayor's sharp methods in getting support from both sides of a controversy. The story grew out of the fight for the city advertising.

The Express wanted the advertising. So did the Times. The Council was in favor of the Times, but the bid of the Express was the lower. However, the contract was given to the Times by the Council and the matter was passed up to Snyder for his signaturee.

The Express people went to the Mayor and urged him to veto the ordinance granting the contract to the Times. He wanted the support of the Express and made his bargain for it. Then he vetoed that ordinance, and the Express chuckled in its joy.

But the Times went to work to have the ordinance passed over the Mayor's veto. All sorts of influence was brought to bear on the Councilmen. Still the Times was one vote shy. Without that one vote the Times could not get the contract.

Now Mayor Snyder had that one vote under his control. That Councilman voted just as the Mayor told him to. The Times people knew this. Snyder had a meeting with them and entered into an agreement. For that one vote the Times was to give him its support.

Once the bargain was made, the Mayor's Councilman voted to override the Mayor's veto, the Times got the contract, and the Mayor had secured the support of both the Times and the Express. If that isn't mighty sharp politics, where will you find it. No wonder Snyder is considered a shifty sort of candidate by the Southern Democracy.

* * *

But it doesn't look very much as if it made any difference whether the Democrats nominate a candidate for Governor or not. The organization of that party has all gone to pieces. It has no head at all. At the State Central Committee headquarters the chairman and secretary do not even know when and where the party meetings are to be held.

For instance, last week they gave out to all the papers that Congressman Theodore A. Bell and Albert Johnson would speak at Sacramento last Saturday night. This was twice announced. But Bell and Johnson had no notion of speaking in Sacramento that night, and both were far from the scene.

They have the greatest difficulty in getting speakers to go out on the stump and the ones they can get are often not acceptable, so fierce is the internal strife in the party.

The Democratic local convention this week was a cat-and-dog affair, with a slugging for Supervisor Sammy Braunhart. There is a tendency to make Braunhart the city punching bag. As one cynic expressed it, "every time a man misses a car he gets mad and thumps Braunhart." Georgie Ryan thumped him once. Tom Flynn smashed him on Montgomery street. He was struck once in the old Baldwin Hotel and once at Woodland. And now Jim Welch has punched him in a cowardly fashion, Welch being a husky giant, while Braunhart is an invalid.

* * *

There was some comment because the local Democratic platform was written by Eustace H. Cullinan, a Bulletin reporter. But it was nothing compared to the talk caused by Mayor Phelan electing to make his home-coming talk in the Post, instead of his old organ, the Bulletin. The rumor has run the rounds that Mayor Schmitz had tried to buy the Post during the week and had offered $100,000 for it. The railroad owns $34,000 of notes against the Post and whoever gets the paper must assume this obligation first off. The effort to buy the paper is going on, however, and there may be a change of hands before long. If Schmitz should get hold of it he would at last have an organ in which he could fight back at his critics, but the shape in which the stock is held makes a purchase difficult.

Society is all of a flutter over the Dolbeer will contest. That Bertha Dolbeer was out of her head for some time before she committed suicide seems certain enough. The people she met in Europe wrote home expressions like these: "Saw Bertha Dolbeer to-day. She is mad as a March hare." "Had a call from Bertha Dolbeer. She is crazy as a bed-bug."

Now the attorneys for the contestants in the will contest are searching high and low for the people who wrote these letters, and the society maids and matrons, who have a horror of going into court, are kept busy dodging and denying. These denials run very fast and the letters they wrote are being destroyed as fast as they can be found.

* * *

Speaking of society, Miss Alice Hager had an amusing experience the other day. She is a devout Catholic, and is just now taking a great interest in the church fair that Father Cottle of St. Bridget's is to open to-night. She agreed to decorate the hall, and went to the big wholesale house of Murphy, Grant & Co., to get the cloth necessary for the decoration.

"But we sell only to the trade," said the clerk, who came forward to wait on her, and who had no idea who she was.

"Well, I'm the trade," she replied with a woman's sudden wit.

"How, Miss?"

"I'm a decorator."

"A professional decorator?"

"Yes."

So the clerk sold her the goods. Then she happened to think that she had no credit there and not enough pocket money to meet the bill. So she said:

"I'll have to pay you with one of Miss Alice Hager's checks. I have one signed in blank for the purpose."

"But I don't know her signature," protested the clerk.

"If Mr. Joe Grant were here he'd know it," she responded; but Joe was not there, and Miss Hager felt herself in a dilemma, when suddenly a chuckling voice came from the cashier's desk.

"That's all right! I know Miss Hager's signature when I see it, and I also know Miss Hager when I see her."

But the handsome girl had won her point by her subterfuge, and went away feeling that if she had fibbed just a little it was in a holy cause.

SOCIETY FORMED TO STOP "BEAR-HUG" DANCING.

Organization Composed of Dancing Instructors is Also Opposed to Half-time.

BALTIMORE, October 8.—A society for reforming the present styles of dancing has been organized here by the leading dancing masters of the city.

"We propose," they announce, "to abolish this bear-hug fashion of dancing. We strictly oppose half-time dancing and romping.

"We don't approve of dancing a sort of two-step to the waltz and shall teach our classes to dance to the music."

KILLS WIFE; THEN HIMSELF.

BELIEVED HE HAD BEEN DECEIVED REASON FOR TRAGEDY.

NEW YORK October 8.—Believing he had been deceived by his wife, Alfred Fryer, manager of a hay and produce company, shot her fatally early today in their home at Newark, N. J.

Fryer then turned the revolver on himself and blew out his brains, his body falling across that of his wife. The only daughter of the couple, 9 years old was sleeping in an adjoining room at the time the tragedy occurred. Awakened by the shots she rushed into the room, only to see her father fall dead.

Mrs. Fryer was still alive when the police arrived, but died soon after she reached the hospital.

The little girl ran in her nightclothing to a neighbor's house for aid. She said her father, who was only 35 years old, had remained up later than usual writing letters. Mrs. Fryer was shot as she slept.

Letters from Fryer were found accusing an unnamed young man of wrecking his home.

The couple were well known in Newark society and occupied a handsome home.

FOOTBALL GAME CALLED OF.

NEBRASKA AND COLORADO UNIVERSITY TEAMS WILL NOT PLAY TODAY.

DENVER, Colo., October 8.—The game of football scheduled at Boulder today between the teams from the State University of Nebraska and the State University of Colorado has been called off because of a disagreement between the manager of the Boulder team and Coach Booth of the Lincoln aggregation.

Booth refused to allow his men to play 35-minute halves, which was insisted upon by the Boulder eleven. Booth said he feared the health of his men would be permanently injured in such a long struggle since they have had but two weeks training. The Nebraska men arrived in Denver yesterday and were to go to Boulder today. They will now return home.

The end of the summer sales of underwear are very attractive. It is surprising what $1 will buy.

Name cards for dinners and luncheon are shown in the shape of leaves, all in paper and very real looking.

FOURTH ANNUAL BALL.

CONCELHO NO. 5, U. P. P. E. C. WILL GIVE LARGE AFFAIR AT PLEASANTON.

PLEASANTON, October 8.—Concelho No. 5, U. P. P. E. C., will give its fourth annual ball at Nevis Pavilion Saturday evening, October 8. It promises to be largely attended. The committee will decorate the pavilion in beautiful autumn flowers. A chicken supper will be served at 12 o'clock.

Music will be furnished by a fine orchestra from Oakland.

Following are those in charge: Floor director, J. P. Rosa, manager, Joe Joseph; committee, T. H. Silvey, Frank M. Willis, Willie Lamence reception committee, M. F. Davila, Antone Lopez, Manuel Lopez; committee of arrangements, Frank Nevis, Frank Ramalho, Manuel Frager.

REBEKAH LODGE.

Pleasanton Rebekah Lodge has planned a most interesting meeting for October 24. There will be a large initiation, followed by a social in honor of the eleventh anniversary of the organization of the lodge. An elaborate banquet will close the evening's pleasure.

COURT ALISAL DANCE.

The dance given by Court Alisal No. 108, Foresters of America, Thursday night, was well attended. A large number from Livermore Lodge came over to enjoy the evening's pleasure. Music was furnished by the Sadie Jacobus orchestra of Oakland.

REPUBLICAN MEETING.

On Monday evening at Nevis' Pavilion there will be a meeting of Pleasanton Township Republicans for the purpose of organizing a club. From present indications there will be a large number sign the membership roll.

ON TRIAL FOR BURGLARY.

Ed Shinn and Charles Monglue will come up before Judge Quinn Friday for burglary at the Blue Goose Saloon. They stole a gold watch, a small amount of change and two razors. The goods were taken to Livermore and sold to Joe Perry.

PERSONALS.

Fred A. Kane of San Francisco is visiting his sister, Mrs. F. E. Adams.

Fred Suarey, who has been very ill with pneumonia, is improving and is able to be out.

Mrs. Fred McDougall is visiting relatives in Oakland.

Miss Bessie Bunch went to San Jose Thursday for a visit to relatives.

DR. AIKEN RESIGNS OFFICE.

Retires From the Masonic Home at Decoto.

DECOTO, October 8.—Dr. Aiken, Superintendent of the Masonic Home at Decoto, has resigned. He and his wife have had charge of the institute ever since it was founded. Dr. Aiken will sever his connection on November 1.

Dr. Rankin, at one time superintendent of the Stockton Insane Asylum, has been elected to fill Dr. Aiken's place, and he and his wife will arrive on October 15, so as to get the run of things before they take formal charge of the Home.

LADIES' GUILD MEETS.

The Ladies' Guild met at the home of Mrs. May Wednesday.

CONCERT AT NILES.

Decoto was well represented at Niles Saturday night at the concert given by the California Glee and Mandolin Club.

PERSONALS.

Mrs. Wood and children of Pajaro are spending a few days with Mrs. D. C. Hibbard.

F. S. Fetcha and daughter Lottie returned home Monday from Half Moon Bay after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Saize.

Mrs. Volmer and children of San Francisco spent a few days this week with Mrs. A. Haley.

Mrs. Nesmith spent Wednesday and Thursday in San Francisco and Oakland.

Heat in an agate spider a pint of milk, with a little salt. When hot enough to cook them drop in, one at a time, five or six eggs and keep in as hot a place as the milk will allow without scorching, until the eggs are set. Have ready five or six slices of toast arranged on a large, deep platter. Lift the eggs with a cake-turner, place one on each slice of toast and pour the milk over. Butter may be added if desired, but it is not necessary.

BERKELEY SUBURBAN NEWS UNIVERSITY

BUSY WEEK SCHEDULED AT UNIVERSITY.

Opening of Short Course Dairy School and Freshmen Football Game Will Be Among Events.

BERKELEY, October 8.—The opening of the short courses in agriculture and the Freshman intercollegiate game will be the leading events at the University of California next week, according to the official calendar that has just been issued for the next few college days.

Tomorrow afternoon there will be a half hour of music in the Greek Theater or in Hearst Hall if the weather is inclement.

On Monday the library committee of the Graduate Council will meet at 11 o'clock at South Hall.

Tuesday at 8 o'clock the dairy school will be opened with appropriate exercises. At 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon the Board of Regents will meet at the Mark Hopkins Institute in San Francisco. Try-outs for the Senate and Students' Congress debating teams will be held at 8 o'clock Monday evening at Stiles Hall.

At the Students' Observatory at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, Professor Guido Hugo Marx of Leland Stanford Jr. University will address the Civil Engineering Association.

Thursday at 2:30 p. m. Sophocles' "Ajax" will be presented in the Greek Theater by University students.

Friday morning at 11 o'clock there will be a University meeting in Harmon Gymnasium. A Freshman game rally will be held in the Greek Theater at 8 o'clock Friday night.

Saturday the intercollegiate football game will be played on the campus at 2:30 o'clock.

PHILANTROPHISTS ROBBED BY FILIPINO.

DR. AND MRS. F. L. CARPENTER LOSE A PURSE CONTAINING THIRTEEN DOLLARS.

BERKELEY, October 8.—A few days ago Dr. F. L. Carpenter of Venvenue and Derby streets befriended a Filipino named Cebu Costillo by giving him a home and feeding and clothing him. Last night the fellow displayed his lack of gratitude by stealing a purse containing $13 belonging to Mrs. Carpenter. The thief immediately disappeared and today no trace of him could be found.

When the Filipino applied at the Carpenter residence he was poorly clad and declared that he had not had a substantial meal for some time. His story appealed to Dr. and Mrs. Carpenter, who at once became his benefactors. They have decided to make no effort to prosecute the man and have not notified the police of the robbery.

LUSCIOUS GRAPES GROWN IN OAKLAND

There is on exhibition at the Board of Trade two very large bunches of Black Prince grapes which were grown within ten minutes walk of the business center of Oakland. J. P. Moore, of 1136 Myrtle street, three years ago set out some grape cuttings and this year in a yard in the rear of his house, the vines have borne over three hundred pounds of luscious grapes. The two bunches exhibited weigh several pounds.

Mrs. Wykoff, of South Berkeley, has sent to the Board of Trade for exhibition purposes some very fine blackberries, many of which are of unusual size. They are known as the Tezano berry, and show the fruit in all stages of development.

An unusual thing in horticulture is the large number of cherry trees which are now in blossom for the second time this season. In very many yards in Oakland and on the ranches in the surrounding country scores of cherry trees are in full bloom. Several parties have sent sample twigs of blossoms to the Board of Trade.

UNIVERSITY GIVES SPECIAL DAIRY COURSE.

ANNUAL INSTRUCTION FOR AGRICULTURISTS TO BEGIN NEXT TUESDAY.

BERKELEY, Oct. 10.—The annual short courses in Agriculture will be opened at the University of California next Tuesday morning and will continue until December 9th.

The short course is open to all persons of good moral character who are at least seventeen years of age and who have a common-school education. No formal entrance examination will be required, but it is expected that all applicants will have had sufficient school training to enable them to intelligently understand lectures, take notes, and perform the necessary text-book work. The usual grammar-school course gives a fair preparation for this work, although the better the previous education of the student the greater will be the benefit to be derived from the instruction given.

Instruction in the short courses is given largely by means of lectures and prescribed reading, supplemented by such recitations, demonstrations and laboratory work as are necessary to make plain the principles involved, and to give the student an insight into the various branches of science upon which true agricultural development rests. In each of the special courses about three hours of each day are spent in the lecture room; the remaining portion of the day is occupied in the library and laboratory—the time required varying from three to six hours, depending upon the particular work at which the student is employed. The normal amount of work a student should take is about eight units.

ANOTHER CARNEGIE LIBRARY.

NEW YORK, October 8.—Andrew Carnegie has agreed to provide $200 000 for the erection of a central library and four branches in the borough of Islington, London, cables the Times correspondent in the latter city. The sites are to be provided by the borough.

ANGELO'S TRIAL SET.

Judge Hall yesterday set the trial of P. Angelo, accused of stealing a horse at Livermore, for October 20. The stolen animal belonged to G. E. Gould.

PROFESSORS WILL PRESENT THE NUMBERS.

UNIVERSITY FREE CONCERT WILL BE HELD IN GREEK THEATER.

BERKELEY, October 8.—A very novel concert will be given tomorrow afternoon in the Greek Theater of the University of California for the free half hour of music. For the first time in the history of the institution the University professors will take part in a free concert.

The program will be rendered by Professor Walter E. Magee and Professor Derrick N. Lehmer, who will sing twice each. The accompanist will be Professor Edmund O'Neil for Professor Magee and Paul Tralow for Professor Lehmer.

Dr. Lehmer will sing two songs by Schubert, "Das Heimweh" and "Kennst du das Land." Professor Magee will sing "Let Me Dream" by Hawley, and "Farewell, Manchester," an old English song.

As usual, the audience is requested to remain seated during each individual number. If it becomes necessary for anyone to leave before the conclusion of the program it is requested that the upper rear entrance at the back of the theater, above the highest tier of seats, be used. The lower entrances will be closed at 4 o'clock, the hour set for the beginning of the program, and will remain closed until its completion. As usual, the public will be welcome and there will be no charge for admission.

CHURCH FEDERATION MEETS ON MONDAY

BERKELEY, October 8.—The Berkeley Federation of Churches will hold a public meeting at Trinity M. E. Church next Monday night, at 7:45 o'clock. Dr. McLean will preside. Dr. Coates of Evangel Baptist Church and president of the federation will make a few remarks.

The address of the evening will be delivered by the Rev. W. H. Hopkins of the First Congregational Church. Special music will be rendered.

LOS ANGELES VISITOR.

BERKELEY, October 8.—Mrs. E. M. Penfield of Los Angeles is spending a few days at 2132 Catherine street. She leaves for home in a few days.

Pretty little lace socks are offered for 10 cents each.

MACHINE HANDLES LETTERS IN A JIFFY.

NEW ELECTRIC APPARATUS IS INSTALLED IN BERKELEY POSTOFFICE.

BERKELEY, October 8.—The old hand apparatus for the cancellation of letters that pass through the local postoffice has been replaced with an electric machine that has a capacity of several thousand letters an hour.

When the old device was used the letters had to be fed into the machine by hand, but the new machine is entirely automatic.

The installation of the new canceller is another evidence of the prosperity attending the local postoffice. The business of the local department is rapidly increasing, which means that additional clerks and carriers will be added from time to time.

ENGINEERS GATHER AT FESTAL BOARD

BERKELEY, October 8.—The Associated Electrical and Mechanical Engineers of the University of California held their semi-annual banquet at the California Hotel in San Francisco last evening.

The toastmaster was J. M. Nightingale and the following contributed to the evening's entertainment: E. F. A. Carey, C. L. Cory, J. N. LeConte, W. F. Barnes, R. E. Frickey, G. C. Noble, W. G. B. Euler, A. A. Thompson, H. W. Reynolds and T. R. Landsborough.

CHURCH FEDERATION MEETS ON MONDAY

BERKELEY, October 8.—The Berkeley Federation of Churches will hold a public meeting at Trinity M. E. Church next Monday night, at 7:45 o'clock. Dr. McLean will preside. Dr. Coates of Evangel Baptist Church and president of the federation will make a few remarks.

The address of the evening will be delivered by the Rev. W. H. Hopkins of the First Congregational Church. Special music will be rendered.

LOS ANGELES VISITOR.

BERKELEY, October 8.—Mrs. E. M. Penfield of Los Angeles is spending a few days at 2132 Catherine street. She leaves for home in a few days.

Pretty little lace socks are offered for 10 cents each.

FOR CLEAN STREETS

Joe Martin, who has charge of cleaning the streets, states he is having a new sweeper constructed, which will sweep much cleaner than in others on this coast. He promises to keep the bitumenized portions of the streets in excellent condition.

REPRESENTS FRATERNITY AT ANNUAL CONVENTION.

BERKELEY, October 8.—Harry L. Stoddard has departed on a month's visit to Eastern colleges. While away he will attend the annual convention of the Delta Upsilon Fraternity at Chicago.

BAND OF SHEEP WEARING ISLAND AWAY.

Scientist Fred Johnson is Preparing An Interesting Report for the State University Geologists.

BERKELEY, October 8.—A party of scientists, headed by Fred Johnson a fellow at the University of California, who recently visited Anacapa Island, one of the Santa Barbara channel group, reports that the island is slowly, but surely, disappearing in the ocean, owing to the presence of 100 sheep on the barren rock.

The startling statement is further made that there is not a drop of drinking water for the sheep on the island and that they subsist entirely upon the leaves of the prickly pear plant, which is about the only vegetation on the small body of land.

As far as the scientists could ascertain, but one man inhabits the island. He is a sheep herder, who draws his supply of drinking and cooking water from a cistern which is filled when it rains. It was stated that during the recent rains the sheep did not know what to do with the water; that full an drank none of it.

The leaves of the prickly pear are fearful things to handle, but Mr. Johnson says that he saw the sheep eating them, first stamping on the plants to break away the thorns and then going at them in the most careful manner to avoid being too badly cut.

But by far the most startling statement made by the scientists is that the band of sheep are actually wearing away the island. On the south side of the island they run along the top of abrupt cliffs forming deep pathways about three feet from the edge of the cliff. Rains soak into the ruts thus made and from time to time parts of the cliff fall into the sea.

On the north side of the island there are canyons and hollows where the soil has collected. Between the rock and the upper crust the soil washes out, and in some way carved ways of holes are can walk into little caverns to a distance of twenty feet. The sheep walk over the top of these caverns and the earth, which is in turn carried by the rains into the sea.

Johnson will make a written report on the island to the department of geology at the State University.

RECENT PENSIONS TO OAKLANDERS

Veterans of the Civil War, resident in this city and vicinity, who have made application for soldier pensions for disability occasioned by exposure or injuries sustained in the war in question, have been faring well of late at the hands of the Department of Pensions, as is shown by the following list of applications granted, with the allowed per month and the name of the command in which the applicant served, the pensions being secured through the efforts of Captain W. H. Thomas: W. H. Parish, Forty-fourth Illinois, $6; Fred M. Farwell, Sixth Massachusetts, $10; William H. Donohue, Twenty-fourth Iowa, $10; Simon J. Happ, Fourth California, $8; John H. Oaks, Twenty-sixth Michigan, $8; Thomas A. Le Bouef, First California Cavalry, $10; Jacob Keck, Fifty-eight Ohio, $10; John H. Chipman, Eighth California, $10; James H. FORESTERS WILL CELEBRATE.

COURT ELMHURST TO OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY OF LOCAL ORGANIZATION.

ELMHURST, Oct. 8.—Court Elmhurst, No. 174, Foresters of America, will celebrate the fourth anniversary of the organization in this place, in Red Men's Hall, Saturday evening, October 15. The affair will be strictly invitational and only members of the local court and their intimate friends will be present.

A pleasing program is being arranged, after the rendition of which, a banquet will be served to the members of the minstrel troupe, who gave such a delightful performance a few weeks ago under the auspices of the Foresters.

BASEBALL NEWS.

The T. P. Elms will appear in their new uniforms on the San Leandro diamond tomorrow. They will try conclusions with the Sportsmen, who have defeated some of the best teams around the bay. Each nine is confident of victory, and as the game will be played for $100 a side, it should prove decidedly exciting. C. Kleupfe will pitch for the locals, while Hopkins will be on the slab for the Sportsmen.

MRS. CONE VISITS.

Mrs. F. E. Cone, widow of the late Fred Cone, visited with Mrs. C. S. Alvord Thursday.

COAL MINERS KILLED.

DESSAU, Duchy of Anhalt, Germany, October 8.—It is now known that all of the eighteen miners imprisoned by a sudden inrush of water and mud in the Leopold Brown coal mine near Koethen, on Thursday, are dead. The bodies of the men cannot be reached.

HOLD A JOINT MEETING.

WOODMEN CONGREGATE AT SAN LEANDRO AND ENJOY BANQUET.

SAN LEANDRO, Oct. 8.—Over one hundred and fifty Woodmen assembled in Masonic Temple in this city last Thursday evening. The meeting was held under the joint auspices of Cherry Camp, of San Leandro, Elm Camp of Elmhurst and Oil Orchard Camp of San Lorenzo. Besides the representatives of these camps, many choppers from Oakland were in attendance.

Each lodge brought one or more candidates who were initiated into the secret workings of the order. The ceremonies were conducted by the famous degree team of Alpha Camp, East Oakland.

After the applicants were declared full-fledged Woodmen, the guests repaired to the banquet room, where they did ample justice to the appetizing supper which had been prepared for them.

Short speeches and rapartee were indulged in around the festive board and at the conclusion of the repast everyone assembled in the main hall, where the evening was spent in singing songs and in other amusements.

The affair was in the immediate charge of Messers. M. Geisenhofer, C. B. Jones and T. H. Johnson.

U. P. E. C. DELEGATES.

Many prominent leaders of the U. P. E. C. councils in this city will attend the Grand Convention of that organization in San Rafael next Monday. Besides Supreme Secretary L. J. Martin of San Leandro and Supreme President Jesse H. Woods, of Haywards, other members from the local councils will take part in the proceedings. Following is the complete list of representatives from this city; Council No. 1, M. S. Gulaco, M. M. Avellar, A. Lucio, M. J. Andrade, John Pereira, A. Rogers, G. Gloria, William G. Oakes, J. I. Barbeiro; Council No. 55 will send A. B. Thomas and M. A. Silva.

CHURCH SERVICES.

Rev. Hanson will occupy the Methodist pulpit, morning and evening tomorrow.

N. G. Nickell will lead the Epworth League meeting, taking for his subject, "Helping One Another."

BOY IS KILLED BY AN AUTOMOBILE

CHICAGO, October 8.—While riding home from school on his bicycle 14-year-old Frederick Woodrich has been run down by an automobile and fatally injured. The chauffeur, David Anderson, was alone in the vehicle. Persons who witnessed the accident declare the automobile was going so fast that the boy had no time even to try to escape.

TO ADVERTISE FRUITVALE.

BOARD OF TRADE PREPARING AN ARTICLE SETTING FORTH ADVANTAGES.

FRUITVALE, Oct. 8.—Facts, setting for th the advantages of this place, for the advantages of this place, traffic facilities and school advantages, are being compiled by the Committee of Directors of the Fruitvale Board of Trade in conjunction with several of the more prominent members of that organization.

When a sufficient number of these items have been secured, an article will be written on hte subject, and a committee will be appointed to confer with the California Promotion Committee, for the purpose of having it printed in the magazine published by that organization.

PLAN A DANCE.

The local camp, Modern Woodmen of America, are arranging for a grand ball, which will take place in Upper Fruitvale hall, Saturday evening, October 15.

Committees have been appointed who are working hard to make the affair an enjoyable one. The hall will be decorated for the occasion with ferns and flowers. The services of a first-class orchestra have been secured.

French challis in delightful colorings and designs are selling for 60 cents a yard.

Pears'

It is the finest toilet soap in all the world.

WILL GIVE GRAND BALL.

HAYWARDS CIRCLE, COMPANIONS OF THE FOREST, PLANS A DANCE.

HAYWARDS, Oct. 8.—The local circle of the Companions of the Forest will hold its third annual grand ball at Native Sons' Hall, Saturday evening, October 22.

The members of the organization been contemplating the event for several weeks, and consequently have had ample time to make all the arrangements. Everything is now in readiness for the affair, and the only changes which may occur will be in the minor details.

Riggs' orchestra will furnish the music. The decorations will be unique and attractive. Festoons of ferns and flowers will be suspended throughout the apartment, while flags and bunting will drape the walls.

Miss Louisa Silva has been appointed floor manager. She has directed the dances of many of the social functions held in this city on previous occasions and has always given great satisfaction.

The following have the arrangements in charge: Miss Annie Lawrence, Miss Emma Pereira, Miss Alice Thorndike, Manuel Riggs and Joseph Silva.

DANCE IN OCCIDENTAL HALL.

Next Saturday evening, there will be a dance in the Occidental Hall, and hereafter, during the winter months, a hop will be given on the first and third Saturday evening of each month. G. Merzbach, the well known local pianist, will furnish the music.

BASEBALL NOTES.

The locals will cross bats tomorrow with the Sullivan Hatters on the Haywards diamond. The home players have not lost a single game since Manager Charles Pimental has been at the head of affairs and should make the San Francisco boys, who are also a good team, play their best.

Oswill and Oswill will be on the firing line, and the other positions will be filled by the regular players.

SALE OF PROPERTY.

The Library Trustees consummated a sale Thursday evening, by which Fred Allen became the owner of eighty feet of the Cooper tract, fronting on B street. Mr. Allen intends building a modern residence on the lot.

NEWS NOTES.

Miss Annie Gray left this week for Lake County, where she will spend her vacation. During her absence Mrs. O. E. Walpert will act as cashier at the bank.

G. S. Langan and son, Saleb, left Wednesday for a trip to the Coast Range. They will drive over the Santa Cruz mountains, and will make their camp in the vicinity of Boulder Creek, where they will spend several weeks hunting and fishing.

GREAT INCREASE IN BUILDING.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS NOW BEING MADE IN EMERYVILLE.

EMERYVILLE, Oct. 8.—There is an unusual amount of building going on at present in this neighborhood, and business of every description seems to be on the increase.

It is rumored that several important improvements are contemplated in the business line for the near future. With the completion of the new Emeryville hotel on Park avenue, at least three mercantile enterprises will be started. Two other business blocks are in course of construction, which, when finished, will accommodate several stores.

Street improvements have served to put most of the principal thoroughfares of the town in first-class condition and all defective bridges, culverts, cross-walks, etc., are being repaired. Taken all in all there is every indication that the the improved condition of affairs here has come to stay as a natural result of the peculiar facilities the town affords for manufacturing and other enterprise.

WOMAN SWEARS FALSELY AND THEN SHE REPENTS.

NEW YORK, October 8.—An unusual contribution to the treasury has been received by the Metropolitan Street Railway. It came in the shape of currency amounting to $550, handed to an official of the company by a Polish clergyman. The latter said a woman member of his church had confessed that in suing the company for personal injuries she had perjured herself and through him wished to return her share of the money recovered. She made the false oath upon advice of an attorney to the effect that she could not win otherwise.

ALVARADO, October 8.—Invitations are out for the marriage of Miss Gertrude Munson to John G. Hopper of Sonora, which will take place at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Dyer, Thursday evening, October 20. Immediate relatives and a few intimate friends will witness the ceremony.

UNION COTILLION CLUB.

The Union Cotillion Club will be reorganized this winter. The following young ladies are named on the committees:

Alvarado—Miss Dyer, Miss Nauert.

Digito—Miss Crane, Miss Whipple, Miss I. Whipple.

Centerville—Miss Huxley, Miss Salz.

Niles—Miss Mayhew, Miss Hudson, Miss Jacobus.

FAULL-WHIPPLE MARRIAGE.

The marriage of Miss Bertha Whipple and William Faull will take place in San Francisco, Saturday, October 15.

JAMES SYMONS DIES.

James N. Symons, father of James Symons of this place, died in San Francisco, Monday. The funeral was held from his home Thursday. Deceased leaves a widow, a daughter and several sons.

PERSONALS.

B. H. Ford is spending his vacation in Ione with relatives.

Mrs. Charles Nauert spent several days of the week visiting in the metropolis.

Miss Kate Mathews of San Francisco is spending the week here with her parents.

After a two months' vacation the whist club will meet next Wednesday.

Mrs. M. Lee and her daughter, Mrs. Silveria, spent several days of the week in San Francisco.

The Five Hundred Club met with Miss Jackson at her home in Decoto, Thursday evening.

Mrs. Leo Aurich spent several days of the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Joyce.

August Nauert of San Francisco spent Sunday with his parents here.

Mrs. Layson and her son, Henry H. Patterson, left Tuesday for the East to be gone six weeks.

Dr. Morrison has moved his office from the Foster brick building to his residence.

ESTABLISH CLEARING HOUSE.

NEW YORK, October 8.—By unanimous vote the New York Produce Exchange has decided to establish a clearing house for the prompt settlement of future contracts. The clearing house will be organized in the form of an independent corporation, membership in which will be optional with each member of the exchange. It will be operated on lines similar to those of the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce.

POVERTY PARTY A SUCCESS.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS OF GOLDEN GATE ENTERTAIN.

GOLDEN GATE, Oct. 8.—Jollity reigned supreme last night at the poverty party given by the Young People's Society for Christian Endeavor in the Presbyterian annex.

For many weeks the committee had been engaged in making arrangements for the event and as a result there was not the slightest hitch in the proceedings.

The annex was crowded at an early hour by a motley crew who certainly gave evidence of poverty most dire. All the old and dilapidated clothing of a generation had apparently been resurrected from musty concealment and in these habiliments the merry party presented a decidedly forlorn aspect which was belied by their smiling faces and merry laughter.

Some few of the guests had dared the stringent rules of the affair and ventured to attend clad in apparel that gave slight evidence of affluence, and these were promptly fined and informed that such things as starched shirts or "stand-up" collars would not be tolerated.

The evening was spent in various ways; games were played, speeches and recitations delivered, and songs sung. Altogether it was one of the most amusing affairs that has taken place in many days, and all who attended express themselves as being greatly pleased with the result.

COURT COSTS INCREASED.

Sarah D. Agner had her court costs in a divorce suit now pending increased from $10 to $40 yesterday by Judge Melvin. She sued for divorce on November 3, alleging desertion, and the husband, Lewis Agner, filed a cross-complaint, alleging infidelity.

SPORTS

ASSOCIATION SEASON WILL OPEN SUNDAY.

Game at Freeman's Park Tomorrow—Contest Across Bay.

BY THE WAYFARER.

Tomorrow the public will welcome association football again. The season also gives promise of being a record one and the majority of clubs will be increased.

Last season the association game was unlucky in the way of weather. It was a very wet season and hampered the clubs considerably, and mud fights would be more appropriate for some of the games that took place.

Oakland Hornets will not appear at Freeman's Park tomorrow as advertised. A benefit game will be played at the Presidio tomorrow afternoon under Gaelic rules and it was thought best not to play, so as not to have any counter attraction. However, the Eagles from Alameda will fill the bill and a good game should be witnessed.

It is now illegal for a player to charge another in the back in any part of the field unless the player charged is wilfully impeding his opponent. Formally the referee had to discriminate as to whether the man charged was also facing his own goal, but now that is unnecessary. It is not a very serious alteration. I do not agree with a well-known authority, who thinks it will make a referee's work harder. There is just the possibility that players who have heard of the alteration in the law may endeavor to abuse the liberty it gives them, but very few intentional back charges ought to evade the eye of the average referee.

Oakland Hornets have lost the services of McGregor, their right half back. He is going mining and of course will not be able to play. Pomeroy has lost quite a few of his new men already. He has not, as yet, got a full team and things do not seem to be too bright for the "Hornies."

The Occidentals held a successful dance this week. The hall was packed.

The league met last night in San Francisco and prepared the schedule for the season.

Idora Park will not be available for football until December. The Presidio grounds a month later.

Albion Rovers will put a full team on the field tomorrow. All the men are in fine condition.

Alameda Eagles have got their team together and have a likely bunch. This is more than some of their older rivals can say.

Albion Rovers will hold a meeting in the St. Julian Hotel, Golden Gate, Monday evening at eight o'clock. A large attendance is expected.

Independents have agreed to share Freeman's Park with the Albions. This is a good thing for all concerned. The Independents are a drawing card.

J. LANCASTER, ALBION-ROVER.

JIM CORBETT HAS A "COMER."

BELIEVE ONE JIM GUIDER CAN MAKE MIDDLEWEIGHTS LOOK SORRY.

Jim Corbett, the former heavyweight champion, believes that he has a comer in Jimmy Guider, the clever local middleweight.

Guider acted as Corbett's sparring partner when the latter was training for his battle with Jack O'Brien, which was prevented by the Philadelphia authorities. Corbett was very much impressed with the New Yorker's showing and announced that he would be a match for any of the middleweights.

Corbett is anxious to have Guider meet Jack O'Brien, and it is now up to the Philadelphian, according to the former heavyweight champion. Guider has issued a challenge to O'Brien, and the New Yorker announces that he will wager $1000 that O'Brien can't stop him in six rounds.

"Guider is a very clever fighter," said Corbett. "I would like to see him meet Jack O'Brien, in his present excellent condition. I am sure he would give Jack a pretty tough argument."

Like Tommy Ryan, O'Brien doesn't believe in letting a sucker draw his breath, and he would knock Guider into the middle of the week after next. Corbett should stop his kidding.

Guider is the boxer who was arrested a few nights ago for laughing at a policeman. If O'Brien ever got in the same ring with him Guider wouldn't laugh for six months, not to speak of six rounds.

TACOMA DEFEATS LOS ANGELES.

WILLIE HOGG OF PORTLAND GOES TO PIECES AND BEATTLE WINS OUT.

A single error prevented Tacoma from shutting out the Los Angeles team yesterday afternoon. Score: Tacoma, 2; Los Angeles, 1.

The Angels were unable to bunch the hits, while Tacoma was more fortunate, making ten bingles during the contest. Los Angeles scored the first man up. Bernard taking his base on balls. He advanced to third on Flood's double and tallied when Sheehan missed Smith's drive.

Tacoma made one run on Doyle's batting out a bunt, stealing second and coming home on Shechan's hit. The next tally was made in the sixth inning, when Eagan singled. Lynch hit for two bags and scored Eagan.

Willie Hogg of Portland blew up after pitching eight innings of good ball against the Seattle people yesterday afternoon. The result was that Seattle made six runs in the ninth and this, added to the one they had, got the game by score of 7 to 3.

CANADIANS TO MEET.

The Sons and Daughters of the Maritime Providence (Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island) will hold their second meeting in California Hall, 1015 Clay street, next Monday evening.

A cordial invitation is extended to all persons born in the Maritime Provinces and their friends and relatives, to attend.

Tea and cake will be served and the evening's proceedings will be of an interesting nature.

BOWLERS ENJOY DANCE

MERRY CROWD AT MAPLE HALL—NOTES FROM THE DIFFERENT ALLEYS.

Jollity reigned supreme at Maple Hall last night. Despite the unfavorable conditions of the weather a large crowd of ten-pin artists and their fair ones turned out to trip the light fantastic at the ball given by the Alameda County Bowling and Athletic Association.

Newport, a game formerly in great demand by bowlers, seems to be finding favor with the knights of the pin at the Syndicate alleys this year. Every evening several bowlers can be seen trying their hand at the old game.

A glance at the following will show the form of the Eagles at the present time. The scores were made at their competition roll last Thursday evening. The total number of pins for three games:

J. Berquest, 505; L. Campbell, 518; F. Bateman, 516; William Reeves, 494; G. G. Kennedy, 516. High scores of over 200: J. Berquest, 202; A. Schimpff, 200; B. Shrode, 200; E. Long, 208; B. Wilson, 201; W. Reeves 204; J. Smith, 201.

FAVORITE WINS BIG STAKES.

JOHN A. DRAKE'S RAPID WATER, HEAVILY BACKED, FINISHES AN EASY FIRST.

Over 12,000 persons saw three favorites win at Morris Park yesterday. The Diviana stakes were captured by John A. Drake's Rapid Water, a heavy favorite over Dolly Spanker.

The finish of the Manhattan handicap for two-year-olds furnished the exciting feature of the day. Race King, Broadcloth and Castilian came down the stretch neck and neck. The judges awarded the event to Broadcloth.

Candida took the handicap for two-year-olds beating Waterlight by a head.

MAN FOUND DEAD MAY HAVE BEEN A MURDERER.

NEW YORK, October 8.—An Italian picked up by the police on the East Side is dead at a hospital from a pistol shot through the body. He was partially identified as one of the gang who shot a countryman to death and mortally wounded two others in attempting to rob them near Brewster, N. Y., late Thursday night.

The robbers descended upon a cabin filled with men employed on the New York City reservoir work and fled after the shooting, having secured $600.

The man who died here is believed to have been wounded in a quarrel over division of the spoils. He was crawling along the street when found.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., October 8.—Rains the past two days have again flooded the lowlands along the Santa Fe railway track from Belen to Rincon. The repaired track between San Marcial and Socorro was washed out again in many places and conditions south of here are as bad as they were a week ago. Train service in that direction is again interrupted. Passenger trains from California are again tied up here and owing to the new washouts south they cannot be sent out to be detoured through Texas.

TOM WILLIAMS IN NEW YORK

INTERESTING HORSEMEN IN THE COMING WINTER RACING SEASON.

T. H. Williams, president of the California Jockey Club, is in New York for a stay of two weeks, during which time he will endeavor to interest horsemen in racing at San Francisco. Mr. Williams stopped at Chicago on his way East and says that the prospects for a big California delegation from the Middle West are excellent. He has not been in New York long enough to get an expression of opinion, but hopes for a liberal representation from that section.

Mr. Williams promises a very attractive program, which will include a number of overnight handicaps with values ranging from $600 to $1,000.

NELSON AS AN ACTOR MAN.

THE DANE SERIOUSLY DESIRES TO BE CLASSED AS A MATINEE HERO.

And now it's "Battling" Nelson, pugilist, aspiring to become an actor. He has the footlight bug in his head. Whenever an honest, self-supporting prizefighter becomes a matinee hero it's all off with his punch. Teddy Murphy, Nelson's boy manager, writes as follows:

"The great Dane's left hand is healing rapidly and he will be in shape to box with Eddie Santry in a few weeks at the local theaters, after which we may arrange to go to St. Paul and Milwaukee.

"I am writing a play around Nelson with a title something like this: 'The Terible Invasion of the Golden West, by the Great Dane and the Boy Manager.' I don't know how it will take, but I expect things (eggs, etc.) will be coming our way. I am not after Britt for a match, any part of $5000 side bet, for the championship. 'Corbett' seems none too anxious for a return beating, and Nelson, on performance, has a better right to battle for the championship than 'Corbett' or any one else, bar Britt.

"I took on Herrera when all the high class pugs sidestepped him, and delivered the goods with Nelson on other occasions; so there you are."

M'COY SEEKING A MATCH.

HOOSIER FIGHTER WILLING TO GRANT "TWIN" SULLIVAN ANOTHER GO.

"Kid" McCoy's clever victory over "Twin" Sullivan has once again placed the Hoosier boxer in the class of championship probabilities, and the fight followers are now anxiously awaiting his next appearance. There are many good men for McCoy to meet in his class—for instance, Tommy Ryan or Jack O'Brien, either of whom would prove a great drawing card and furnish an interesting battle for the clever Indiana fighter.

It is possible, however, that McCoy's next battle will be a return match with "Twin" Sullivan. The latter's backers seem to think an injustice was done their man when the decision was awarded to McCoy. While McCoy and his admirers are satisfied that the decision was a just one the victor will no doubt be glad to give his opponent another chance.

CRESCEUS WILL TOUR WORLD.

WILL FIRST COME HERE AND STRIVE TO BREAK ALL RECORDS.

Cresceus (2:02¼) will be given a tour round the world. The stallion's owner, George H. Ketchum of Toledo, announces that he will pack up all the racing paraphernalia belonging to his pet and start out in a few weeks. The trip is to last two years. Ketchum and the animal will come first to the Pacific slope, where an attempt will be made to lower the track records in California and other States.

After that Cresceus will be taken to Manila and Honolulu and the Hawaiian islands, following this up by a tour of the civilized world and ending up with a trip into the Australian bush with drives against all comers. The tour will end with the trip home to Toledo.

'MOOSE' BAXTON HEARD FROM.

MAKING A HIT WITH THE MILWAUKEE FANS ON SECOND BASE.

"Moose" Baxter, who once drew a salary from the Oakland management, has made a hit with the Milwaukee team and the chances are that he will be signed to play there next season. He has been occupying second station in the place of Reitz.

In the two games in which he played he hit for .500 in one and .333 in the other; had fourteen chances without an error, and figured in several fast double plays that made the fans forget Reitz and all his good work.

O. H. S. STUDENTS ON ALLEYS

A DOZEN OR TWO BOWL EACH DAY ON THE OAKLAND RINKS.

Probably the latest enthusiasts to appear on the alleys are the boys of Oakland High School. The learned ones seize every opportunity to keep up their practice in making strikes and spares.

Every noon sees from ten to twenty youths bowling merrily away on the Oakland alleys. Within the past few weeks their work has been steadily improving and a majority of them can now boast of one or more scores exceeding the 200 mark.

Although they have taken no steps toward organization as yet, it is understood that a picked team will be recruited from their ranks. The lads have some good material, and if their bowling improves as much within the next few weeks as it has in the last month they will be able to present a formidable aggregation of pin-smashers.

MORLEY MAY GET FERGUSON.

LOS ANGELES MANAGEMENT IS LOOKING LONGINGLY AT ST. MARY'S PITCHER.

That limber young pitcher Ferguson, who occupies the firing line for St. Mary's College of this city, may soon make his appearance in a Los Angeles uniform. It is known that Morley and Flood are after the local lad and there is every reason to believe that Ferguson will appear behind the Los Angeles flag next year. He deserves the honor. There is not a better pitcher in the teams about the bay than this young St Mary's College student. He has a big bag of benders with him, too, and is capable to travel in fast company.

Only the other day San Francisco tried out St. Mary's catcher, Poultney and now there is every indication that a pitcher will come from the same school. It is known positively that there are dickerings going on between the student twirler and the Los Angeles management.

THIRD BASEMAN WANTED.

JUD SMITH DESIRES TO QUIT DIAMOND FOR THE DENTIST SHOP.

In all probability Manager Morley of the Los Angeles team will have to get a new third baseman for the locals next year, for rumors are current that Jud Smith is now playing his last year in baseball. It is understood that he wants to become a real dentist, and now that he has his diploma he can very easily, but it will strike the average fan that no man can make $200 or $300 per month pulling old snags and being sued for maltreatment, and have the good time he has in drawing the same salary for two hours' work every day and a chance to sit on the bench when he has a pain.

JOCKEY THROWN FROM MOUNT.

O'HAGAN UNSEATS RIDER, BUT THE BOY IS NOT SERIOUSLY HURT.

The card was rather featureless at Worth yesterday. Jockey Seamster on O'Hagan was thrown over the animal's head but escaped with slight injuries. Benson Caldwell won the event handily.

Kate Zitt ran away with the fifth race. Edward Hale, at odds on, won the fourth race. Dr. Stephen's defeated Easy Trade after a hard drive in the third. Presentiment took first money in the second.

The first race furnished the most excitement, W. O'Neill, Ben Mora and St. Paula finishing in the order named.

BURNS BACK IN LOS ANGELES.

WELL KNOWN SECOND BASEMAN TAKING THINGS EASY DOWN SOUTH.

Johnny Burns, the well-known second baseman who was once with the Butte team, then with Hank the Fireman of San Francisco and this year the Toledo club, has returned with his wife to Los Angeles, and will remain for the winter at the home of his parents, at No. 157 West Thirty-eighth street. They will take life easily for the present.

TRIBUNE'S SPORT NOTES

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO THE FOLLOWERS OF ALL GAMES.

Jack Williams of Philadelphia knocked out "Kid" Carter in the third round of a six round go at Philadelphia.

"Philadelphia" Jack O'Brien was given the decision over Tommy Burns of New York in a six round bout at Milwaukee last night. The fighting was tame.

An announcement was made from the City Hall at Chicago yesterday that Mayor Harrison has refused to grant any boxing permits to any club, with the exception of the Chicago Athletic Association, during the coming winter.

The pick of the Association stables are contesting at Tanforan Track today under the auspices of the San Francisco Driving Association.

YOUNG LADIES CONTEST.

BERKELEY GIRLS HOLD SWIMMING MATCH AT PIEDMONT BATHS.

An interesting swimming contest was held recently at the Piedmont baths in this city. A party of well-known young ladies of Berkeley visited the tanks for the purpose of settling a little difference of opinion concerning swimming abilities. There were fifteen young ladies in the party.

Miss Helen Morch proved to be the best water expert and won a sum of $4. Miss Rose Mazure won $1 for being the next best and each of the other contestants received a suitable prize for their efforts.

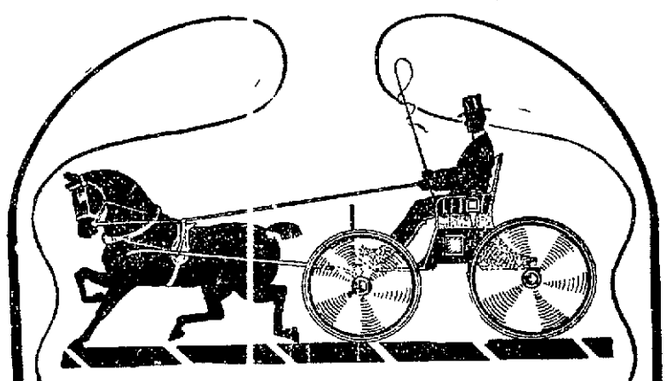

GOOD RACES AT LEXINGTON.

LISONJERO WINS THE JOHNSON STAKES IN THREE STRAIGHT HEATS.

Lisonjero, won the Johnson stake, which was the feature event at the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association meeting at Lexington yesterday. The son of Dexter Prince was in straight heats without reducing his Buffalo mark of 2:08 1-4.

The 2:04 class pace was an exciting event. John M. and Nathan Straus were the foremost rivals. The latter won the first heat but the Smathers gelding beat him in the next two.

Anderson was thrown from the sulky in the first heat of the 2:11 class trot. But Newton S. with no one guiding him led all the way and finished first. Anderson was not hurt.

AT THE MACDONOUGH.

Jule Walters and his popular company who have been appearing all this week at the Macdonough are to remain here until tomorrow night with a matinee tomorrow. Side tracked then clever comedy drama with some excellent vaudeville acts worked in during the action of the piece has caught the popular fancy judging from the business it has been doing all week. At the prices one hardly expects to see such a good company and play as Mr Walters has gotten together and it is such companies that make it possible to put the regular theaters within reach of everybody.

"THE WIZARD OF OZ"

The Wizard of Oz which has scored one of the most enormous successes of the decade will be seen here Monday night only. The extravaganza has all the gayety and life of modern musical comedies and it is free from the suggestiveness in costuming and jokes that debars these merry plays from some people. There is not a line of dialogue nor a gown in The Wizard of Oz to offend or cause uneasiness to the most captious playgoer. Nor is it at any time slow enough to bore those of rakish tastes in theatrical matters. It abounds in hearty wholesome fun and is a capital entertainment for young and old alike.

As a spectacle The Wizard of Oz has never been equaled on the American stage. The most astonishing changes in lights and color follow in such rapid succession as to confuse the senses in the most pleasurable way imaginable.

The management announces that the curtain will rise precisely at 8 o'clock and the Kansas Cyclone which opens the play should not be missed by anyone. It is one of The Wizard's most novel features. The advance sale has been very large and undoubtedly the house will be crowded to overflowing Monday night as this will be the only performance here of the Wizard.

JEFFRIES IN DAVY CROCKETT

Having captured everything in sight in the prize ring Champion James J Jeffries of Oakland has now forsaken the roped arena for the glories of a stage career.

Having perfected himself in the difficult role of Davy Crockett he is now about to show to his friends and the Oakland public generally that he is just as good a Thespian as he is an exponent of physical culture. No doubt this announcement will be hailed with loud acclamations of delight and anticipated pleasure as Jim has undoubtedly more friends here than in any city in the country and they are all very anxious to see him in his new calling especially so since such glowing reports have reached here of his great success as an actor. He is supported by an excellent company and as everyone knows Davy Crockett is a most classical and Mr Jeffries has spared no expense in the scenic equipment which should make the show worth seeing. A feature which will attract a great deal of attention is the scene depicting the now famous Harbin Springs training quarters with the champion going through the stunts the same as when he is training for a world's championship battle. His Oakland engagement is for one night only and that on next Thursday October 13. Seats are now on sale at the box office and the prices are popular.

THE CONVICT'S DAUGHTER

In The Convict's Daughter which will appear at the Macdonough next week James Blackadder trusted employe of Colonel Gould for over ten years has proven himself to be a conspirator and hypocrite. Some years before the play opens Colonel Gould adopted a baby girl and kept the secret to himself. Having grown to be a beautiful young lady her hand is eagerly sought in marriage by a great many admirers. She finally accepts Jack Warburton a dashing young Southerner whose father was a great friend of the Colonel's. The secret of her birth and adoption however is told to her accepted lover and is overheard by Blackadder. Chagrined at the loss of his employer's daughter he plots her ruin and forges papers on the Colonel. How well he succeeded is best told by witnessing a performance of The Convict's Daughter. The plot is a startling one and full of surprises and sensational effects.

THE TENDERFOOT COMING

The new musical comedy success The Tenderfoot is booked for an early appearance at the Macdonough Theater. It is now running at the California Theater to crowded houses and across the bay the critics are all unanimous in their praises of the piece and the company which comprises sixty people mostly girls and a big score of comedians headed by Philip Ryley who was last seen here with Florodora. Their engagement here is for two nights Monday and Tuesday October 17th and 18th.

THE OFFICE BOY.

The opening scene of Frank Daniels' latest musical success The Office Boy is spoken of as a distinct novelty. It will be seen at the Macdonough in the near future.

A TEXAS STEER.

Hoyt's A Texas Steer will appear at the Macdonough Sunday October 23.

AT YE LIBERTY.

The unprecedented success of Hamlet as presented at Ye Liberty Playhouse this week by Harry W. Bishop's players has given the management renewed courage with the result that during the sumptuous production next week of In the Palace of the King the people will have an opportunity to select by popular vote one of Shakespeare's comedies which will be produced in the same elaborate manner during the week of November 1st. This is the great city this week. Hamlet has truly been a revelation to the theater-goers not only for the magnificent manner in which it is presented but for the clever and thorough manner in which the members of the company have played their parts. With one or two minor exceptions the work of each and every member has been excellent and this places without question of a doubt the company as it stands today as one of progressive representing any of the standard works as well as the lightest comedies and the strongest melodramas. They will all have an excellent opportunity within the next few weeks of showing their versatility for the attractions to be presented will be varied in the extreme. A romantic costume play will be followed by one of modern society then a strong drama and then a classic comedy. A week of play, a fine comedy, an emotional drama and a Shakespearean comedy. That is a list that is enough to test the capabilities of any stock company but judging from past performances the Liberty stock will come out with colors flying.

The huge revolving stage and the many fly galleries of Ye Liberty have been like a bee hive of this week with an augmented crew of expert stage carpenters and assistants preparing for the tremendous production of In the Palace of the King which is the attraction for the week beginning next Monday. It will surpass in size and splendor all previous productions at that most popular house which has established a reputation for never sparing expense to make a performance perfect in each minute detail. The scenery properties and costumes were brought over complete the early part of the week from the Majestic Theater in San Francisco where they were used at the opening production in that house and a criterion which has set a criterion by which all future performances in that city will be judged. Robert Elliott is splendidly cast for Philip II King of Spain and Landers Stevens will have one of those romantic lovers' roles in Don John which he plays so well. Elmer Booth will have his greatest opportunity since becoming a member of the company in the deformed court jester and he should play it well. Miss June Kelton will be seen as Dolores and her sweet personality and charming manner will make Dolores a delightful lovable character. By far the most important addition to the cast is Miss Linda Arvidson who will play Dona Inez the blind sister, the part which she played in the production in San Francisco and of whom Ashton Stevens and all of the critics of that city agreed was the most finished performance of the part they had ever seen. The other minor parts will be well taken care of by the company.

There are but two more performances of Hamlet tonight and tomorrow night and no one should miss this artistic production.

LOUISE CHAPMAN WITH A "CONVICT'S DAUGHTER"

THE EMPIRE

The management of the Empire Theater has no reason to complain of business this week as in previous weeks the attendance has been excellent. The present bill is favorably commented upon by all who visit this theater. As a result the managers are pleased as well as the patrons. Golden and Weaver in their amusing sketch The Dynamiters have the audience in constant laughter every minute they are on the stage. George Arlington is a very artistic dancer and his grace and ease add favor to his splendid work. Douglas and Douglas as novelty acrobats are above the average in their particular line and are ranked among the best acrobats in the business. Ernest Edwards receives a warm hand for one of his pretty illustrated songs rendered in his usual capital style. The Three Birneys are a hit. Their laughable skit Fun in the Parlor gives them an opportunity of showing their ability—especially little Miss Barney though only eight years of age who possesses a phenomenal voice of great strength which is well utilized. The motion pictures are all new six different scenes being given. As usual the regular weekly change of bill will be given next Monday and among those to appear are the great Cox family. The Cox family quartette is the youngest and only comedy quartette of its kind in the country. All sing a perfect harmony the most difficult selections also rendering wonderful imitations of banjos chimes and church organs. Their ages range from six to fourteen years. Miss Mildred Cox aged fourteen years is said to be one of the greatest bass singers yet heard on the stage. They have been highly applauded wherever they have been heard and will undoubtedly be a big drawing card at the Empire next week. In addition to this feature there will be seen here for the first time Reynolds' dog and cat circus. These animals show wonderful intelligence and are a welcome factor wherever exhibited to adults as well as to the little ones. In conjunction with James Edward the popular illustrated singer and new moving pictures there will be two other vaudeville acts by some high class artists who will arrive here from the East in time for Monday's performance. There is always at least two evening performances extra shows being given on Saturday and Sunday. There is a matinee daily at 3 o'clock.

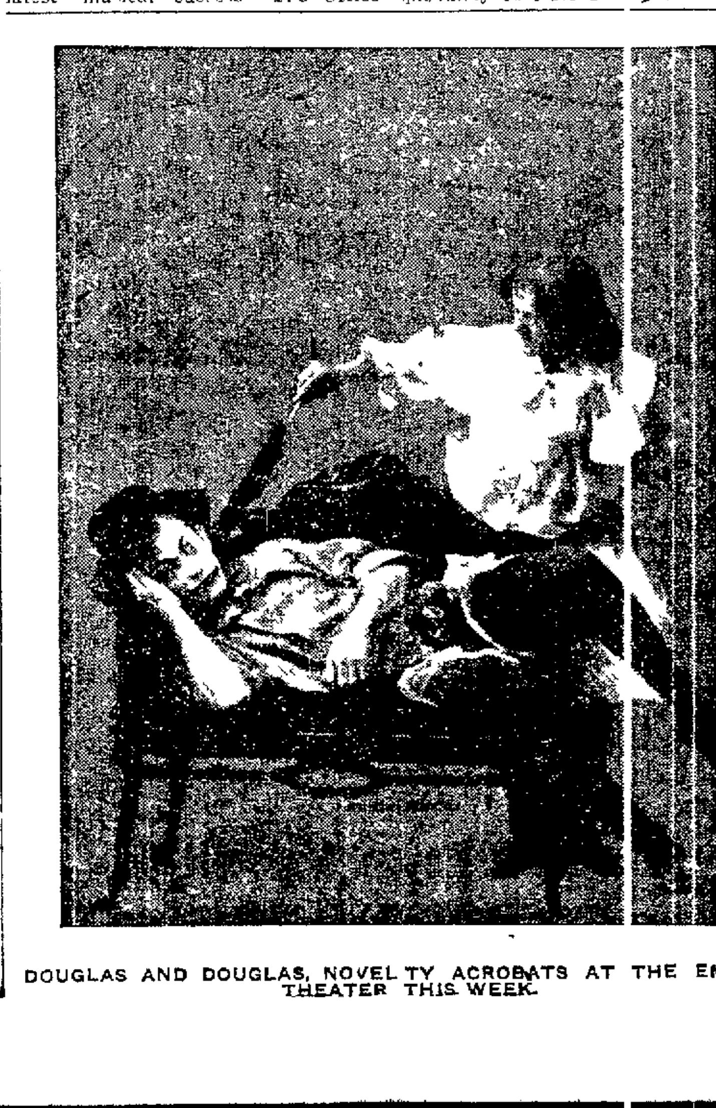

THE NOVELTY

This has been a banner week at the Novelty Theater. There have never been larger attendances since this theater's inception. Extra performances had to be given to accommodate the immense number of people who desired to witness the splendid entertainment presented by Colonel Lubelski. Notwithstanding the great success of the present bill there will be a complete change of program next Monday and a half dozen well known vaudeville stars will be seen here for the first time, a majority of them coming direct from successes on the Eastern circuits. Clinton Montgomery the favorite illustrated singer is retained another week and will have something new to render in one of the latest baritone songs. There will also be a new budget of motion pictures and altogether the offering for next week will be up to the high class as always seen at Colonel Lubelski's playhouse. This evening and tomorrow night extra show will be given with extra matinees tomorrow afternoon.

The management has given out the following new people for next week's program: Morgan the wonderful Black Wizard; Lone Star Harry the great rifle shot; the Willagrees comedy jugglers; Wilson and Coley comedy sketch team and Miss Margie Adams vocalist together with an innovation in motion pictures a portion of which will show the finest specimen of colored photograph that has ever been exhibited on this coast.

MAGAZINES AND BOOKS.

RECENT PUBLICATIONS REVIEWED AND COMMENTED UPON.

Perhaps the nearest approach to Lewis Carrol's classics in the realm of children's literature, is "The Well in the Wood," by Bert Liston Taylor Dull indeed must be the child that fails to appreciate such delightful characters as Professor Bray, the musical Donkey, the Laziest Beaver Doctor Fox, the Golf Lynx, and Colonel, the yellow dog.

The book is calculated to instruct as well as amuse the younthful reader. It is typographically perfect, and the illustrations by F. Y. Cory, lend much to the interest and beauty of the volume which is published by the Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis.

ROLAND OF ALTENBERG."

One of the most recent additions to the pseudo-historical class of fiction, of which Hope's "Prisoner of Zenda," is an example, is "Roland of Altenberg," by Edward Mott Woolley.

This, however, is not meant as a reflection upon the quality of the work which is really an extremely interesting and well written bit of fiction.

The story centers about Prince Roland of Altenberg, who is involved in a series of complications which enmesh a number of other entertaining characters, including a young and very charming princess, and an American girl who finally weds the prince. There is intrigue and diplomatic complication to a sufficient degree, nor is the love element missing as has been implied in the foregoing. All in all, it is an ideal book with which to while away an idle hour. Published by Herbert S. Stone Company, Chicago.

FIRST READER.

Florence Bass has written a First Reader for children which will be found very efficient in school work. In the book the words are developed from the beginning in order that pupils may have a definite list of words in mind from which to recall the sound of letters. So carefully have the words been introduced that there are only about eighty words in the whole book that need to be learned as wholes. Many plays and talks to children are introduced, which it is believed will not only interest the children, but will also aid in securing natural expression. Variety in the reading matter has been secured by the introduction of old stories and fables, by lessons on some of the forces of nature and by "memory" poems. The book is published by D. C. Heath and Company Boston, Mass.

GREEK MYTHS.

"Favorite Greek Myths" by Lillian Stoughton Hyde, has been prepared to present in a manner suited to young people the Greek myths that have been world favorites through the centuries, and that have in some measure exercised a formative influence on literature and the fine arts in many countries. These myths will appeal strongly to the children and should be presented while the young imagination can make them live. At first children will enjoy them as stories, but in later years they will see in them the embodiment of spiritual truths. The book is published by D. C. Heath and Company, Boston, Mass.

It is published at 215 Third street, S. E., Washington, D. C.

"THE TRAIL TO BOYLAND."

Eugene Field and James Whitcomb Riley have immortalized the poem of childhood, but nothing is ever so well done that it may not be equalled and in many respects Wilbur D. Nesbit may be said to have equalled the work of Fields and Riley in his book of poems entitled, "The Trail to Boyland."

A number of the poems have been previously published in newspapers and magazines and in collected form they will prove a rare treat to all who have not grown so world-hardened that the memory of boyhood days has become entirely obliterated.

Retrospection is a boon to many a man who has seen the years slip by and watched with sad eyes the goal approaching which in boyhood days seemed so far away. There are few who will not appreciate these lines from "The Boy That You Used to Be"—one of the best poems in the volume:

"Would you know him again today,
If, somehow, he should come to you,
If he halted you on the way
Would your memory serve you true?
With the air of the old boy-days,
With the smile that was fair and free,
Would you know, if he met your gaze,
Just the boy that you used to be?"

Published by the Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis.

"FARMINGTON."

In "Farmington" Clarence S. Darrow has drawn back the curtain, not from the future, but from the past, and given us a glimpse of our youthful days, with all their attendant joys and sorrows, so clear a glimpse that for a time we come beneath the spell of that indefinable illusion—the shadowy, intangible something that binds us to our boyhood, even when our hair has turned to silver.

Around the recollections of his boyhood in a Pennsylvania village, the author has created an atmosphere of most delicate imagination and whimsical humor. The fact that Mr. Darrow is a successful lawyer and is immersed in the turbulent stream of political life, makes it all the more remarkable that he has been able to find time in which to write so charming a book, much less to bring himself into the condition of mind which must have been necessary to produce it. Published by A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago price $1.50.

"IN SEARCH OF THE OKAPI."

Here is a book full of flash and adventure—a book that can truthfully be said to be "without a dull line in it."

Central Africa is the scene of the narrative, which is as thrilling as a "penny dreadful" without any of the latter's undesirable qualities. It is well told and the illustrations by Wm Rainey, R. I., add not a little to the interest.

Ernest Glanville, the author, has the gift of versimilitude to a remarkable degree and the reader is carried along with breathless interest to the end. The volume will be laid down with a sigh of regret by all who care for a story where hair-breadth escapes are plentiful and where fights with lions, gorillas and boa constrictors, to say nothing of cannibals and other unpleasant creatures, are of frequent occurrence. Despite its sensational characteristics, however, the book is wholesome and instructive and may be read with equal profit and pleasure by young and old. Published by A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago.

"MR. OSEBA'S LATEST DISCOVERY."

"A peculiar book" seems to be the most appropriate title to apply to "Mr Oseba's Latest Discovery," a volume by George W. Bell, (Colonel Bell, seven years United States Consul, at Sydney, Australia.)

Mr. Bell says in his preface, "Being an individualist, a democrat of democrats, I hold that the unit of society is its basic factor."

He goes on to state that when he went to New Zealand he was previously primed with much talk of the colony being "submerged with Socialism," etc., so he studied the literature mingled with the people, attended parliamentary sittings—and took notes. He found "in the press a broad independence; in the people, a sturdy self-reliance, and in the statesmen, a feeling that they were the chosen servants of the people."

In brief, the author has clothed the results of his investigations in a fantastic garb of fiction, the very oddity of which makes the work interesting. He has adopted to a certain extent the far-fetched and imaginative style of Verne, Haggard and Wells and the combination is a happy one, particularly as the author's humor is wholesome and his conception of the conditions and people of which he writes broad and intelligent.

To be appreciated the book must be read.

NOTES FOR THE WOMEN

LEADERS OF THE SMART SET.

The girls looked upon as leaders of the younger contingent of the smart set now greet and farewell en militaire. Instead of recognizing a friend by bowing in the old time conventional way, they give a sharp, short military salute. It is the newest fad brought back to town from the country and the shore, and it is well to say right here that the awkward, self-conscious girl should not attempt it. To be at all a success, the military salute must be done gracefully and in an offhand, natural manner.

The girl who greets you in this new fashion is a very interesting young person to behold these autumn days, for she scarcely lets a day go by that she does not introduce you to a new fashion and greet you with a new fad.

Early in the summer it was a long chain that she was wearing, of beads or jewels, according as her purse allowed. Now the long chain is looked upon as being entirely too popular to be worn by the girls who lead instead of follow, the fashions. It is the necklet that is the smart thing to wear right now—a dainty little chain, sometimes of one strand and sometimes of three, which falls just below the throat. From the necklet dangles are suspended, and it is quite a fad to have these dangles the fair wearer's birth-stone. The necklet is invariably of fine gold chains, and sometimes the delicate strands are connected with little chains of tiny pearls. Amethyst cross make effective dangles and baroque pearls are also much the mode used in this way.

Very often the necklet consists of one fine gold chain, which lies snugly about the collar. From this but one dangle will depend, but it will be a large and expensive one.

COUNTRY WOMEN OF JAPAN.

If the lot of a Japanese farmer be hard that of his wife is infinitely harder. She not only does an equal amount of labor in the field but the care of the household and the responsibility of the children also rest upon her shoulders.

From earliest infancy a Japanese girl is taught to be obedient to her parents and when she is about to be married her mother gives her thirteen rules by which to steer her bark on the rugged sea of Japanese married life. Among them are the following: "Be always kind to your mother-in-law." "Get up early, stay up late at night and do not take a nap in the daytime." "Be a good housekeeper, be economical in everything." It is well for the happiness of the girl who is about to become a farmer's wife that the last two commandments have been so instilled that she is prepared to regulate her life by them.

The first to rise, she is sure to be the last to retire and when the male members of the family may be seen stretched on the floor taking their siesta the patient housewife may be seen mending some garment or else laboring in the field. It is scarcely necessary, however, to train her to be economical for that is common sory.

Before the farmer has awakened from his heavy sleep his little wife creeps from under the mosquito net, and performing a hasty toilet, prepares the morning meal. When the other members of the family arise, the beds which are heavy quilts, placed on the floor, are carefully rolled up by the busy housewife and placed in the closet there to remain until again required.

As there is so little furniture used in a Japanese house and especially in that of a peasant, one would naturally think that the domestic duties would be very light. Such, however, is not the case.

When the bedding has been removed, the meal is then served in the same room. All the members of the family squat on the floor. The millet or rice which is the principal and oftentimes only article of diet is brought in a wooden bucket and the wife ladles it out, serves her husband first and oftentimes waits until the whole family has finished before she partakes of the food herself.

CELEBRATING HALLOWE'EN.

Hallowe'en comes in October and is not fitly celebrated without a delicious and indigestible supper, warranted to produce dreams of the most satisfyingly vivid nature. There are all sorts of odd fancies for decoration for this occasion, not only for the table, but for the room in which it is eaten. If you can, get small ears of red and white pop-corn, tie bunches of them together with the husks, and hang them regularly from the ceiling. Have hollowed-out pumpkins set about, filled with nuts; light the room with large jack-o'-lanterns on the mantel shelf and in the corners, and fasten stalks of rustling corn up and down the balustrade of the stairs, with jack-o'-lanterns at the top and bottom. For the table have a centerpiece of oak branches covered with acorns, and get little papier-mache pumpkins at the confectioner's and cut out the top and bottom, paint a face on each and leave a slit at the eyes and mouth for the light to shine through, and you will find you have the most effective candle shades. For the supper itself have things hot and spicy, with enough planner dishes to afford a contrast.

AN ADVERTISING EXPERT.

"Advertising is a profession into which women have come to stay," says Miss Helen Mar Shaw, of Chicago, one of the first women to venture into this work. Beginning her training with a three-years' association with the Boston Journal (though doing strictly what was called woman's departments) when Miss Shaw moved West, her field of work was greatly enlarged, and for several years she has been interested in some phase of advertising. Miss Shaw prepared a catalogue for a plumbing house said to be the best catalogue ever put out on plumbing goods, and has designed and compiled many artistic and novel advance notices, booklets, and all kinds of high-class advertising literature. Recognized as an authority on advertising methods, Miss Shaw has done literary work and planned campaigns and systems for many of the largest advertisers in this country, and in nearly every line of business, though she prefers things mechanical.

A BLIND TELEPHONE OPERATOR.

Though sadly afflicted by total blindness, Mrs. Emma Magoon Post, of North English, Iowa, is one of the most skilful telephone exchange operators in the State. A special service was installed for Mrs. Post, the most unique feature being a system of bell signals, each line being provided with a bell of special tone. Mrs. Post is able not only to distinguish each bell by its peculiar tone, but also the voices of hundreds of men, women and children whom she serves. Her excellent memory gives her an advantage over the average operator in answering party line calls when the line is busy, as she seldom fails to put the call in as soon as the line is released. Mrs. Post is a graduate of the Iowa College for the Blind, and receives many words of praise for her work. Indeed, she is one of the most skillful operators in the State.

MRS. POUND, LADY MAYORESS-ELECT OF LONDON. SHE WILL HAVE MANY SOCIAL DUTIES.

A MOST RESPONSIBLE POSITION.

While some railroads are adhering to the old-time custom of having none but men employes, one corporation finds a woman's wit and business acumen so keen it has given her a most responsible position. Miss Agnes M. Mullen has the proud distinction of being the only railroad advertising manager in the world. While acting as private stenographer to the General Passenger Agent of the Monon route, Miss Mullen showed such a comprehensive grasp of affairs of the road, she was promoted to the position she now so ably fills. Miss Mullen is best described as a trim, charming little body, fragile and fair-haired, who shrinks from publicity. She not only fills her position to the complete satisfaction of the company, but could have had her choice of several equally responsible and desirable ones. It is unnecessary to state that Miss Mullen's work is closely watched by the advertising experts of other roads.

MISS HINCK IS A MASTER CARPENTER.

The only woman ever admitted to the Master Carpenter's Association is Miss Louise Catherine Hinck of Montclair, New Jersey. Miss Hinck received her preliminary education at Hanover, Germany, and graduated from Vassar College with high standing, completing the collegiate course at the New York University Law School, from which she has received several degrees. Although admitted to the bar as attorney and counselor at law, Miss Hinck prefers conducting a real estate business in Montclair, though her greater interest is in designing and building houses. Some twenty of the most attractive and convenient houses in her home town bear testimony of her great success in this unusual occupation for women, and confirm the opinion of the owners that a woman can do such work better than a man. Miss Hinck has several buildings under construction, and finds her broad education of immeasurable assistance to her.

CARE OF THE COMPLEXION.

Though a woman may have chiseled features, rosy cheeks and bright eyes, yet she just misses being good to look upon if her skin shows lack of care.

It is astonishing how quickly neglect will retaliate. Almost before a woman can realize it, she will discover that her complexion is telling tales of its neglect.

One of the first signs that the skin is not cared for systematically and properly is the appearance of enlarged pores. These unsightly looking blemishes announce the fact that the skin is much in need of nourishment. It is in these enlarged pores that particles of dirt lodge, and in this way the dreaded blackhead is formed.

There is no excuse for the woman who allows her face to be marred by these disfiguring black specks.

As soon as they put in an appearance she should remove them with a comedone extractor, which squeezes them out of the pores. This removing blackheads is simple enough, but keeping them from appearing again means careful day-after-day attention to the skin. The pores must be kept clean and thoroughly nourished.

At least once a day the face should be literally drenched with a pure, nourishing cold-cream. The cream must be thoroughly rubbed into the pores. It should be allowed to stay upon the face until it is well sucked up by the pores; then it should be removed with the massage-bulb, which not only draws the cream out effectually, but any particles of dust that may have lodged in the pores.

TO KEEP THE HAIR IN CURL.

During the warm weather those to whom Nature has denied curly locks, and who are yet willing to circumvent that lady by a reasonable amount of effort, know much discouragement.

No matter how prettily the artificial curls are arranged, no matter how closely they may imitate Nature herself, a sea-breeze or a little perspiration undoes the work of hours, and the last state of the straight hair is worse than the first.

However, it is possible to curl the hair, and keep it in curl, in the warmest weather, provided the hair is properly prepared beforehand, and then done up over night on soft rubber curlers.

Always select curlers made of rubber, for rubber attracts the hair and coils it naturally around the waver, making a natural wave in far less time than anything else. Papers should never be used. Not only do they break the hair, but they have a most wretched appearance.

There is much in the way the hair is wound around the waver, one kind of waver requiring a different twist from another. When the hair is to be waved by the process known as "doing up," no matter what kind of waver is used, thoroughly wet the hair with an egg preparation made by placing the white of an egg in a teacup, beating it slightly, then adding one-half teacupful of cold tea. Separate the hair to be waved from the rest, wet with the liquid, and part into strands just thick enough to wind around the curler comfortably. Place a rubber curler close to the head, and begin to wind the hair over, not toward the forehead, but back from the face. At every turn place the finger of the other hand over the twist, to keep it smooth on the curler, so that just before fastening it the strand of hair is in the exact shape and position of a natural curl. Fasten the curler, then do the same with the rest of the hair. This wave will stay in for a week in the warmest weather.

SUMMONED BY FLAME.

An exciting lover's quarrel was once brought about by the young woman's accidental reading of a telegram wherein the unfortunate lover had spoken of his new yacht in terms of endearment, omitting to mention the fact that "Geraldine" was only a boat. A similar blunder is reported by the Philadelphia Telegraph.

There were five passengers in the street-car, and as it approached a crossing the conductor called, "William!"

One man got up and went out.

"Ann!" announced the conductor, and a woman left the car.

Tucked away in the corner was a little man with a foreign looking face. When the conductor called "George!" and another passenger alighted, the little man awoke to the situation. He rose, tiptoed down the aisle and whispered to the conductor. Before you calls out de name of de lady in dere, I'll tell you I wants to git off soon. My name, it is Paul."

TOO LITERARY.

A certain social organization, called the "Young Woman's Club," found itself in difficulties after the lapse of some twenty years. The "young" women were no longer rightly named.

The New York Times says that Mr. William H. Crane, the actor, was once consulted by some charming girls in regard to the name of their prospective club.

Their object, they wrote, was the building of character. They wished that to be suggested in the title, and also the fact that they were unmarried.

Mr. Crane replied that he had a name for the club—"The Building and Lone Association."

ON BEING IDENTIFIED.

Mrs. Miller had received a small check from her father and went down to the bank to cash it without consulting her husband. The bank-teller was very polite, but was obliged to insist that for business purposes Mrs. Miller was a perfect stranger to him. When Mr. Miller returned at night, his wife poured out to him her grievances which had accumulated and gathered momentarily during the day.

"Well my dear," he answered, "I'll cash the check for you."

"But that doesn't make up for all the time I lost. I couldn't do all my shopping while I was down town because I didn't have quite money enough. That teller ought to be discharged. The idea of having such a stupid man handling all that money!"

"But, my dear," said Mr. Miller, in apologetic sympathy for the teller, "it is one of the rules of the bank not to pay money to strangers. You have to be identified first."

"Identified! Identified! Couldn't the man read? There was my name right on the back of the check. How stupid you men are! And that wasn't all—"

"But, Annie," broke in Mr. Miller, "how could the teller be sure it was your name just because you wrote it?"

"Well, maybe he couldn't. But I'd just stopped in at the photographer's and got those pictures of me that you said looked exactly like me; and I showed the man all six of them. I explained that if I'd had only one I might have stolen it; but the six altogether proved that I must be the one that signed my name on the check. The stupid way the man looked at me was simply ridiculous!"

THE ART OF VISITING.

Visiting the sick is an art. To know when to go, how long to stay, and just what to say while there; all this requires tact and judgment, as well as common-sense.

This subject was very forcibly brought to the writer's attention by a variety of experiences during a recent illness. After showing out one of Job's comforters who had stayed for two mortal hours, the nurse declared, "Well, I do wish someone would write an article on how to call on invalids! So few persons seem to have any common-sense about it!"

The first thing to consider in visiting a sick person is the selection of a seasonable hour. There is, of necessity, more or less routine about the life within a sick-room, and the visit should be timed with due reference to that.

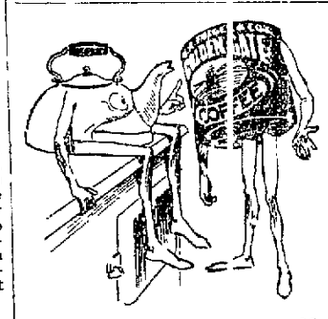

During the middle of the day most invalids are at their best, and better able to enjoy seeing their friends than at other times, although this, of course, depends somewhat on the individual. But, as a rule, neither early morning nor evening are favorable for visitors. Few invalids care to receive callers until the room has been freshly aired and set in order for the day, and they themselves bathed and arrayed in clean linen, and made as attractive as possible.

RISING BREAST
And many other painful and serious ailments from which most mothers suffer, can be avoided by the use of "Mother's Friend." This great remedy is a God-send to women, carrying them through their most critical ordeal with safety and no pain. No woman who uses "Mother's Friend" need fear the suffering and danger incident to birth for it robs the ordeal of its horror and insures safety to life of mother and child, and leaves her in a condition more favorable to speedy recovery. The child is also healthy, strong and good natured. Our book "Motherhood," is worth its weight in gold to every woman, and will be sent free in plain envelope by addressing application to Bradfield Regulator Co. Atlanta, Ga.
MOTHER'S FRIEND

SUGGESTIONS TO SCHOOL BOARD.

CORRESPONDENT WOULD RESUBMIT PLANS FOR NEW SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

OAKLAND Cal Oct 8th 1904—Editor TRIBUNE—I notice from the press that the action taken by the San Francisco Chapter of American Institute of Architects regarding our proposed new school buildings proved unaffecte for the reason that as ma y as nineteen competitors have submitted pla etc This is somewhat misleading in as much as it would appear that the nineteen were members of the American Institute of Architects The writer has i from good authority that while there are over sixty members in the San Francisco Chapter only five of said members have entered this competition

As to whether or not the Eastern competitor and also one from the South belongs to this organization does not appear However wherein we as taxpayers are vitaly interested the fact remains that the competition has proven very limited both as to numbers and as to recognized ability of the competitors there being less than an average o three competitive plans per building

As an illustration I will mention that the competition for the Carnegie Library of Oakland brought forth fifty two sets of plans The time allowed in this instance was from March 15th to April 25th forty days being ten days less for this one building than was allowed for some seven or eight buildings aggregating approximately $600 000 Thus it is plain to any observer that from a standpoint of a broad competition such as the taxpayers of Oakland are fully entitled to this competition could be considered an absolute failure

The writer has also learned that it is the intention of the Honorable Board of Education to open up and exhibit these plans to the public said exhibit to be held in the High School building Should the Board act on this suggestion it will only be adding another mistake to the many already made for such it will be manifestly unfair to these competitors to proceed to exhibit their plans and afterwards reject same calling for another competition Furtherhome nothing however could be gained by such a course inasmuch as the public generally could not be expected to competently judge of the architectural merits of the plans

What the Board should do is to promptly notify the architects who have entered this competition that the notice has been withdrawn and another notice issued calling for more time and different conditions requesting them to allow their plans to remain sealed or to be withdrawn at their option pending such time as the second competition could be received

I know from my personal knowledge that there is a great deal of disappointment in the minds of taxpayers who are thoroughly familiar with the circumstances as they exist that the Board has neglected and refused to comply with the very reasonable and just request of many of our leading citizens and taxpayers and I also believe that if every taxpayer in the City of Oakland was fully acquainted with the facts as they exist they would as one person speak in vigorous protest against the carrying out of the present scheme to obtain plans for the school buildings In this connection I will also mention the fact that if taxpayers generally could realize that upon voting their money for improvements they had full assurance that the same would be expended in as judicious and economical manner as private individuals would expend their money the negative ballots deposited in the boxes would be the exception rather than the rule

At the present time I know of nothing which would result in greater good to the City of Oakland than that this bond money should be expended in a way that would leave no regrets in the minds of the taxpayers and sincerely trust that now as Mr McClymonds has returned from the East and doubtless has many valuable points and suggestions which could be embodied in the call for plans that the Board will see its way clear to lay aside any feeling which it may entertain as regards the action of the San Francisco Chapter of American Institute of Architects but looking solely to the good of the City of Oakland in all its invitation to architects re submitting the call along the exact lines If you please employed by the trustees of the Carnegie Library a copy of which could doubtless be obtained from the librarian Should this be done we will of course receive the benefit of the efforts which have been made by competitors and also the benefit of further efforts from the profession throughout the country I do not think it far fetched to presume that architects from New York City even would yet enter this competition along the lines above mentioned it being remembered that the San Diego Carnegie Library was won by a New York firm and that building stands today one of the architectural beauties of the West

Still trusting and still hoping that our Honorable Board will see its way clear to act and to act now I remain

Yours respectfully

BUSINESS MEN TO VISIT GIER'S NAPA VINEYARD

On Sunday next the annual excursion of the Merchants Exchange and the Board of Trade to Theodore Giers vineyard near Napa will take place The business men will be joined by a number of the city and county officials all of whom anticipate a most pleasant outing The train will leave the Sixteenth street depot at 8 o clock Sunday morning

COST OF BUILDING REDUCED

A Plan That Meets With Popular Favor How It Is Done

Scores of attractive homes are being constructed in Alameda county under the feasible and inexpensive plan offered by the San Francisco and Suburban Building and Loan Society which offers to home builders inducements not capable of duplication To the medium salaried man this society has proven a benefactor By depositing small earnings each month he earns 1 se en per cent dividend and when a very nominal sum has been accumulated this may be utilized to build his own home the company having a very clas ic plan for paying out on the same

To the man who owns a lot their definite contract loan plan makes home building easy

A comparison with what is advertised to be the largest concern in the coast will show a saving of over $300 on paying out on a $3000 loan

One company s rate

$12 30 a month per $1000 repays loan and interest in 168 months

$14 00 a month per $1000 repays loan and interest in 120 months

$16 00 a month per $1000 repays loan and interest in 96 months

S F and Suburban rate

$12 00 a month per $1000 repays loan and interest in 1 9 months

$14 00 a month per $1000 repays loan and interest in 97 months

$16 00 a month per $1000 repays loan and interest in 8 months

Why this difference? Because the San Francisco and Suburban Building and Loan Society saves the middlemans profit that is it maintains its own bureau of architects and builders buying material in immense quantities and constructing a dozen houses at one time it is able to save the builder over $3 0 on every $3000 loan

Another feature No incidentals extras etc are figured in to run up the cost of the home This society is building scores of the best homes in Oakland and Berkeley as well as San Francisco Home builders bear these facts in mind

IF you want to engage in any kind of business, invest in paying property or secure a home, send for the Fruitvale Real Estate Index, over a hundred propositions to look over. JUDSON & Co., Fruitvale. c

AT my office at 128 Geary street, can be seen daily a lady's face which has been treated by my scientific method on one side for crow's feet and dark circles about the eye, wrinkles about the mouth and in front of the ear, lost contour and sallow complexion. The before-treatment side looks every day its 66 years. The after-treatment side looks not a day over 38 years. Furthermore, I want to state that this work was done just two years ago and there is not a sign of a breakage or wrinkle, which speaks most emphatically for permanency. As for the beauty and expression, inspection is most cordially invited.

SALT TALK—
No product of food is as liable to contamination as Salt. Many disease germs lurk in Salt. It cost no more to get a pure non bay-sewerage Salt, and if you will ask your grocer for Leslie Sterilized Salt, you will have a chemically pure article.
But be sure it is Leslie's.
Does not clog or harden. Shakes freely from salt cellar, and it's sterilized for Table, Kitchen and Bath.

State Medical Institute

Many People From All Parts of the States Are Now Being Treated at This Institution.

CONSULTATION AND EXAMINATION FREE.

The great number of patients who have taken advantage of one week's free treatment, which we have given for the last twenty days, has made it impossible to wait upon them or do justice to them; therefore, we have decided to discontinue the free treatment, but examination and consultation will continue to be strictly free and without cost to the patient.

Whatever may be your disease whether young or old, men, women or children, if you are sick, if your family doctor and his medicines cannot cure you, come at once and investigate the successful treatment given at the State Medical Institute. No matter what your trouble may be, if you are not getting well, come to us at once.

We would especially invite all persons who have been suffering with diseases of long standing which have resisted former treatment for we know well the experience that a large number of such cases can be treated successfully and cured by giving the proper medicines in the proper way.

After you visit this institution and see the large collection of pure, fresh drugs and the manner in which they are dispensed, and the electric and scientific apparatus and all the means that are necessary for the cure of disease, you will then be satisfied that the State Medical Institute or Sanitarium is well worthy of your patronage.

The Manager of the State Medical Institute, having spent the last thirty years in the treatment of special diseases, a good part of which time has been in the large hospitals of Europe, New York and Philadelphia, we especially claim to be well prepared for the successful treatment of diseases of the eye, the ear, the nose, the throat, and the lungs, and we believe that we are better prepared for the treatment of catarrh and lung diseases than any other medical institution in the West.

By a large experience with the formidable diseases of the heart, catarrh, asthma, rheumatism and the various kinds of indigestion, we feel that we can encourage every one suffering with these diseases to come to this institution with the assurance of being cured.

Where patients for any reason cannot visit the Institute, one of the doctors from the Sanitarium will see them at their homes as often as necessary.

The doctors of the State Medical Institute treat and cure all diseases of the eye, ear, nose, throat and lungs, heart, kidneys, bladder, brain, catarrh asthma, rheumatism, bronchitis, headache, insomnia, deafness, chills and malaria, skin diseases, neuralgia, diabetes, dyspepsia, dropsy, hemorrhoids and rectal troubles, and all forms of sores, blood and wasting diseases.

All private and wasting diseases promptly cured and their effects permanently eradicated from the system.

Diseases of women and children given special attention.

Nervous diseases and nervous prostration made a specialty.

Eczema, blood and all skin diseases promptly cured.

Consultation either at the Institute, at the patient's home, or by mail, free.

Office hours—9 to 11 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m. and 7 to 8 p. m. Sundays, 10 to 12 a. m.

NEWS FROM S. P. YARDS.

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO THE EMPLOYES AT WEST OAKLAND.

United States Inspectors from San Francisco are at the Oakland broad-gauge pier today holding the annual inspection of the Southern Pacific ferry Piedmont and the tug Rival. After the inspection is completed the Piedmont will be given an overhauling and many minor repairs will be made.

ENGINEERS VISIT YARDS.

A party of Southern Pacific engineers from various divisions visited the West Oakland yards recently. In the party were L. P. Shephard, Los Angeles; L. Caldwell, Bakersfield; R. W. Wilson, Reno, Nev.; J. S. Moore, Bakersfield; J. Corbett, Tucson, Ariz.; F. L. Barss, Coast Division; and L. J. Whyles, Fresno. The party were shown through the shops and yards and renewed many old friendships.

VISITS YARDS.

George B. Walsh, an old employee of the Southern Pacific Company visited the West Oakland yards yesterday. He made a general call among the boys of the shops and yards and renewed many old acquaintances.

NEW TURNTABLE

The new turn table recently received at the West Oakland yards will be used to take the place of the old turn table, which is to be repaired. After the repairs are made, the table will be sent to Tracy for use on that division.

HOLDING INQUEST.

An inquest is being held today in San Francisco over the remains of Frank Jackson, a Southern Pacific fireman, who was accidentally killed at the broad-gauge pier this week.

There is nothing shown in the shops much daintier or prettier than the printed nets.

CLIPPED FROM THE S. F. WEEKLY PAPERS.

Good Stories About Local Ministers —Raffles at the U. C.— Wheeler's Advices.

Frank Daniels has with him as business manager the most resourceful press agent that this country ever produced. Years ago when Dave Henderson made regular trips to this coast with his spectacular extravaganzas George Bowles always preceded the shows to arouse public interest in the coming attractions. And being an experienced newspaper man his "copy" was always found available by local editors. No company that ever visited San Francisco received more liberal press notices than that managed by poor Dave Henderson, who went to the wall about ten years ago. Later on Bowles was the press agent for Anna Held on her first trip to this city, and he wrote the sensational story about her daily bath in goat's milk. To give more semblance to the yarn he advertised for goat's milk, and cans of it were brought to the Baldwin Hotel and written about in the paper. Bowles was also Alice Nielsen's press agent when she began her stellar career, and now he occupies the more exalted position of business manager.—Town Talk.

INDIGNANT PASTOR.

Rev. Ernest E. Baker of Oakland, is righteously indignant. On Sunday night he told his parishioners what he thought of them. They were accused of not "holding up the hands of the Lord's servant and prophet." The intrepid Baker declared that he meant to earn his salary or know the reason why. "I am here to save souls," said Dr. Baker, "but nobody could save souls when there are no bodies in the church to put them in. I look around and what do I see? Very good oak seats, well-carved and some of them comfortably cushioned with crimson cloth in order that the faithful may, if it so pleases them, slumber peacefully from the time the sermon begins until the opening notes of the musical selection that follows it. I cannot and will not talk to pews, beautiful though they may be. I would almost rather go back to the East than submit to the indignity. If I do my duty you have got to do yours, and that is all there is about it." D. Edward Collins, the wealthy man of the parish and the head of the vestry, has declared that he will withdraw his support if there is anything resembling a row, for he cannot bear the vulgarity of squabbling in church.—Town Talk.

RAFFLES AT U. C.

All sorts of traps are being set to catch the thief that infests the Harmon Gymnasium, stealing everything in sight from money to eatables, and doing it so cleverly that no trace is had of his identity. The thieving, I am told, has been going on for over a year. Hardly a football player but has at some time during that period been a sufferer from the dishonest practices of the black sheep in the fold. The matter has been kept quiet for fear that its publication might in some way reflect on the university. Things are getting too uncomfortable, however, and Professor Soule, head of the military department, has ordered posted a sentinel from the guard each day until countermanded. Not only have sums varying in amount from two dollars to thirty dollars been taken, but whole suits of clothes and everything conceivable in the way of sweetmeats and other dainties forbidden to those in training. "Pat" Oliver, right end on the 'varsity team, lost eight dollars a few days ago and R. W. Kittrell, the 'varsity quarter, is a sufferer from the sneak thief, while A. White was robbed of a considerable amount of money, taken from his pocket while he was exercising on the gridiron.—Town Talk.

RISING GENERATION.

What on earth has got into the youth of Berkeley and the other cities around the Alameda county side of the bay? That is the query that is being put to the various teachers of the school, and they are finding difficulty in answering. First, the Oakland High School "Lambs," by their pranks turning high society into a pandemonium; then the University Fraternity fellows, with their story of embezzlement by one of their number; and now the Berkeley High School brings its little tale of scandal. The boys of the High School were in the habit of holding high carnival in a roof garden, which they had fitted up in the rear of the school building, as a sort of miniature Monte Carlo, soap-boxes serving for baize-covered tables and light camp-stools for the comfortable chairs of the fashionable resort. So secure were they in their chosen resort that they forgot the caution that they had exercised when first they took possession of the place, and the bursts of merriment, interspersed with rather strong words for boyish lips, after a time drew the attention of some of the members of the local Young Men's Christian Association. A woman, who learned of the resort, told Superintendent of Schools Waterman, and he, not willing to take any one's word in such a serious matter, went to the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. one afternoon, and there watched the boys gathered on the roof. Before long a game of pedro was started, and while a number of lads engaged in a lively contest over the cards, a still larger number lounged around, betting on the results of the game, using "swear-words" and, between times, burying their faces in great half hemispheres of watermelon, which they enjoyed with all of their unspoiled boyish appetites. —Wasp.

BENJAMIN'S ADVICE.

Benjamin Ide Wheeler has advised the co-eds. of Berkeley to give more attention to the conventionalities of society. Some of the giddy youngsters think it is "smart" to entertain young men in their rooms, without the restraining presence of a chaperon; others think it particularly delightful to show their proficiency in the mixing of drinks, and the smoking of cigarettes. Fortunately, these foolish young women now number but a small percentage of the co-eds. at Berkeley, but that their influence is considered dangerous, and that their ways are considered harmful to the University, are shown by the fact that Mr. Wheeler thought it necessary to publicly reprimand the girls with "Bohemian" tendencies. In the East, the same tendencies are observable among the co-eds. of various State universities. So serious is the condition of affairs considered, that some of the leading women educators are organizing a movement for the protection of the morals of the girls attending large colleges. A Miss Lillian Thompson, a teacher in the Englewood High School, Chicago, is one of the most active apostles in this new crusade. She is an Ann Harbor girl, and she has no hesitation in criticising the conditions existing at the Michigan University.

"At Ann Harbor," says Miss Thompson, "the girls are suffering by comparison with those of ten years ago. There is no dormitory for women, and the supervision of girl students is lax and by no means what it should be. At Madison, Wisconsin, there is a dormitory for women students, but only a matron in charge. There is not the proper chaperonage for young girls away from home, perhaps for the first time in their lives. At many of the State institutions life in the sorority houses is not what it should be. Many girls have learned to drink and smoke through too familiar association with the men. A gayer set seems to have invaded the colleges. The best class of girls are beginning to shun the State universities. They are attending institutions where their parents are assured of careful regulations."

These are serious charges, and they demand immediate attention from the proper authorities. I do not believe that the conditions at Berkeley are as bad as those represented as existing at some of the Eastern State universities, but they are certainly bad enough to have caused Mr. Wheeler to warn the girls not to receive men students in their rooms. Many people thought it remarkable that Mr. Wheeler should have considered it necessary to be so outspoken in giving his advice, but he probably fully appreciated the necessity of curbing the somewhat giddy spirits of the so-called "Bohemian" sorority girls. We have all had enough of the petty lawlessness and malicious mischief of the young men at the University, but if it becomes necessary to appoint an instructor in morals and deportment for the girls, the people may soon reach the conclusion that the State University is a failure, and that, as many maintain, the funds of the State should be raised for the benefit of the common schools exclusively. In that event, parents with unmanageable boys and unladylike girls, would have to send their children to private colleges at their own expense, for the higher education. More severe discipline at Berkeley would do much to remove from the public mind the impression that the administration of the University's affairs might be greatly improved.—News Letter.

UNIQUE AFFAIR.

Another unique little affair was a tea given on Friday night in the new carriage house of the Frank Albrights at Fruitvale. The barn was gorgeously adorned with corn and pumpkins, and all the things that make one fancy one is attending a good old-fashioned "Harvest Home" festival. The guests, who were of Oakland's exclusives, arrived on the scene with little tin dinner pails, each containing a little dainty in the line of food. Mrs. Albright provided the essentials. The women all wore little checked gingham aprons, and had their hair tied up in tight pig-tails. They were wonderful to behold. But the men in blue overalls, such as very little boys wear, were in a class by themselves. They danced and told stories, and ended up by kicking at a pumpkin the highest kicker—and there were no timid ones at the affair—carrying off a tiny gold pumpkin watch charm. It is not told outside who won, but every man, woman and child in Oakland is on the watch for that charm.

But that dinner was a poor affair compared to the entertainment in the Albright house the next night. Sedate ladies and gentlemen arrayed in their favorite character of fiction or of history assembled and welcomed the host and hostess back to Oakland's safe environs after four years spent in the giddy whirl across the bay. If a photographer could have taken a flash-light picture! But then he probably would have swooned with emotion, superinduced by surprise. Robin Hood, in the person of the fascinating rector of the Church of the Advent, East Oakland, the Rev. William Carson Shaw, seized everything in sight. True, he let the pretty women redeem their belongings, but I am not going to tell the ransom that was exacted—not at all; I promised not to say anything about it. But if the Rev. Carson was a robber bold, Mrs. Shaw was the dearest and quaintest Puritan maid that ever wore a white ruff and kerchief. She is considered one of the prettiest of the Oakland young matrons any way, and that dimple in her chin is too adorable for a Puritan maid. The three women who came out as ballet-girls dressed to fit the character, and they could kick and they did. Then there was a "baby," with the ever-present bottle. Her smile was quite a feature of the evening. And poor little Topsy had "growed" anew for the occasion. It would seem as if she had spent at least a week winding her tiny pig-tails.—Wasp.

REV. FRAZER'S RESIGNATION.

The Rev. Hugh Frazer, pastor of Brooklyn Presbyterian Church, Oakland, whose resignation has been accepted by his congregation, is about to leave for Victoria, British Columbia. The people have certainly not treated him very considerately, but then they paid him, and he declined to be stylish, and I am sure that is very little to ask of a preacher who is paid $900 per annum. True, he has been with the East Oakland congregation for fifteen years, and they want a younger man. Mr. Frazer is about 45, and, as every one of any thought knows, this is a crime of itself. He is, besides, a scholar, and his life is as simple as is his creed. To do a little good as he journeys over the road by which he may never return; to leave men a trifle happier because he has passed by, bearing the message of the Master—that is the ambition of Mr. Frazer, as he explained it to me several weeks ago.

But it is doubtful which would appeal most strongly to the exclusive set of Oakland—this gentle creed or the sermons that can be printed in the daily papers and that will get the pastor talked about as one who has always something "new to say." There is one thing about the East Oakland congregation, they have not the courage of their convictions. When they told the clergyman that they were tired of his ministrations and he replied that he should at once tender his resignation, they were, or seemed to be, sorry. Anyway, they gave him a rousing reception, and I have heard that those who were loudest in considering Mr. Frazer as an "old crank" actually wept liquid tears when they said, "Good-bye and God bless you!"

The First Presbyterian Church of Victoria, British Columbia, has called Mr. Frazer. Its members explain that they "wanted a spiritual man." I told that to a woman of the congregation, and she apologized in this wise: "They are away behind the times, you know, over there in Canada."—Wasp.

BOLIVIA PEACE TREATY MAY SOON BE SIGNED

NEW YORK, October 8.—It is believed that a peace treaty with Bolivia will be signed within a week, says a Herald dispatch from Valparaiso de Chile. Negotiation are being carried on in Lapaz under favorable auspices. Congress will begin a special session October 10.

The President's message contains thirty bills most of which have been awaiting enactment for years. It is not likely, adds the correspondent, that they will pass this time, notwithstanding their great importance.

MONTANA ELKS IN CONVENTION

HELENA, Mont., October 8.—The State Association of Elk Lodges of Montana has convened in this city. By a formal resolution the association endorsed Dr. W. H. Haviland, of Butte, one of the most prominent Elks in the Northwest, for the office of Grand Trustee of the Grand Lodge, which is to meet next year in Buffalo, N. Y. A resolution commending the past administration of Former Grand Exalted Rule Fanning was passed. About 500 Elks are in attendance.

SUIT DECIDED AGAINST ADMINISTRATOR GRAY

The contest between the Public Administrators of Alameda and San Francisco counties for letters of administration upon the estate of Joanna Harrigan, was heard yesterday by Judge Hall, who decided that the San Francisco official was entitled to act in the matter.

Public Administrator Gray was represented by Attorney John S. DeLancey, and Administrator Hynes by Attorney Hickey. It was explained by Hickey that Mrs. Harrigan, who died in Oakland on August 10, really was a resident of San Francisco, that her interests and such property as she possessed was there, and that Administrator Hynes was the proper person to administer her estate. The court accepted this view of the matter. Mrs. Harrigan was an aged domestic, who died leaving a large sum of money in a San Francisco bank, the bank book being in the possession of her former employer.

MILLIONAIRE SOON TO BE OUT OF JAIL

NEW YORK, October 8.—Albert Adams, known for years as the "Policy King" of New York, will be released next Tuesday morning from Sing Sing prison. He was sentenced under the policy law to not less than one year and not more than one year and nine months. The full term would not expire until January next but under commutation for good behavior it expires on Tuesday.

Adams is rated as a millionaire and it is reported he will sail at once for Europe.
